No Real Supremacy With Either Side at Present, Says Noted Kansas Editor After Visit to the Front and This Country's Task Is to Build Flying Machines in Such Numbers as to Overwhelm Teutonic Resources.

THE lines that follow shall be devoted to the air game; somewhat to the European air game; somewhat to the American air game viewed from a European angle. To begin let us admit the truth frankly—the allies have not the mastery of the air. Perhaps the Germans have no air supremacy, for there may be no such animal. Certainly the allies haven't it. Indeed the word supremacy means so many different kinds of things in the air game that to claim it all in one phrase is a large order. So that at the outset of this discussion it may be well to consider definitions and terms.

There is, first of all, the lowest kind of supremacy—the largest number of all kind of air craft. Which means little unless the majority is overwhelmingly on one side, and at the present the majority is hardly evident. In sheer numbers of machines neither side has much advantage. Next there is supremacy of speed, which in a few cases seems to lie with the Germans, but not with enough planes to make that kind of supremacy important. Then there is supremacy of ceiling, the maximum altitude to which a plane is capable of rising to get the advantage of position in an encounter. Possibly that supremacy may for the moment rest with the German fighting plane. Battle lines in air now range well above 20,000 feet and a plane that stops at 15,000 feet, speaking broadly and allowing for certain qualifications to be made later, need not go up at all. It is defeated at the hangar.

Supremacy in bombing cars—which are not fighting cars at all, but cars to be conveyed by fighters, rest so far as size and quality of the plane, with the Italians. Supremacy in planes to be used for controlling artillery fire seems to be with the French. And for supremacy of fighting air men—there is a drawn battle again and it must be remembered that for every hundred men who enlist in the air service, only one lone man proves himself an air fighter of first quality. The rest either go to the discard or they man other than fighting planes; observation planes, photographing planes or bombing cars or long distance reconnaissance planes.

Chivalry of Air Men

The Germans, the French and the English have their "aces," as these air fighters are called, and no fighting air man is likely to claim the supremacy of the air for his own country. For the esprit de corps of the fighting men is one of the finest things of the war. Indeed, it seems likely that history will say that in this war there was no chivalry except that of the air men.

From these preliminaries it may be well to go to the consideration of national aims as to the military value and use of the airplane; these can vary widely. The French believe firmly that the only reason for aircraft in war is to furnish eyes to the field gunners. To protect their eyes, the French believe that fighting planes are necessary; they believe that photographing planes help, and that the use of bombing planes may be expressed in the terms of counter irritants. But gun control is the chief end of the airman in the French catechism.

The Italians believe in bombing. They have developed two types—the biplane and the triplane, the latter a big bombing plane—the Caproni, with three 250-horsepower engines. An Italian plane flew from Turin to London in seven hours, and another plane made a much longer flight from Turin to Rome and return, without landing. These cars can carry over a ton of explosives, and before next year is well in, the Italians hope to have a bombing car plane that will stay up longer and carry a larger load than the present plane.

Incidentally, it may be well to remember that all this time the Germans are preparing an air campaign to meet our campaign. It is known that Germany expects to have 2000 big, fast battle planes on the western front next spring.

Efficacy of Bombing

The English were naturally inclined to believe in fighting and observation planes, but the air raids on London have forced the British to see something of advantage in bombing planes. As an answer to the Germans' raiding planes, the English have developed a London sky-barrage from the anti-aircraft guns—a curtain of fire thrown up into the heavens, spraying shrapnel, through which the enemy hesitates to fly. And above the upper line of the sky curtain English high-flying battle planes drop bombs above the barrage, so that the German is forced higher. But street traffic is stopped also; for what goes up must come down and a considerable part of the casualty list in London is caused by English shrapnel during a raid.

Speed supremacy for the moment seems to be with the Germans in a few machines, but not enough to be decisive. The best of the fighting planes has a speed of 130 miles an hour and the standard speed of an observer is 112 an hour. Doubtless from all sides the spring will see speed increased—and the factor of safety and design and construction of the planes lessened. The necessary weakness of the big Caproni machine is its small-like pace of 90 miles an hour.

When opens up the whole question of the efficacy of bombing. There is no agreement on the subject. Dropping bombs on London has had no military meaning, London is a thickly settled city; yet more than half its inclusive area is composed of streets, parks, gardens and open spaces. Bombs frequently are timed to explode 20 feet below the point of first contact and therefore do little damage to life in a house below the third story from the top. If the people hunt cover during a raid, and keep out of the upper stories of these houses, the casualty list is small.

Aim in bomb dropping is notoriously poor. And probably the bombing machine, unless it shall be operated in large numbers and by the thousands in a single raid, will hardly be an important weapon of war. But the machine-gun car for air fighting—a car designed to chase off enemy observers or enemy bombers—is of known efficiency. No one questions its value. But the whole question of shelling and bombing, whether from a gun in the air or a gun on the ground, is an interesting question.

Two guns on the French front this summer in two and one-half months belched out 2000 tons of shells and did not move forward an inch. Doubtless hundreds of other guns made a similar record. It costs tremendously to kill a man in war. The job may be done easier by speeding up the motor traffic of a downtown section of any city two miles an hour for a week.

Now the European air game has moved for three years with great rapidity. It is becoming a fairly exact science. Certain things are known rather definitely about it, as for instance, that the struggle for increased speed and ceiling, which is largely dependent upon lowering the total weight, have forced engine designers to use higher and higher compression in order to produce and maintain greater mean-effective

50 Minutes With the World's Champion Spender

Lord Northcliffe, Head of the British War Mission in the U. S., Tells How He Disburses $7620 Every Minute of the Year

In Rapid Fire Interview, Famous London Editor Describes the System Under Which 10,000 Keen Buyers for the British Government Operate in America Under His Supervision and for the Actions of Each of Whom He Is Responsible.

By Samuel McCoy.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 10.

AMAN who is spending money at the rate of $127 a second continuously, second after second, day and night, is a character who arrests the attention, no matter what he is spending that money for. Is there a person on earth who will not pause to look twice at a man who is pointed out as spending $456,600 an hour every hour in the twenty-four?

I happened to be standing near him a few days when he made the remark that was printed in a thousand newspapers the next morning. "I spend between fifty and eighty million dollars a week." He was then addressing several thousand American business men who were assembled at the "war convention" held by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at Atlantic City. So it flashed across my mind that I'd like to have a closer view of this champion spender of the ages. The opportunity came just a week later. Again he visited Atlantic City, this time to address 3000 American bankers holding their annual convention. My hopes were more than fulfilled. He walked with me arm-in-arm one morning for fifty minutes. During that time, I afterward figured out on the back of an envelope, he had spent a trifle of $380,500.

I was shown up to his suite of rooms. His secretary, whose name was Price, a youngish man whose hair was funnily black and whose information impressed me as so abysmally profound that it plunged its owner into the settled cheerfulness of an undertaker's assistant, received me. "How much time will he have for me?" I asked. "Enough, I'm sure," was the smiling reply. "He says more in 10 minutes than most men in an hour."

His Own Interest in His Story.

"I waited, somewhat perturbed over this picture. And then, a moment later, the door of the adjoining room opened, there emerged a shortish, heavily set man, with a square boyish face and dark hair combed in a forelock over his left eyebrow, who in one breath apologized for keeping me waiting 40 seconds, asked if I'd mind a walk while we talked, offered a cigarette from his brown leather monogrammed case and wondered if the typewriter sent up to the suite had been sent as an advertisement. This was Alfred Harmsworth, Lord Northcliffe, head of the British war mission to the United States.

An athletic-looking, pleasant-faced chap followed him as we walked toward the elevator. Northcliffe grinned at him over his shoulder.

"I say, Mac," he queried, "have you seen about taxis? They've been ringing me up about taxis and all that sort of thing. You've seen to everything?"

"Mac" assured him that all was arranged. Later the head of the British war mission explained to me, with that engaging boyish delight which marks him, that "good old Mac" had been assigned to him from the United States Secret Service as a bodyguard, and that Mac's efficiency surpassed belief.

We emerged on the Boardwalk. The rain had stopped, but the sky was still a seamless gray and the air heavy with moisture—the sort of a day which might have depressed an American. Until that moment I had never realized how almost pathetically a Briton in the United States, sundered from the fogs of the tight little isle, must long for England's misty weather. Northcliffe expanded like a flower.

"Jove, this is real English weather," he chorled. "None of that beastly glare from the sea!"

He adjusted yellow sunglasses over his spectacles to make assurance doubly sure. "Where's that big typewriter they've got here as an advertisement? Must see it—good old Price is crazy over it—won't be happy till I get to see it, too."

10,000 Shoppers Work for Him.

He set off happily. "Now, just what is it you want with me?" he asked, nudging his companion's shoulder chummily. He was a boy on a holiday, not the head of the British War Mission.

"Why, when you spoke here last week, you remarked that you were spending between fifty and one hundred million dollars a week."

"No, from fifty to eighty millions, that's it."

"And it occurred to me that you must be the greatest spendthrift in the world's history."

Northcliffe smiled, but took the appellation calmly.

"So I am," he acknowledged.

His perception of the "news value" of the subject was lightning-like. "Exactly. People want to know just how a man spends an amount like that. Most interesting. Tremendous subject. Nobody knows, you know. Talking to a group of your big men in Washington the other day—really, they hadn't an idea of the immensity of it."

He beamed. He was delighted as a boy who is deep in a game—and is winning at it. "Most people think of the British mission as a group of a dozen men or so," he went on. "Of course, there is a small group at the head of it, but as a matter of fact, there are 10,000 men in the British mission to the United States. We've 10,000 men over here to do our buying. I'm responsible, of course, for all of them."

The picture was complete. Here was indeed the greatest spendthrift in the world's history, responsible for the disbursement of $4,000,000,000 yearly, so gigantic a task that there were needed 10,000 agents under him, whose whole duty it was to spend, spend, spend!

England Buys With Uncle Sam.

One saw in fancy these hard-headed spenders scattered all over the United States, clustered at the munition factories, the grain exchanges, the shipping exchanges, the cattle yards, at a thousand places. Did they have to meet competition from other buyers, competition that would drive prices upward?

"Oh, yes, we used to be obliged to bid in the open market. Had to pay a rueful smile '81-2 cents a pound for steel, for example. But that was before you got your Exports Administrative Board established, with Judge Lovett to pass on priority of demands. Now the United States and England buy side by side. We used to be represented over here by the Morgan house, but now all our buying is done through the Lovett board, as it should be. But we've our own offices, of course—two or three big suites in New York and others at a hundred other points.

"Of course, before your exports board was established we had salesmen of ever conceivable sort overrunning our offices all day long. Hordes of 'em in our ante-rooms. Used to seem to me that most of them had nothing in stock but nerve. Hadn't a factory to their names—just depended on getting an order from us and then going out and finding a factory on the strength of the order." (A chuckle.)

I wondered in what direction most of England's money went over here. Like a good many other people, I had a notion that the largest item in the spendthrift's purchases was food. One hears so much about the constant stream of wheat, meat, corn and other foodstuffs going abroad to our allies that it is not strange that the ordinary person thinks of food as being the chief article that is leaving our shores. I hazarded a guess and asked Lord Northcliffe if food did not take 50 per cent of the $50,000,000 and more that he is spending weekly.

He didn't agree. He was sure that it wasn't 50 per cent or anywhere near that proportion, although it was, he conceded, a big item. Since that conversation I have made a discovery which surprised me. It is this: That of all the $5,000,000,000 worth of exports from the United States during the 12 months that ended in June of this year, meat and dairy products, breadstuffs,

All the Buying Now Is Done Alongside of Uncle Sam, Who Sees That His Allies as Well as Himself Get a Square Deal and the Cut-Throat Competition That Prevailed Before We Entered the War Has Been Eliminated—How Shopping Is Done.

refined sugar and glucose all put together did not make up much more than a tenth part of the whole.

Still, the amount of breadstuffs exported from the United States in the 12 months preceding June was worth $113,000,000, almost double the amount exported in the year before the war began; and a spendthrift may be regarded as a pretty hefty bread eater who says casually to Uncle Sam, "Oh, just wrap me up a couple of million pounds of flour for this week's baking."

"It's impossible to say what commodities make up the bulk of our purchases," Northcliffe went on, "because they vary from day to day. One week we're buying grain, the next something else—copper, for instance; tremendous amount of copper."

One wouldn't be far wrong, perhaps, if one estimated the amount of copper, in raw metal and manufactured, to be purchased from Uncle Sam by England this year at $250,000,000 worth. "I say, old chap, while you're wrapping up that flour, y'know, just slip a copper mine or two in the basket; there's an old dear!"

About a half billion dollars' worth of explosives went to England from the United States last year. And yet—I'd mention that we were tramping past Steeplechase Pier at the moment—I heard Northcliffe say:

"We're not buying so much munitions from you now, of course. Got our own plants started; enormous scale; war an immense boom to our own industries; workmen's earnings tremendously increased."

War Encouraging Workmen's Thrift.

The thought started him off on a subject dear to his heart, England's success in raising revenues for the war. "Marvelous, y'know, how we're raising the money for all this. Just placed another loan, this time for six billions, you know. Sold half billion in war certificates among workmen. Man who never owned a bond before in his life has one now. Thrift is what's made it possible. Astonishing! The wage earner is now an actual sharer in the profits of government."

From that he drifted to another thought and to a prediction which seemed to me the most remarkable conclusion to be drawn from the world war.

"Met one of your big business men at the convention here last week," he said. "Chap named Filene, from Boston. Runs a big shop up there and pays his employees a percentage of its profits. That is the basis that must come in all business. No, it is entirely different from the Henry Ford idea of paying a man unusually large wages. This makes him a sharer in the business. When the men get back from the trenches that's the sort of thing they are going to demand. Socialism is inevitable after the war."

I reminded him of the remark which Herbert Hoover had made in the course of an address before the same convention that Northcliffe had addressed, the warning that "we are drifting toward the rocks of Socialism."

"Yes," said Northcliffe. "Hoover did say that, but there is Socialism and Socialism. The soldiers are the ones that are going to run affairs when they get back. They know exactly what they want, and they'll get it! There's no such thing as irresponsible Socialism that is nothing but anarchy. They have made their sacrifices to the uttermost, and when they return they will see to it that they control the Government."

"Why," he added, "did not your own soldiers in the Civil War do that very thing and control this nation for two decades? They elected Grant for two terms, they elected Garfield, they elected McKinley, too, didn't they? And there will be incomparable greater social changes brought about by this war, just as in its destruction of human life it is greater than all other wars. Do you realize that at the battles of Verdun alone there were more men disabled than there were in the entire four years of your Civil War?"

Suffering on so gigantic a scale as this, seemed the tacit conclusion, could not come to pass without social changes toward higher levels commensurate with the nation's travail.

He paused to look at his watch, torn between his desire to see the big typewriter that "good old Price" had told him about and the necessity of catching his train. "How much further is it to the typewriter?" he asked. "Old Price will never forgive me if I don't see it!" We kept on.

Buying Whole Cities in Wartime.

He took up once more the immensity of the purchase which a nation must make in order to carry on a war such as this.

"Why," he exclaimed, "do you know that you will have to send over whole cities the size of Bridgeport to be put behind your lines?"

"Back of every division of your troops you'll

Lansing-Ishii Agreement Held to Be Inconsistent With Our Chinese Policy

Does Our Formal Recognition of Japan's "Special Interests" Close the "Open Door?"

By STERLING E. EDMUNDS,

Lecturer on International Law, St. Louis University Law School.

THE significance of the Lansing-Ishii agreement, with respect to China, is revealed only through a retrospect of our diplomatic relations touching that state during the last two decades.

In January, 1898, Germany forced China to cede Kiao-chau to her under a 99-year lease as alleged compensation for the murder of two German missionaries. Russia forced a similar lease of Port Arthur for a 25-year term. Great Britain compelled the cession of Wei-hai-wei, "for so long a term as Russia occupied Port Arthur," while France obtained a 99-year lease to Kwang-chau. All of this was justified by the European "lessees" to preserve "the balance of power" in the Orient.

The United States as the traditional friend of China, possessing valuable treaty rights, became alarmed over the partitioning process and on Sept. 6, 1899, Secretary Hay addressed an identical note to London, Berlin and St. Petersburg, with the object of halting dismemberment and preserving the Open Door. The American note requested each Power to respect existing treaty ports and vested interests; to allow the Chinese tariff to be maintained and collected in the respective spheres of influence; and to preserve equality of treatment of foreigners in port and railroad rates.

Britain First to Accede. Great Britain was the first to accede; the other Powers, subsequently including France, Italy and Japan, expressed sympathy for the principle but were disinclined to acquiesce unless all of the others should do so. Secretary Hay forced a general acceptance by shrewdly notifying each that in view of favorable replies from the others, he considered that Power's acceptance as "final and definitive." As William Roscoe Thayer relates in his life of John Hay:

"By what was one of the most adroit strokes of diplomacy, Hay thus accustomed the world to accept the open door as the only decent policy for it to adopt toward China. Not one of the Governments concerned wished to agree to it; each saw more profit to itself in exploiting what it had already secured and in jolting in the scramble for more; but not one of them, after they had declared for the open door, dared openly to oppose the doctrine. It was as if, in a meeting, he had asked all those who believed in telling the truth to stand up; the liars would not have kept their seats."

The open door policy of the United States includes in its essence, not only the territorial integrity and administrative entity of China, but, to use Hay's phrase, "to insure at the same time to the commerce of all nations in China the undoubted benefits which should accrue from a formal recognition by the various Powers claiming spheres of influence that they shall enjoy perfect equality of treatment for their commerce and navigation within such spheres."

Root-Takahira Agreement. Following the Russo-Japanese war by which Japan had succeeded Russia at Port Arthur, and had seized Korea, Secretary Root and the Japanese Ambassador, Takahira, confirmed the open door policy and bound the two states as joint guarantors of China's integrity. In the following five articles of the so-called Root-Takahira agreement, dated Nov. 30, 1905:

"1. It is the wish of the two Governments to encourage the free and peaceful development of their commerce in the Pacific Ocean.

"2. The policy of both Governments, uninfluenced by aggressive tendencies, is directed to the maintenance of the existing status quo in the region above mentioned and to the defense of the principle of equal opportunity for commerce and industry in China.

"3. They are accordingly firmly resolved reciprocally to respect the territorial possessions belonging to each other in said regions.

"4. They are also determined to preserve the common interests of all Powers in China by supporting by all possible means at their disposal the independence and integrity of China, and the principle of equal opportunity for commerce and industry in that empire.

"5. Should any event occur threatening the status quo as above described, or the principle of equal opportunity as above defined, it remains for the two Governments to communicate with each other in order to arrive at an understanding as to what measure they may consider it useful to take."

This agreement was not only a public pledge on the part of the United States and Japan themselves to respect the territorial integrity of China and to maintain without special privileges the open door, but it constituted a warning to all other states entertaining aggressive designs.

Japan's Demands on China. In the early part of 1915, when nearly all Europe was at war and the United States was an anxious neutral, Japan presented five groups of demands to China, intimating that the restoration of Kiao-chau—which she had previously promised to restore—might be contingent upon acquiescence. The demands covered a new 99-year lease on Port Arthur and Dairen, exclusive of the right to appoint military and political advisers from among Japanese, and a pledge that China would grant no territory to any 'third' Power, Japan being excepted as a second Power.

These demands constituted clearly a violation of the Root-Takahira agreement, concerning which we were not frankly advised; and on May 11, 1915, the United States Government dispatched identical notes to China and Japan, declaring that the United States "cannot recognize any agreement or undertaking which has been entered into or which may be entered into between the Governments of China and Japan, impairing the treaty rights of the United States and of its citizens in China, the political or territorial integrity of the republic of China or the international policy relative to China commonly known as the open door policy."

So far as the United States was concerned, that appears to have been the limit of our assertion of our rights. It was provoked by the presentation of Japan to China on May 7 of the following ultimatum, intended to hasten negotiations:

"The Imperial Government hereby again offer their advice and hope that the Chinese Government, upon this advice, will give a satisfactory reply by 6 o'clock p. m. on the ninth day of May. It is hereby declared that if no satisfactory reply is received before or at the specified time the Imperial Government will take such steps as they may deem necessary."

The Japanese threat was effective and on May 25, China entered into many formal exchanges of notes and into two treaties with Japan, granting all of the demands of the first four groups in modified form. They include the new 99-year lease of Port Arthur and Dairen, a pledge to give Japanese capital preference in the building of railroads connecting with the Kiao-chau system; preference as to Japanese capital in South Manchuria and Eastern Inner Mongolia, exclusive railroad and mining concessions in South Manchuria and exclusive privilege for Japanese in the operation of the great German industrial corporation known as the Hanyuiping company.

In the light of this history the significance of the Lansing-Ishii agreement may be understood. The most important paragraph in the text declares:

"The Governments of the United States and Japan recognize that territorial propinquity creates special

WHY THINGS ARE SCARCE.

From the Christian Science Monitor.

HERE is no "famine," or sign of "famine," or excuse for anticipating or talking about "famine" of any kind in the United States. The country is a land of plenty, and it should be too grateful for its blessings to listen to those who proclaim "shortages" of supply in their efforts to hide or excuse economic blunders or wrong intentions. If the products of the soil, the mines and the forests were conserved and distributed as they should be there would be no need in the United States today for food or fuel commissions. Products are scarce and high either because they are conserved or hoarded, as cotton and sugar were recently found to be, or because they are excluded from the natural channels of trade and from the markets by a wholly inadequate distribution system. Let us pass over the 1,000,000 bales of cotton found hidden, the other day, while a cotton "famine" was being proclaimed, and the 10,000,000 pounds of sugar found to have been concealed while a sugar "famine" was being heralded. Never were greater quantities of potatoes grown in the United States than were produced this year. Yet there was a potato "famine" in certain parts of the East last week, which, however, in response to the indignant demands of consumers, was "relieved" by the timely arrival of several trainloads. There are minor and incidental causes, of course, for "scarcities" and "famines" in the most fertile and productive agricultural country in the world, but the one principal reason for them is the failure of the nation's distribution system to bring products expeditiously and cheaply to consumers. There is plenty of grain and meat; there are plenty of vegetables; there are plenty of sugar-yielding plants; there are plenty of eggs; there is plenty of butter and milk; there is plenty of everything; but it is neither regularly, expeditiously nor evenly distributed. It would pay the United States to invest a billion dollars in the establishment of a distribution system that would effectually distribute. It would pay the United States Government to give the railroads of the country a billion dollars, on a guarantee that they would furnish such a system.

The Sinn Féin Aspiration.

MRS. JOHN RICHARD GREEN in the Atlantic Monthly.

YOUNG Ireland in fact is coming to its full age. The demands of the Sinn Féiners are based on principles not unworthy. They desire intensely the union of all Irish citizens, and that all should share in the full responsibilities of free men. The one thing they seek—Republicans and Constitutionalists alike—is a definite deliverance from British interference in Irish affairs. All Irishmen believe that this is the only way to assure the lasting friendship of the peoples. The English have many great qualities, and no one admits their fine attributes more readily than Irishmen. Friends of Ireland have arisen in Britain who have labored to redress evils and whose labors have been warmly recognized by the Irish. But where the whole system of government is false, English friends must ultimately prove as helpless to find redress as the Irish people. To the Irish view the British have utterly failed in the imperial temper. Their statesmanship has not been such as to mark them as an imperially minded race. The time has come for a new beginning.

The Negro Migration.

RALPH W. TYLER in Pearson's.

Organized labor has little to fear from this negro exodus to the North, for the reason that 95 per cent of the labor that has come North has taken the place of alien or foreign labor. The per cent of Southern negro labor that has taken the place of striking white labor is an infinitesimal part. Northern organized labor need have no fear, as expressed by Gov. Cox of Ohio, that labor employed in the North are, perhaps, importing negro labor North to break down labor standards. With winter coming on, the rigors of which are unknown to these birds of passage from the Southland, and because of the increased congestion in their segregated districts in Northern cities, we need not be surprised if the death rate among negroes greatly increases, or if epidemics of contagious break out among them which will spread to the best white sections.

Injuring the Farmer.

From the Wall Street Journal.

RECEIPTS of wheat at primary markets are far below normal. Unfortunately there has been a tendency of late to create a feeling of dissatisfaction among the farmers as to the price fixed. To some pro-German politicians, even members of the Senate, it makes no difference that in fixing the price the Government gave the whole hide to the farmers, they were unjustly treated because the consumer was allowed the tail. There is also a misconception as to the minimum price fixed by Congress for the next crop. That minimum price is specifically limited to the wheat that is harvested in 1918, and does not apply to surplus grain carried over from this crop. There is no guarantee as to the existing price. It is simply what the Government has announced it will pay at the present time for wheat. Encouraging farmers to hold wheat is not a move for their benefit.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Strikes Caused by High Living Cost.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

During these days one can hardly pick up a newspaper without reading of a strike somewhere, and some which threaten "to tie up" many important industries.

Many of these are charged to pro-German propaganda, but if the matter were properly looked into, it could be very easily traced to the ever-increasing high cost of living. In my opinion, at least, 50 per cent of these strikes could be prevented by bringing the necessities of life within reach of the wage-earners.

It looked for a while as though we would get some relief from the food administration, but the prices fixed by the food and fuel administration are still unreasonably high. For instance, coal at $4.95 to $5.70, wheat at $2.18 and $2.20, pork at $15.50 per 100 pounds and, in fact, every necessity of life is unreasonably high. I have yet to see in any single instance where the food administrator has fixed a price to benefit the workingman. And yet people who profess to be well informed say there is not a workingman in the city of St. Louis who cannot buy a Liberty Bond.

My idea is that if the food administrator had taken the prices of 1914-15 as a basis and allowed an increase of from 10 to 20 per cent, as the same for a workingman in the city of St. Louis who cannot buy a Liberty Bond.

Your editorial today (Nov. 5) on the coal question indicates that Mr. Garfield is on a strike and as usual with strikes the public suffers.

Protest From Two War Brides.

We would like to ask the public through your paper why some are exempted on account of dependent wives, married since war was declared, and others not? We have proof that we were to be married many months before the war broke out, and now both of us have to go to work, failing to get exemption on those grounds. One of the brides is too ill to be able to earn her own living for a year or more, and is now under a doctor's care. We notice a particular case of exemption in your paper today. This being a free country and where each should have the same rights, we would like to ask the District board why they don't give all war brides equal chances? We need our husbands' support.

Pay of Reserve Medical Officers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"Will you encourage your family doctor to do his bit?" The above is from Capt. Luedde's letter in your issue of the 6th inst. The writer, being an American physician, felt it was his duty to "do his bit," made application, was examined, passed and commissioned a Lieutenant in the M. O. R. C., and ordered by the Surgeon-General to supply himself with the necessary regulation equipment at his own expense. This he did at a cost of $297.52, and his pay does not begin until ordered on active duty, which may not be for several months. In the meantime his money, which might have gone into Liberty bonds, is tied up in a lot of equipment which he may not need for months, and besides that, being in a German neighborhood, many of his patients have left him and gone to some pro-German doctor.

It seems to me the Government ought to pay the reserve officers at least part pay while not on active duty; anyway, enough to pay him for maintaining an equipment.

Also the police and secret service ought to get busy among the pro-Germans with which this city is overrun, and in some neighborhoods are in the majority.

A FIRST LIEUTENANT, M. O. R. C.

Irish vs. Germans.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It seems that certain unpatriotic men of Irish nationality have been following Sir Roger Casement, the notorious German traitor, who sought to cause trouble for Ireland and England in the interest of Germany. It is a matter of history that the German was the enemy of the Irish race. Since the earliest times, as the Irish race in very early times occupied all of Europe west of the Black Sea and north of Italy. Both German and Swedish history relates that when they overran Europe west of the Black Sea they drove out the Celtic, and history records that they were driven into the corner of Western Europe. It also says that hordes of Celtic Celts were driven across the English Channel. The Germans and Celts are natural enemies, as well as ancient enemies.

NO CAUSE FOR DEPRESSION.

This war will be won by France, Great Britain and the United States. They have the men to win it, they have the money and they have the invincible resolution without which neither men nor money can avail. The Bolshevik revolution in Russia has not changed the situation. It has brought the inevitable civil war one step nearer, but it has not increased the responsibilities or the obligations of French, British and American democracies. This may be said, too, of the Italian defeat.

What may yet come out of the Russian coup d'etat no man can foresee. It is obvious, however, that the Bolsheviks, who have seized Petrograd, can never set up a Government that will rule Russia and direct its politics. No stable government in the whole history of the world was ever established by traitors, fanatics and the orists who have yet to learn the first principle of organized self-control. Without a stable government that can rule and enforce its decisions, Russia can make no separate or immediate peace with Germany. It cannot recall troops from the trenches unless these troops recognize its authority, and it is plain that the differences in the Russian armies are as acute as the differences in the civilian population.

Any peace that the Bolshevik leaders may make will necessarily be a peace on the part of soldiers who have already ceased fighting and are concerned almost wholly with the seizure and division of the landed estates.

The Bolshevik coup d'etat has added immeasurably to the difficulties of establishing a government that can govern Russia. But it has solved none of Berlin's military or economic problems. German troops must still hold the line, even with Russia plunged into a civil war, and there is no food for German stomachs in the pretentious proclamations of the Soviet.

In spite of what has happened in Russia and Italy, Germany is beaten. The Russian counter-revolution and the Italian collapse may prolong the resistance of the German peoples by renewing the hope of a favorable peace, but Germany is as surely beaten as the Southern Confederacy was in 1864, when Early's troops camped in sight of Washington and could have seized the capital. The United States will unquestionably be obliged to increase its efforts; the American people must abandon the notion that the war will be won for them by Russians and Italians, or that anybody can do for them what they must do for themselves. But Germany, nevertheless, will be beaten and the victory will be won by France, Great Britain and the United States, whatever happens to Russia, whatever happens to Italy and whatever happens to any other country that is at war with Prussianism.

An ounce of meat wasted in every American home each day for a year would amount to 3,000,000 cattle. Eliminate that ounce in YOUR home.

THE HEN AND THE EGG.

It is to be hoped that Prof. Abbott of Washington University will get the fertile hen eggs for which he is advertising. The professor teaches embryology and as eggs are about as embryonic as anything that we have, he requires eggs in order that the ends of education may be served. The professor does not desire eggs for food. If he did he would not be particular whether they were fertile or not, just so they were reasonably fresh. No, he does not need them for nourishment, neither he nor his students. He wants to use them to fertilize the embryonic brains of freshmen. For this purpose only fertilized eggs will do, and even they will not always do, on account of the infertility of the freshman brain.

When the professor wants to teach his class in embryology which was first, the hen or the egg, he takes an egg obtained from a hen, with another presumptive hen inside of it, and incubates it a day or two or three days and opens it up to show the students how the new hen is coming along. If the egg is sterile, it is found that the new hen is not coming along. It takes a mighty smart professor to get a new hen out of a barren egg. Well, there is an egg wasted which might have been fertile, and days of incubation wasted and the eternal priority question of the egg vs. the hen no nearer solution than when the first egg was incubated or the first hen hatched.

It is very discouraging. So the professor is offering 10 cents above the market price for fertile eggs, and we hope that all owners of fertile eggs will step forward and contribute them to the professor's incubator.

The British have taken Gaza. Perhaps the gates which Samson carried away had never been put back.

THE FARMER AND THE LOANS.

There has been some dissatisfaction expressed as to the part played by the farmer in the two Liberty Loans. It is felt that he has not been aroused to a full appreciation of the powerful assistance he can give the nation not only in raising foodstuffs but in investing his large profits in Government securities.

It is calculated that the annual net income of the United States, that is, the sum left over after living expenses, taxes and interest, are deducted, amounts to eleven billion dollars. Of this sum the farmers' net profit is figured to be seven billions, while the remaining four billions represent the net profit of the non-agricultural activities of the country. Yet by far the larger part of the two loans was taken by the non-agricultural classes. Just what the percentages were has not been computed as yet, but the Government is attempting to formulate a scientific analysis.

The farmer may not appreciate that in respect of war taxes, he occupies an undoubted advantageous situation. He may be said to have a larger and more elastic exemption than most of us in the matter of the income taxes; for example: Taking the case of the wage-earner, the head of a family, receiving $4000 a year, deducts his $2000 exemption and pays his tax upon the remaining $2000. The farmer, on the other hand, who raises crops equivalent to $4000 a year, will consume not less than $2000 of their value in his own household, and claiming his exemption of $2000 bill, pays no income taxes at all.

It has been pointed out further that Congress added no war taxes to such necessities as coffee and sugar, to which the farmer mainly confines his purchases.

Enjoying such a situation it behooves the farmer not only to enlarge his crops, but to aid his Government and himself with the most liberal purchases of bonds out of his unquestionably large profits.

ACCURATE ESTIMATE OF GERMANY.

In an official bulletin of the Agricultural Department Secretary Houston points out that Germany's contributions to scientific progress in discovery and invention are really very much less than have been claimed for her by some. He declares that in efficiency, despite the tributes she has won, Germany is much inferior to some other nations.

This view cannot be said to be based merely on German limitations and shortcomings disclosed in a prejudiced survey after we became the enemies of Germany. Our disillusionment on the subject of alleged German superiority began long before the opening of the war in Europe. Analysis showed us that the mechanical German mind was rather clever at taking the ideas of others and perfecting them and adapting them to new uses, but that most of the conceptions of the first importance during modern times had originated with other nations.

Doubtless some of those who used to extol German accomplishments to the disparagement of all other nations, particularly our own, were honest. But we must now conclude that the greater part of what has been printed during the last 15 years describing the perfection of the German system and the magnitude of their achievements was only a contribution to those prodigious activities which we now know under the name of reptile German propaganda.

THE STATLER HOTEL.

The Statler Hotel, which was formally opened yesterday, puts St. Louis on the modern hotel map.

That the Statler Hotel Co. chose St. Louis as the fourth city in its group of hotels and built here so costly and beautiful a structure, with a complete plant and rich equipment that equals those of the best modern metropolitan hotels, is significant of confidence in the ability of St. Louis to support a hotel of this type now and of faith in the city's future.

The building and equipment are not intended to provide for the traveling public alone; a large part of the space and the best of the equipment are provided for the use of St. Louisans. Travelers would be satisfied with comfortable rooms at reasonable prices and an adequate restaurant for their simple requirements, but the Statler has a half-dozen dining rooms, from the grill in the basement to the superb ball and banquet room on the nineteenth floor.

The success of this, as of all hotels in cities of the St. Louis class, depends as much upon St. Louis as upon the traveling public. If St. Louisans do not appreciate and use its special equipment it will be at least a partial failure—it will be a mere tavern for the passing traveler. If St. Louisans prove their appreciation of the best that is offered, the Statler Hotel is only a station in the path of progress for the greater St. Louis to come.

We feel sure we express the hearty sentiment of all St. Louis in welcoming the Statler forces to St. Louis and congratulating them upon the splendid result they have achieved.

TODAY IS ARMENIAN SUNDAY.

Today has been set apart by proclamation of President Wilson as Armenian and Syrian Sunday and devoted especially to contributions for the relief of distressed Christian peoples in Asia Minor.

The appealing nature of the call for help that comes from ancient communities in that part of the world is set forth in the proclamation, issued Oct. 28. More than 2,140,000 survivors of Turkish barbarities are in utter destitution. Their lot is described as less happy than that of the dogs that swarm in the streets of Turkish towns. Of the total of those whose need is desperate, 400,000 are children. The death rate from disease and exhaustion is already appalling. From $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 is required to preserve the lives of these unfortunate and get them through the winter.

The demands on generosity resulting from the innumerable tragedies of the war are many and urgent. Are any, however, more worthy of our care than these pitiable martyrs to German blood-thirstiness and Turkish bigotry? They do not ask for comforts. They ask only the little that will maintain life itself.

DRIVING KRUPPISM FROM JERUSALEM.

The British expedition attacking Turkish control of Palestine has now reached a most interesting stage.

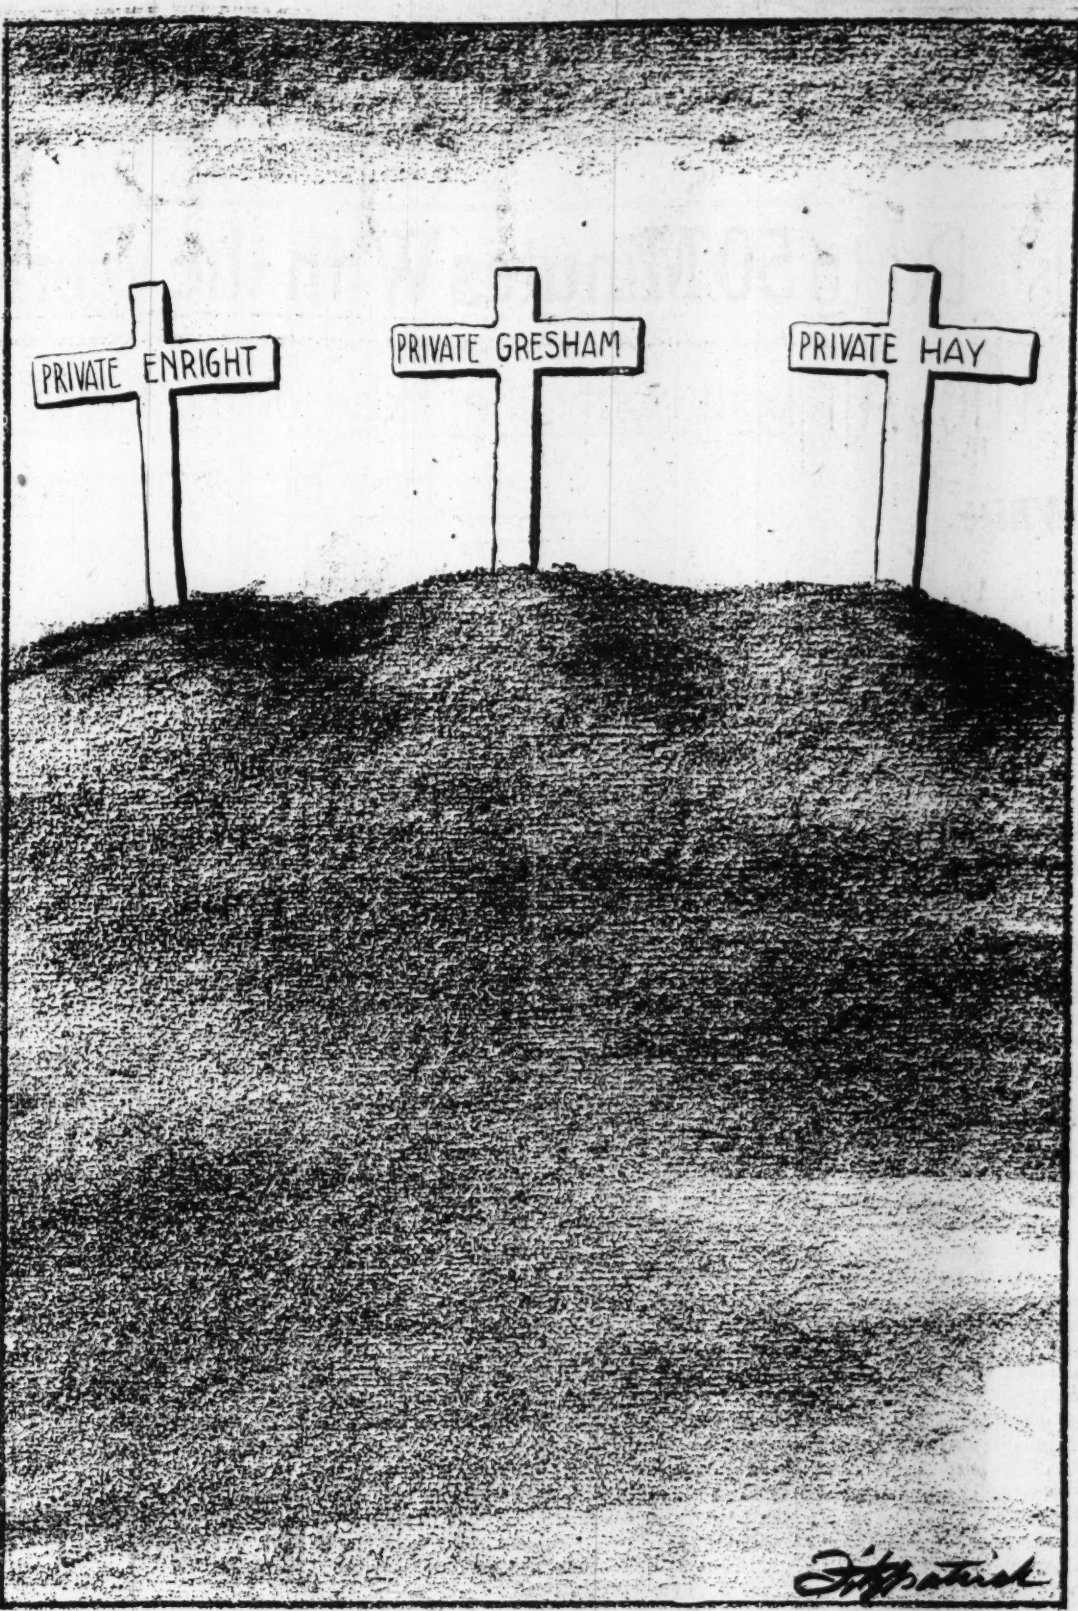

Following from Egypt the general route taken by Napoleon in his invasion of 1818 years ago, it has penetrated to the southern portion of the Holy Land and for many days has been operating in territory whose geographical names are almost as familiar to students of the Bible as names in the vicinity of their own homes.

One of the first of its recent successes of deep interest was the capture of the site Beersheba, where Abraham prepared to sacrifice Isaac, where Esau was cheated of his birthright and where Elijah dwelt for a time. This place is 52 miles from Jerusalem. This week Gaza, three miles from the Mediterranean, was captured. This is one of the most ancient of cities that still preserve an existence.

Apparently the British are advancing on a front of 50 to 70 miles, extending from the Mediterranean to the desert west of the Dead Sea. In fact the right of their front can be separated by only 10 or 15 miles from the western shore of the latter sea.

The very latest reports record the arrival at Tell-el-Sheriah, about 10 miles northeast of a line connecting Gaza and Beersheba. The advance column is said to have captured an obscure village only 29 miles from Jerusalem. Between the front of today and the Holy City were the sites of scores of places given imperishable renown by association with Bible events.

It seems reasonable to assume that one phase of the great war has assumed the character of an eighth crusade and is about to result in the occupation of the city of the Holy Sepulcher.

TO CONGRESSMAN RANKIN.

(Apologies to an Old Song.)

LET me loosen your snood that you wear, Jeannette,
Let me tangle my hands in your hair, my pet,
And I vow to refrain
From pulling your mane,
Though that's sure what I would like to do, Jeannette.

Now list as I lean o'er your chair, Jeannette,
And get these hints 'neath your hair, Jeannette.
Just try to remember
One day last November,
When you swore to be true to your state, Jeannette.

Though war is a terrible curse, Jeannette,
There are lots of things very much worse, Jeannette,
And the good G. O. P.
In the western country
Is somewhat ashamed of its pet, Jeannette.

You agreed that you'd represent us, Jeannette, Without any ladylike fuss, Jeannette, Montana's no piker
You've only to strike her Another such blow, and farewell, Jeannette.

The President stated things straight, Jeannette,
We think that his last speech was great, Jeannette,
And it made us feel sick
And hurt to the quick
When you failed to make good at the start, Jeannette.

We tried out the question with you, Jeannette, Whether women in Congress would do, Jeannette,
But your very first vote
Has sure got the goat
Of the nation, your state and your friends, Jeannette.

I'm afraid that you've sounded the knell, Jeannette,
A cause that you fought for so well, Jeannette.
A man's job is rough
For a girl, sure enough,
And you've settled the question for fair, Jeannette.

So loosen the snood that you wear, Jeannette;
Let me tangle my hands in your hair my pet,
While I whisper again
What at last you've made plain:
Men can do some things better than girls, Jeannette.

ADVENTURE

JACK LONDON'S

Synopsis of the First Installment.

A SCOURGE has descended upon one of the Solomon Islands, where David Sheldon, in the absence of his partner, is conducting their plantation and keeping two hundred savages, workers on the place, under discipline. Desperately ill himself, Sheldon keeps alive by a display of will power. With a death rate of four men a day, things have come to a most serious pass, when the ship Jessie, which brings supplies to the island, arrives in port. But Sheldon's relief at the sight of the vessel is changed to despair when he learns that illness has broken out aboard ship and when his partner is brought ashore in a dying condition. He scurries to the task of taking the plantation "into his fist" once more. He is talking to the captain of the Jessie.

"H AVE you seen the barometer?" Capt. Olsson asked, pausing at the bottom of the steps on his way to oversee the disembarkation of the sick. "No," Sheldon answered. "Is it down?" "It's going down." "Then you'd better sleep aboard tonight," was Sheldon's judgment. "Never mind the funeral. I'll see to poor Hughie." "A nigger was kicking the bucket when I dropped anchor." The captain made the statement as a simple fact, but obviously waited for a suggestion. The other felt a sudden wave of irritation rush through him. "Dump him overboard," he cried. "Great God, man! don't you think I've got enough graves ashore?" "I just wanted to know, that was all," the captain answered, in nowise offended. Sheldon regretted his childishness. "Oh, Capt. Olsson," he called. "If you can see your way to it, come ashore tomorrow and lend me a hand. If you can't, send the mate." "Right O. I'll come myself. Mr. Johnson's dead, sir. I forgot to tell you—three days ago." Sheldon watched the Jessie's captain go down the path, with waving arms and loud curses, calling upon God to sink the Solomons. Next, Sheldon noted the Jessie, rolling lazily on the glassy swell, and beyond, in the northwest, high over Florida Island, an alpine chain of dark-massed clouds. Then he turned to his partner, calling for boys to carry him into the house. But Hughie Drummond had reached the end. His breathing was imperceptible. By mere touch, Sheldon could ascertain that the dying man's temperature was going down. It must have been going down when the thermometer registered 107. He had burned out, Sheldon knew beside him, the houseboys grouped around their white singlets and loincloths peculiarly at variance with their dark skins and savage countenances, their huge earplugs and carved and glistening nose rings. Sheldon tottered to his feet at last and half fell into the steamer chair. Oppressive as the heat had been, it was not even more oppressive. It was difficult to breathe. He panted for air. The faces and naked arms of the houseboys were beaded with sweat. "Marster," one of them ventured, "big fella wind he come, strong fella too much."

Sheldon noted his head but did not look. Much as he loved Hughie Drummond, his death, and the funeral it entailed, seemed an intolerable burden to add to what he was already sinking under. He had a feeling—nay, it was a certitude—that all he had to do was to shut his eyes and let go, and that he would die, sink into immensity of rest, and he knew it. It was very simple. All he had to do was close his eyes and let go; for he had reached the stage where he lived by will alone. His weary body seemed torn by the oncoming pangs of dissolution. He was a fool to hang on. He had died a score of deaths already, and what was the use of prolonging it to two more deaths before he really died? Not only was he not afraid to die, but he desired to die. His weary flesh and weary spirit desired it, and why should the flame of his not go entirely out?

But his mind that would will life or death still ruled on. He saw the two whiteboats land on the beach, and the sick, on stretchers or pick-up-back, groaning and walling, go by in lugubrious procession. He saw the wind making on the clouded horizon and thought of the sick in the hospital. There was something waiting for his hand, to be done, and it was not in his nature to lie down and sleep, or die, when any task remained undone.

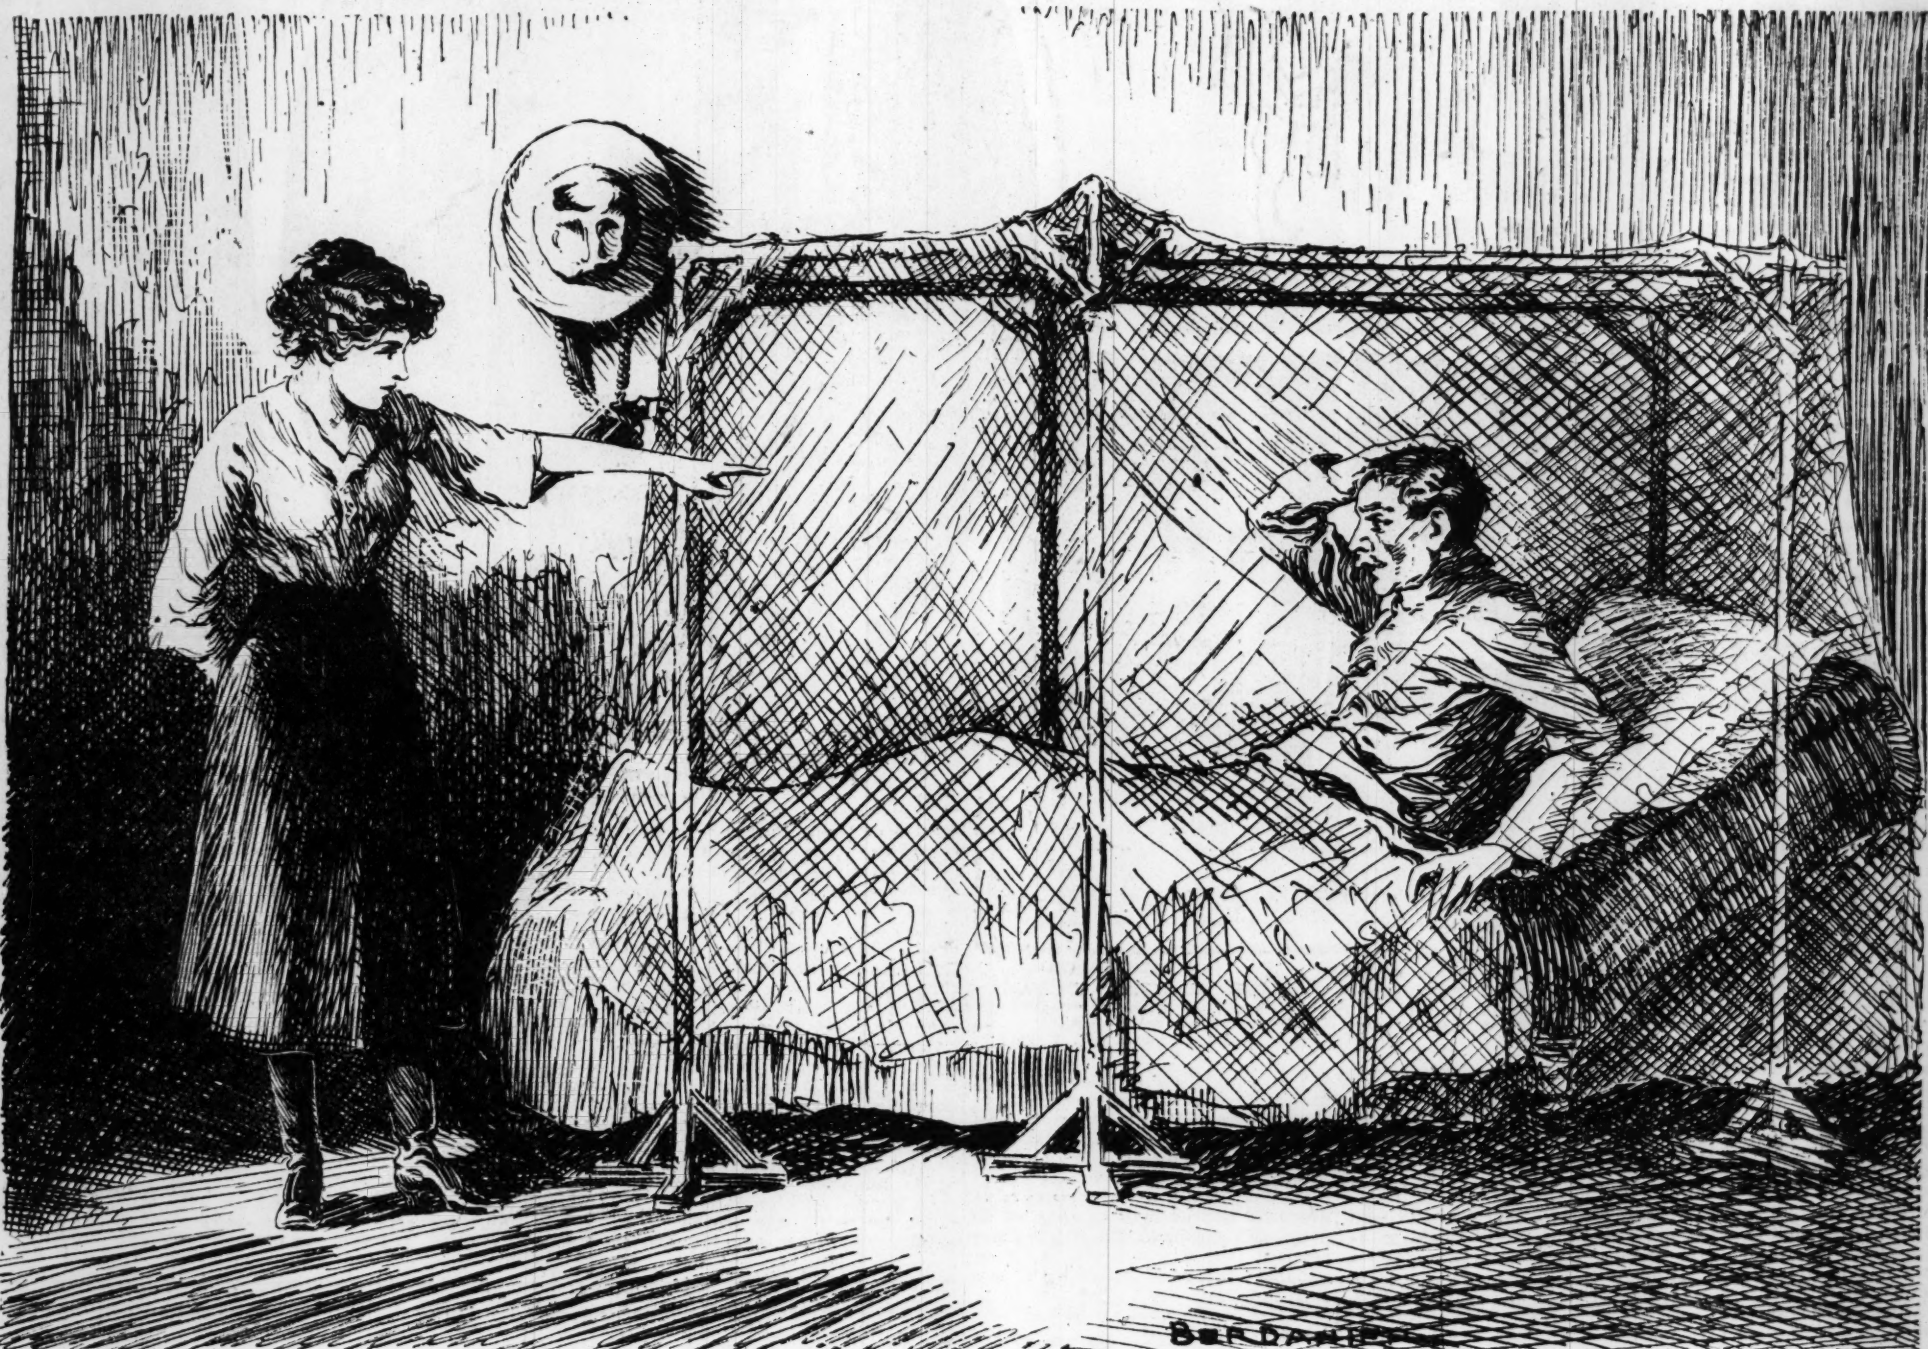

The boss boys were called and given their orders to rope down the hospital with its two additions. He remembered the spare anchor-chain, new and black painted, that hung under the house suspended from the floor beams, and ordered it to be used on the hospital as well. Other boys brought the coffin, a grotesque patchwork of packing cases, and under his directions they laid Hughie Drummond in it. Half a dozen boys carried it to the beach, and he saw them ride on the back of another, his arms around the black's neck, one hand clutching a prayer book.

While he read the service the blacks gazed apprehensively at the dark line on the water, above which rolled and tumbled the racing clouds. The first breath of wind, faint and silken, tonic with life, fanned through his dry-baked body as he finished reading. Then came the second breath of the wind, an angry gust, as the shovels worked rapidly, filling in the sand. So heavy was the gust that Sheldon, still on his feet, seized hold of his man-horse to escape being blown away. The Jessie was blotted out, and a strange ominous sound arose as multitudinous wavelets struck foaming on the beach. It was like the bubbling of some colossal caldron. From all about could be heard the dull thudding of falling coconuts. The tall, delicate-trunked trees twisted and snapped about like whiplashes. The air seemed filled with their flying leaves, any one of which, stem-on, could brain a man. Then came the rain, a deluge, a straight, horizontal sheet that poured along like a river, defying gravitation. The black, with Sheldon, plunged ahead into the thick of it, stooping far forward and low to the ground to avoid being toppled over backward.

"He's sleeping out and far tonight," Sheldon quoted, as he thought of the dead man in the sand and the rainwater trickling down upon the cold clay.

So they fought their way back up the beach. The other blacks caught hold of the man-horse and pulled and tugged. There were among them those whose fondest desire was to drag the rider into repulsive nothingness. But the automatic pistol in his belt, with its rattling, quick-decking death, and the automatic, death-defying spirit in the man himself, made them refrain and buckle down to the task of hauling him to safety through the storm.

Wet through and exhausted, he was never-less surprised at the ease with which he got into a change of clothing. Though he was fearfully weak, he found himself actually feeling better. The disease had spent itself, and the mend had begun.

"Now if I don't get the fever," he said aloud, and at the same moment resolved to go to taking quinine as soon as he was strong enough to dare. He crawled out on the veranda. The rain had ceased, but the wind, which had dwindled to a half gale, was increasing. A big sea had sprung up, and the mile-long breakers, curling up to the overall 200 yards from shore, were crashing on the beach. The Jessie was plunging madly on two anchors, and every second or third sea broke clear over her bow. Two flags were stiffly undulating from the halyards like squares of flexible sheetiron. One was blue, the other red. He knew their meaning in the Berande private code—"What are your instructions? Shall I attempt to land boat?" Tacked on the wall, beneath the signal locker and the billiard rules, was the code itself, by which he verified the signal before making answer. On the flagstaff gaff a boy hoisted a white flag over a red, which stood for: "Run to Neal Island for shelter."

That Capt. Olsson had been expecting this signal was apparent by the celerity with which the shackles were knocked out of both anchor-chains. He slipped his anchors, leaving them buoyed, to be picked up in better weather. The Jessie swung out under her full stay, then the forecast, double-reefed, was run up. She was away like a race horse, clearing Balesuna Shoal with half a cable length to spare. Just before she rounded the point she was swallowed up in a terrific squall that far outblew the first.

All that night, while squall after squall smote Berande, uprooting trees, overthrowing copra sheds and rocking the house on its tall piles, Sheldon slept. He was unaware of the commotion. He never awakened. Nor did he change his position or dream. He awoke, a new man. Furthermore, he was hungry. It was over a week since food had passed his lips. He drank a glass of condensed cream, thinned with water, and by 10 o'clock he dared to take a cup of beef tea. He was cheered, also, by the situation in the hospital. Despite the storm, there had been but one death, and there was only one fresh case, while half a dozen boys crawled weakly away to the barracks. He wondered if it was the wind that was blowing the disease away and cleansing the pestilential land.

By 11 a messenger arrived from Balesuna village, dispatched by Seelee. The Jessie had gone ashore half way between the village and Neal Island. It was not till midnight that two of the crew arrived, reporting the drowning of Capt. Olsson and of the one remaining boy. As for the Jessie, from what they told him, Sheldon could not but conclude that she was a total loss. Further to hearten him, he was taken by a shivering fit. In half an hour he was burning up. And he knew that at least another day must pass before he could undertake even the smallest dose of quinine. He crawled under a heap of blankets, and a little later found himself laughing aloud. He had surely reached the limit of disaster. Barring earthquake or tidal wave, the worst had already befallen him. The Filiberty-Gibbet was certainly safe in Mooli Pass. Since nothing worse could happen, things simply had to mend. So it was, shivering under his blankets, that he laughed, until the houseboys, with heads together, marveled at the devil that were in him.

CHAPTER IV.

JOAN LACKLAND.

BY the second day of the northwester, Sheldon was in collapse from his fever. It had taken an unfair advantage of his weak state, and though it was only malarial fever, in 48 hours it had run him as low as 10 days of fever would have done when he was in condition. But the dysentery had been swept away from Berande. A score of convalescents lingered in the hospital, but they were improving hourly. There had been but one more death—that of the man whose brother had waited over him instead of brushing the flies away. On the morning of the fourth day of his fever Sheldon lay on the veranda, gazing dimly out over the raging ocean. The wind was falling, but a mighty sea was still thundering in on Berande beach, the flying spray reaching in as far as the flagstaff mounds, the foaming wash screaming against the gateposts. He had taken 20 grains of quinine and the drug was buzzing in his ears like a nest of hornets, making his hands and knees tremble and causing a sickening palpitation of the stomach. Once, opening his eyes, he saw what he took to be a hallucination. Not far out, and coming in across the Jessie's anchorage, he saw a whaleboat's nose thrust skyward on a smoky crest and disappear naturally as an actual whaleboat's nose should disappear, as it slid down the back of the sea. He knew that no whaleboat should be out there, and he was quite certain no men in the Solomons were mad enough to be abroad in such a storm.

But the hallucination persisted. A minute later, chancing to open his eyes, he saw the whaleboat full length, and saw right into it as it rose on the face of a wave. He saw six sweeps at work, and in the stern, clearly outlined against the overhanging wall of white, a man who stood erect, gigantic, swaying with his weight on the steering sweep. This he saw, and an eighth man who crouched in the bow gazed shoreward. But what startled Sheldon was the sight of the women in the stern, clearly outlined against the overhanging wall of white, a man who stood erect, gigantic, swaying with his weight on the steering sweep. ## Women Take Up New War Work and Begin Campaign to Raise $100,000 as Their End of Y. M. C. A. Fund for Relief Work—Charity Dinner Dance at Hotel Statler Feature of Social Affairs of Last Week.

HAVING seen the Liberty Loan through to a successful conclusion and having devoted much time to food conservation work in getting signatures to the Hoover pledge cards, society women have now taken up a new war work in the Y. M. C. A. campaign and are doing all in their power to help that organization raise $35,000,000 to carry on work in training camps and at the front.

The Woman's Auxiliary Committee has set the minimum amount of its contribution at $100,000. Mrs. Neil McMillan is the chairman. Mrs. George Warren Brown and Mrs. E. A. Faust are the vice chairmen. Miss Katherine Semple is secretary and the executive committee comprises Mrs. George D. Markham, campaign manager, with Mrs. Charles Stix, Mrs. J. P. Higgins, Mrs. Max Kotany and Mrs. Frank Kauffman as assistants. Mrs. Charles White Scudder is the treasurer. The team captains who work with 10, 15 or 20 on a team are Mrs. Willard Bartlett, W. R. Compton, H. Elliott, E. A. Faust, Robert Holland, Chas. A. Holman, Clarence Howard, Dorsey Jamieson, Jackson Johnson, George D. Markham, H. W. McChesney, John Trigg Moss, Frank O'Neil, W. T. Ravenscroft, Thos. K. Niedringhaus, A. R. Smyth, Horace Soper, Ernest Stix, W. B. Weston, George H. Johns and Thos. H. West. Only subscriptions are to be asked from women and it is hoped that their work will rank favorably with that of the men.

DURING the last week the interest of society centered chiefly around the big charity dinner-dance at the new Hotel Statler for the benefit of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association. It was the first large charity affair of the season and brought forth a brilliant and fashionable assemblage.

A number of wedding also occupied the attention of society. That of Miss Ellen McBride and Ralph Morris on Wednesday, although small, was nevertheless of social importance, as was also Miss Clemence Garneau's wedding to Sidney Overall yesterday. Miss Lena Gladys Melson's marriage to J. DeWitt Mills of Jacksonville, Fla., the nuptials of Miss Mildred Fox and Cleveland Henning and those of Miss Mary Whiteside Hagar and Lieut. Frank Clemens Engelsing, all of which took place yesterday, were also of importance to the social world.

Only three wedding have been announced so far for the coming week. Tomorrow will witness the marriage of Mrs. Maude Moon O'Neil and Edwin W. Lee, which will take place at the home of Mrs. O'Neil's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moon of 3342 West Pine boulevard. On Wednesday, at Stamford, Conn., will occur the wedding of Miss Mary Benton, Prince and Alvan Joy Goodbar, and on Saturday the marriage of Miss Talke Crutcher and Samuel French Doty will take place.

A CHARITY society in which many women socially prominent are interested is the Needlework Guild of America. The St. Louis branch, which is one of 44 in the country, is planning a reception on Tuesday, Nov. 20, at the Second Baptist Church, from 3 until 5 o'clock. Mrs. John T. Davis Jr. is president of the St. Louis branch and Mrs. Louis Marion McCall, Mrs. Charles Nagel and Mrs. A. B. Ewing are the vice presidents. Mrs. John W. Day is the secretary, and the treasurer is Mrs. Samuel Scott. Mrs. E. A. de Wolf and Mrs. Mark Hollingshead are the Distribution Committee. In this time of so much war work, our own sick, poor and needy must not be forgotten at home, and this organization does much toward alleviating their wants and needs. The object is to collect new garments for hospitals and charitable institutions of St. Louis. Last year 14,740 new garments were distributed. This society is now affiliated with the Red Cross and has been in existence for 32 years. The headquarters are in New York, and Mrs. Levi P. Morton is the president. During 1916 over one million and a half garments were given away by all the branches. Mrs. H. Worthington Eddy of 6572 Waterman avenue is one of the section presidents and will receive any garments that anyone wishes to send. Among the other section presidents are Mrs. E. A. Faust, George D.

room had assembled. Frances Ingram, the soloist, was on hand and everything in readiness to proceed, but alas, no piano! At 11 o'clock, the time scheduled for the performance to begin, Miss Elizabeth Cueny made the announcement that the audience would either have to wait 15 or 20 minutes longer or else go to the floor below where there was a piano. With almost one accord the audience of over 300 women arose, took up their chairs and proceeded to carry them to the lower floor. The space of the parlors of the club is not as commodious as the ballroom and some women took their places on the stairway and in the halls, and groups formed in different parts of the parlors. Nearly every woman had her knitting along and the informality of it all gave the air of a family group and a touch of enjoyment that would not otherwise have prevailed had everything gone off as previously arranged. Frances Ingram realized that it was a rather trying situation and rose splendidly to the occasion.

master of the orchestra will be the soloist and is said to be a musician of rare ability. This coupled with a desire for some orchestra music which we have not had for so many months will no doubt bring out a large audience. Those who have subscribed for boxes for the "Pop" concerts assure a fashionable audience. The concert will have somewhat of a patriotic tinge, as it will open with "America" and close with the "Star-Spangled Banner," and will afford the St. Louis Orchestra its first opportunity to put into practice the rule recently adopted of playing the national anthem at every concert. The St. Louis orchestra was the first of the important orchestras to make such a rule. Among those who have taken boxes for the season for the Sunday afternoon concerts are: Dr. and Mrs. John B. Shapleigh, Mrs. Derrick A. January, Mr. and Mrs. Theron E. Catlin, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel K. Catlin, Edward Mallinckrodt, Mr. and Mrs. H. Blakeley Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Wright, Dr. O. H. Elbrecht, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver F. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nicolaus, T. L. Hausman, J. J. C. Waldeck, Dr. H. W. Herman, Mrs. George Engelman, A. H. Lewis, Theophilus Conzelmann, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Thomy, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph A. Meyer, L. D. Vogel.

"Méride" and "Harvard Mills"

(Hand-finished, Fine Gauge Ribbed)

UNDERWEAR WEEK November 12th to 17th

During this week, Monday, November 12th, to Saturday, November 17th, "Méride" and "Harvard Mills" (hand-finished) Fine Gauge Ribbed Underwear will be displayed in the best shops throughout the country.

Avoid those unpleasant chills and colds by preparing for the drop in temperature. You can be warm and comfortable and still retain clean-cut, tailored lines if you wear "Méride" or "Harvard Mills" Underwear.

Each garment is cut by hand and the details of finishing are carefully executed; the fit is perfect and permanent because "Méride" and "Harvard Mills" Underwear is also pre-shrunk and finished with Flatlock seams, giving only one thickness of fabric, and made in Vests, Drawers, Tights and Union Suits.

Important, too, is the adaptation of the "Méride" and "Harvard Mills" Underwear to the fashions of today. There are plenty of styles covering the entire body, but many which permit of the transparent sleeve and neck styles of dress.

Whether you wish to purchase now or not, you are sure to be interested in the display. The dealer in your town who carries either "Méride" or "Harvard Mills" Underwear will be glad to extend to you every courtesy of Underwear Week.

Should you need aid in finding your exact requirements, write to us.

61 MILITARY MEN IN 1918 SOCIAL REGISTER

List Includes St. Louisans in Every Branch of Country's Service.

The Social Register of St. Louis for 1918, copies of which were received here yesterday, shows a heavy increase in the number of military titles. Sixty-one St. Louisans listed therein have passed from the civilian to the military class in the last year and are doing their part to help win the war.

Every branch of military service is represented. Although most of the 61 are in the army, many of the St. Louisans listed are serving in the navy, aviation corps or ambulance service. All but a few hold commissions, which rank from Lieutenant to Major.

German Officer Listed.
Included in the list are a number of army officers who have married into St. Louis families. Among these are Lieut. Dudley French of New York City. William Saportas, who recently married Mrs. Frances Cabanne Scovel, who was society editor of the Post-Dispatch, and Capt. Claude Chichester of the British army, a son-in-law of Mrs. Joseph L. Chambers of 4969 Berlin avenue.

The name of Lieut. Maximilian Koeck of the German army also is listed. According to members of the family of Lieut. Koeck's wife, formerly Miss Lucille A. Overholtz, Koeck is now an American citizen, having renounced his allegiance to Germany several years prior to the war. It was stated at the home of his sister-in-law, Miss Alda M. ## GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.
While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and luxuriant.
This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—ADV.

Sonnenfeld's 37th Birthday

Will be fittingly celebrated all next week

A Veritable Bargain Feast in Outer Apparel & Millinery

WE APPROACH our Thirty-Seventh Birthday with mingled feelings of happiness and apprehension. Happiness, to have so long and so successfully withstood the acid test of time: apprehension as to the future—a full realization of our solemn responsibility to maintain the standards so long identified with the name Sonnenfeld's.

THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS—a long time, indeed—a period that has seen the development of this institution from a modest enterprise housing but a handful of people to our present dominating position as one of the Specialty Store Giants of America.

AND THEN there's the feeling of pride: of the consciousness of work well done: of the rewards that have been ours—of the success that you, the Public, have bestowed upon us. A success well beyond early dreams—a deep rooted and affectionate niche in the esteem of thousands of patrons.

CHURCH TO MARK 100TH ANNIVERSARY THIS WEEK

First Presbyterian Was First Protestant Congregation in St. Louis.

The one hundredth anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church, Washington boulevard and Sarah street, which was also the first church of any Protestant denomination established in St. Louis, will be observed by the congregation this week, beginning with the morning service today and continuing through Friday.

A number of ministers of note are to take part in the exercises, including the Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, veteran stated clerk of the Presbyterian General Assembly, and for one term its moderator; the Rev. B. P. Fullerton, former moderator of the General Assembly; and the Rev. Dr. George E. Martin of Boston, former pastor of the church. Pastors of other St. Louis churches will speak at a fellowship meeting Tuesday night.

The First Church was organized Nov. 23, 1817, with nine members. Dec. 18 of the same year the Presbytery of Missouri, an offshoot of the Synod of Tennessee, held its first meeting in St. Louis. Its territory included the greater part of Illinois and all the region west of the Mississippi. There was no Presbyterian church at that time in the part of Illinois which was included in the Missouri Presbytery.

Stephen Hempstead and Thomas Osborn, the only male members of the First Church, were ordained ruling elders. The Rev. Simon Giddings was made pastor and continued in this position until his death in 1838. There have been 10 pastors, including Dr. Giddings and the present pastor, Dr. King, who came here in 1915. The longest pastorates were those of the Rev. Dr. Artemus DeWard, from 1833 to 1855, and the Rev. Dr. William J. McKittick, recently deceased, from 1899 to 1914.

The first church building stood on a lot extending on Fourth street from St. Charles street to Washington avenue. This lot, bought for $127, was sold in 1855 for $52,000, and the proceeds were used in building a church at Fourteenth street and Lucas place, now Locust street. This church was, at the time of its construction, the finest religious edifice in the Mississippi Valley. It is still standing in remodeled form, as the Gayety Theater. The present church on Washington boulevard was occupied in 1889.

ONLY 37 OF 242 ON FACULTY OF MISSOURI U. ARE WOMEN

17 of Teachers of Various Rank, 8 of Them Women, Are Engaged in Extension Work.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 10.—Though the proportion of women to men students in the University of Missouri continues to grow, and doubtless will increase rapidly owing to war conditions, there is no immediate danger that the teaching force will become feminized. A recently compiled official list of the teachers and administrative officers of the university contains the names of 242 persons, of whom only 37 are women. Whereas a few years ago the totals of married and unmarried persons were about equal, today there are 149 married and 93 single.

Seventeen of the teachers of the various ranks are extension workers, mainly in the College of Agriculture. These teachers, of whom five are women, give virtually their whole time to the increasingly important business of "taking the college to the people."

31 OF CONGREGATION IN SERVICE

Service Flag Hangs in Maple Avenue Methodist Church.

Thirty young men and one young woman have gone from the Maple Avenue Methodist Church into the service of their country. The pastor, the Rev. E. Combs Smith, has three sons in the war. A war council keeps in touch with these men and has sent each a Christmas gift.

A service flag with a star for each one enrolled hangs behind the pulpit. An honor roll hangs in the vestibule of the church. Companies of soldiers from Jefferson Barracks are being invited to the Sunday morning services and taken to the homes of the members for dinner.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Missouri Gathering at Maryville, Nov. 20, 22 and 23.

The fifty-second annual convention of the Missouri Sunday School Association will be held at Maryville, Nov. 20, 22 and 23, with an expected attendance of 1000. The keynote of the meeting, according to officers of the association, will be loyalty, and patriotism will be dominant in the program.

W. H. Danforth of St. Louis is president of the association, and G. H. Tenbrook of St. Louis is recording secretary. There are 494,469 members. A. E. Buss of St. Louis will have charge of the music.

Lindenwood College Club to Meet

The Lindenwood College Club of St. Louis will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. L. E. Crandell, 5741 De Giverville avenue. A program will be given by the faculty of Lindenwood College. Members of the club have been requested to bring books to be sent to the soldiers in France. All former pupils of Lindenwood College have been invited. Mrs. William K. Roth is president of the club.

LANSING - ISHII AGREEMENT HELD TO BE INCONSISTENT WITH U. S. POLICY

relations between countries, and consequently, the Government of the United States recognizes that Japan has special interests in China, particularly in the parts to which her possessions are contiguous.

This one clause undoubtedly bangs the door upon China as plainly as if it had never been opened; it clearly reverses the work of Hay and Root; in a word it gives Japan a free hand in China.

There is no definition of these "special interests" in the agreement, but they plainly refer to the five groups of demands made upon China in 1915 and their recognition constitutes for us an admission of their propriety.

It is inconceivable that the United States would have abandoned its historic role of protector of China's integrity, without privy on the part of Great Britain, France and Italy, and without a consideration commensurate with so striking a change in policy. What this consideration is does not appear to be fully disclosed.

The agreement does contain, it is true, a declaration to the effect that neither state has any desire to discriminate against the trade of other nations or to disregard their treaty rights; that "they always adhere to the principle of the so-called open door or equal opportunity; and that they have no purpose to infringe in any way the independence or territorial integrity of China; but all of these assurances are plainly and necessarily limited by the preceding paragraph recognizing that Japan has "special interests" in China.

"Special interests" in another state have always had a tendency to gravitate into protectorates, which in turn eventually in annexation, as witness the recent instance of Korea.

Explanatory Statement.
The lengthy explanatory statement issued by the State Department fails to carry the conviction that the Lansing-Ishii agreement is in harmony with our past consistent policy. The following paragraph is, in fact, incomprehensible:

"No American principle has been sacrificed in this agreement, in the opinion of officials, as the United States Government. In the case of Mexico, Cuba and other American republics and in the Monroe Doctrine itself, has been foremost in the assertion of the doctrine of special privileges by reason of the geographical and economic relations."

If this statement of us have misread the diplomatic history of the United States. It is only necessary to recall Secretary Root's assurances to the American republics at the Third Pan-American Conference at Rio de Janeiro in 1906, to observe how wide of our recent professions Mr. Lansing's statement goes. Mr. Root said:

"We wish for no victories but those of peace; for no territory except our own; for no sovereignty except the sovereignty over ourselves. We deem the independence and equal rights of the smallest and weakest member of the family of nations entitled to as much respect as those of the greatest empire, and we deem the observance of that respect the chief guaranty of the weak against the oppression of the strong. We neither claim nor desire any rights or privileges or powers that we do not freely concede to every American republic."

Disquieting Interpretation.
Mr. Lansing surely can not intend to repudiate this sound moral position, which President Wilson himself substantially voiced at Mobile, yet his explanation is plainly liable to such a disquieting interpretation.

It is pertinent to point out that the Lansing-Ishii agreement is not a treaty in the constitutional sense, since treaties may be made by the President only with the consent of the Senate. Since the Senate has not formally concurred in it the agreement cannot bind any future administration, yet to repudiate it would certainly reflect upon our continuity of policy.

50 MINUTES WITH LORD NORTHCLEFFE, CHAMPION SPENDER

have to build a city as big as Bridgeport. By the way, what on earth is the reason for not saying where your troops are now? They're at Blank. Everybody knows that. The Germans know it. And yet you can't print that over here. American headquarters in France! Why it's as ridiculous as what your papers said when I landed. Lord Northcliffe arrived at an American port today and was driven directly to the Hotel Gotham. Fancy!"

(Note to Lord Northcliffe: The interviewer religiously set down the name of the place, but it was censored. Sorry—but what's the use?) So we, with our millions of men along hundreds of miles of battlefront, are literally buying from you whole cities of iron and steel, copper and brass, cotton and woolen goods, oil and meats, autos and trucks and a myriad other things to be sent over to us. I am the responsible buyer. It is true, but one can't go wrong with the hundreds of inspectors that we have over here—extraordinarily keen young fellows, all of them. This is a young man's war."

I asked Lord Northcliffe what he thought of Herbert Hoover's assertion that "all war, in the long run, is a losing game economically." "So it is," he conceded. "Then," I asked, "although you are spending money for noble and not for the ignoble end toward which real spendthrifts dissipate, their money, it is still true, in a way, isn't it, that you are 'spending thrift'?" "Yes," said Northcliffe slowly, "and yet there are economic by-products of war which are beneficial."

In the standardization of many manufactured products, for example, When the war broke out and the motor trucks which we had at the front had to be equipped with 'spares'—extra parts, you know—we found that there were 250,000 different 'spares' on the market. Fancy! It was hopeless to send back home for parts you needed. At the motor repair bases back of the lines it was necessary to hang up all these 'spares' on a wall a quarter of a mile long so that the mechanic could walk along until he came across the bit fitting that he needed. Chaos! As a result engineers went to work and standardized all sorts of motor parts so that they would be interchangeable. That's one good thing born of the war.

You did the same thing when you standardized your army motor truck and when you built your Liberty motor for airplanes, an extraordinary achievement! Yes, of course, after the war others, and that is all right, too. But some individual manufacturers will want to turn out specialties of their own patent, different from degree of standardization is certainly a good thing."

We reached the "big typewriter" that he had so set his heart on seeing: a machine with a keyboard as big as a high, with a key-board as big as a cellar door and with keys the size of saucers. He had time only for one fleeting glance of pure joy at the apparatus, peered into its wards from behind, chuckled, "I see, I see! Works like a printing press!" and departed, grinning with delight at this Yankee freak of advertising and at the thought that he could

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the ureic in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver and sleeplessness.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy;

take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—ADV.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR WITH "DANDERINE"

Get a Small Bottle! Freshen Your Scalp! Stop Falling Hair! Remove Dandruff! Grow Lots of Wavy, Glossy, Beautiful Hair---You Can!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine. Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you can not have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its life, its strength and its very life, and not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots flinch, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents; apply a little directly, and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now!—ADV.

face "old Price" with a clear conscience.

"Mac," the Secret Service man, was at our heels with the assurance that a taxi was waiting back at the Marlborough-Blenheim, and that Lord Northcliffe would have plenty of time to make his train.

I haven't repeated in their order the numberless interruptions which this exuberant, square-jawed, pleasant-faced youth aged 52 made to his own remarks as we walked along the ocean front. He wanted to know (1) why certain newspapers didn't mention him in Atlantic City with proper acoustics—he and Hoover hadn't been heard to good effect in the halls where they had spoken; (2) why certain newspapers didn't see to it that its editions were delivered promptly in Washington, which he characterized as now being in every sense the capital of the nation; (3) why newspapers couldn't be made a quarter of their present size in order to cut down the amount of white paper they needed, and scoffed at the idea of ever charging three cents for a newspaper rather than cut down the size; (4) he touched on the censorship of newspapers printed in German in the United States, declared he studied them carefully and pointed out that even if they printed their articles in parallel columns of English and German a wholly different meaning could be given to the two columns by different arrangements of type—typographical camouflage, so to speak; (5) he compared Atlantic City to Blackpool, England's liveliest seashore resort, "where some of your forces have been"—a place of "scenic railways" and "carousels, as distinct from sleazy, conservative old Margate; (6) he demanded what style of architecture a certain beach-front hotel represented; (7) he dashed aside to examine a United States Weather Bureau kiosk in front of one of the piers, and was disappointed to find that the day's weather map had not yet been posted; (8) he discoursed on the fact that Atlantic City, even though it produces no material manufactures, is nevertheless justified by its production of health and recreation; (9) he wanted to know why the deuce he hadn't been able to find a hotel descriptive of Atlantic City; (10) he gloated over the big electric advertising signs on the piers; (11) he asked if a certain well-known advertising scheme on the beach front didn't derive its effectiveness from its clever unobtrusiveness; (12) he reminded several Americans he had known; (13) he chuckled at the similarity of Atlantic City to that famous corner table in the Cafe de Paris, where, if you but sit long enough sooner or later you will see the whole world pass and; (14), he announced that his delight in the place was so great that he meant to come back for a longer stay, if possible, before returning home to England in November.

This, in the course of a 50-minute stroll, as discussions from the remarks I have already set down, "Old Price" said that he would say more in 10 minutes than another man would in an hour; and I guess "Old Price" was right. A photographer's pad would have been useless.

In the 50 minutes that had elapsed since we left his rooms at the Marlborough-Blenheim $350,000 of the British empire's money had been spent by this peerless spendthrift. I hadn't seen any of it spent, so I must chronicle what I did see at one point in our stroll.

I called Lord Northcliffe's attention to a veteran newsboy at his post in front of one of the hotels we passed, whose boast it was that he could distinguish the section of the world from which any visitor to Atlantic City comes. Northcliffe was instantly delighted.

"Tell him I'll give him $5 if he can tell where I'm from," he whispered, pleased as Punch with the game.

The newsboy came over. Northcliffe drew himself up, his hands to his sides, his lips tightly repressing a chuckle—precisely in the attitude of a small boy playing a game.

The newsboy protested. "Ow, y' gotta say something," he objected. "I can't tell where the gent-mums from less'n he says soemthin'."

Northcliffe shut his smiling lips tighter and wagged his head obstinately. He wasn't going to give a clue, not he! But the strain of repression was too much. He offered the information that he had once conducted a newspaper in New York.

"You're a Southerner," hazarded the newsboy, fastening on the broad English vowels.

Northcliffe laughed aloud. "I'll give you a dollar, anyway," he said. "I'm from London."

He fished in his pocketbook, but could find nothing less than a $20 bill and borrowed a dollar from me. He had spent $7610 for England in that same minute, so I took a chance. Northcliffe pressed the dollar and his visiting card upon the newsboy. One wonders which one of Northcliffe's 50 newspapers that newsboy will offer him when next they meet.

"Mac" caught up with us a moment later and Lord Northcliffe executed a second financial coup, borrowing a dollar from "Mac" to repay me.

"You see, it never costs me anything to travel," laughed the world's greatest spendthrift.

ADVERTISING AGENCIES MERGE

Fisher-Ruebel-Brown Title of the New Concern.

Announcement was made yesterday of the consolidation of Fisher-Ruebel-Brown, Inc., Advertising Agency as Fisher-Ruebel-Brown Advertising Agency. Fisher-Ruebel-Brown has been in the St. Louis advertising field for 17 years, and Ruebel-Brown, Inc., has built up a large business in the last five years.

The officers of the new organization are C. L. Fisher, president; D. A. Ruebel, vice president; D. E. Nirdlinger, secretary; J. L. Tall, secretary, and John Young Brown Jr., treasurer.

In combining their resources the two concerns will maintain their present staffs.

The new organization has leased the ninth floor of the Advertising Building at Seventeenth and Locust streets, which will be ready for occupancy on Jan. 1. Until that time the present offices of Ruebel-Brown, Inc., at 225-29-30 Boatmen's Bank Building, will be used as general offices.

TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY PLANS HEALTH EXAMINATION DAY

St. Louisans to Be Asked to Consult Physicians During Red Cross Seal Sale Week.

An educational propaganda to acquaint St. Louisans of health conditions in the city and the need for a harder fight against tuberculosis, will be the feature of this year's annual Red Cross Seal Sale campaign, according to officers of the St. Louis Tuberculosis Society.

The society hopes to sell at least 12 seals per capita of the population, its members say, and at the same time bring residents to a sense of their own part in maintaining the general health of the community.

The features of the program are a health crusade day in the public and parochial schools, a movie and theater day and evening, when educational health literature will be distributed to patrons of the houses, a medical examination day when all citizens will be requested to see a doctor and be thoroughly examined as to their health, and a tuberculosis Sunday, when pastors will be asked to present the subject of health from their pulpits and have literature distributed in their congregations.

Archbishop Glennon has sanctioned the health crusade day in the Catholic schools of the city and has written a letter to the tuberculosis society strongly endorsing its work. The Board of Education has taken the same action with reference to the public schools and both have agreed to set aside a day for the health crusade, and a second one later when the little seals may be sold in the schools to any of the children who care to buy them. In this way 120,000 children will get health literature and hear health talks, and they, in turn, will pass on the matter to their homes and neighborhoods. All money realized from the sale of the seals in the schools will be used in paying for the meals of those pupils of the two St. Louis open-air schools who cannot afford to buy their own meals. This number comprises about 70 per cent of the children enrolled in these two schools.

Marvelous—Yes! but it's the Modern way.

A. P. MACAULEY WANTS $750,000 FOR ARREST HERE

Files Federal Suits Against Two Stores—Was Mistaken for 'Christmas' Keough, Forger.

Alexander P. Macauley of Toronto, Canada, a mining broker, yesterday filed suits against the May Department Stores Co., proprietor of the Famous & Barr store, for $500,000 and against the S. B. & Fuller Dry Goods Co. (Grand-Leader) for $250,000. He alleged that they were responsible for false arrest and malicious prosecution in his case, which engaged the attention of the police here and in New York and other cities, last January.

Macauley was arrested at the Hamilton Hotel, Jan. 3, on the charge of check frauds, it being charged at that time that he was a notorious forger, J. A. Paget, known to the police as "Christmas" Keough. He was extradited to New York on a similar charge, and he finally proved that he was a legitimate business man. The charges here were dropped after he had been exonerated in New York.

He alleges in his petition that he was shamed, disgraced and humiliated by his arrest, and that he was at great expense in clearing his name.

S. B. Butler, secretary of the Famous & Barr Co., and Sigmund Baer, secretary of the Grand-Leader, said that those companies had no statement to make in regard to the suits.

W. A. WHITE TELLS OF THE NEEDS WE MUST MEET IN AIR

are created in great numbers to keep up with the progressive improvements of the hour, our machines very likely will be neither capable of surpassing or equalizing the contemporary machine in speed or climbing power. But if we can buy or make or borrow, and of course we can, a small per cent of machines of contemporary efficiency to act as fighting convoys for our battle planes, we may do great and possible decisive service with them in the war. But there is a big if to that. For we can win greatly by sheer force of numbers only if we are prepared bravely and unflinchingly to lose greatly. Sending slow and clumsy battle planes into a raid by the thousands will mean losses by the hundreds even with the best of convoys.

The planes we are now buying in Europe will of course be of the most advanced pattern. These will help. But as we seem to be planning the American air game following our national instinct for bulk and mass we must school ourselves to a courage here at home commensurate with our plans. If this war to end war really does end war, the end must come because civilization can build machines of destruction so awful that mere destruction piled on destruction will prove nothing but horror; and that some other means than mere destruction must be found to settle the disputes arising from the economic differences in men and races that produce war.

Air Forces Fairly Well Balanced.
This summer along the western battle front scores of German bombing planes for three weeks devoted themselves closely and consistently to bombing hospitals, killing the wounded, maiming and mutilating unspeakably noncombatant nurses, doctors, cooks and attendants. Then, by scores, the planes of the allies visited German towns—chiefly where munitions were made and stored. But doubtless many innocent women and children were slain. But in reprisal the Germans visited London night after night and even by day, coming two times in one week, and slaughtered hundreds. And still the bloody work goes on. The forces are comparatively small, and fairly well balanced. But let destruction sweep across Germany in a thousand planes or two or three thousand in a single battle and death will soon show Germany and the world, too, that death is too cheap in civilization to act as an arbiter of great causes. That will end the war. It may end all war. Humanity may learn a lesson and go forward to its next task.

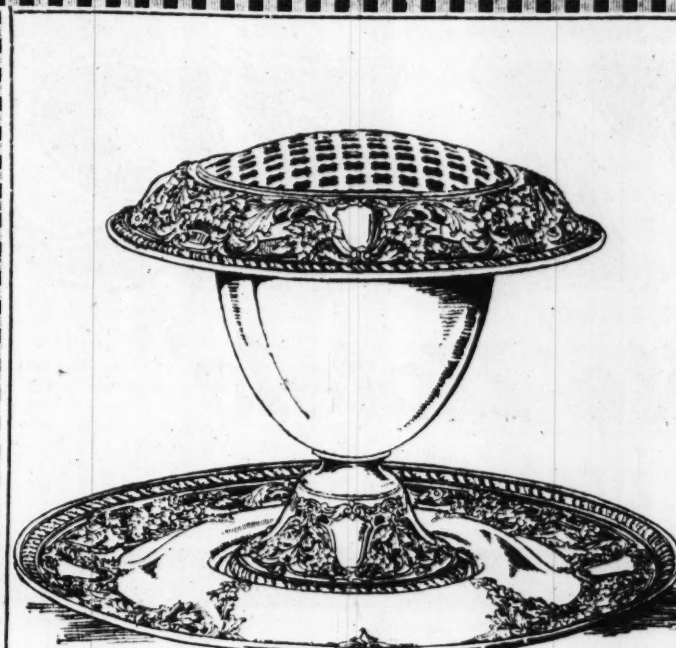

New what of the salvage after the war of all the murderous activity in the air? What gain for the days and ways of peace will come from the four wonderful years of progress of the military aeroplane? So far there is little. It costs at least about a dollar a mile to operate a moderate sized airplane. But the life of the plane is so short that under present lines of construction the airplane has no commercial value. Few men can learn to operate it quickly. It takes a tremendous upkeep. It takes a golf course for a starting place and a pasture for stopping. It has no place in our life except as a toy for faded men who have exhausted all common thrills.

In fact the airplane is just where the automobile was at the end of the nineteenth century. And by the same token when we have taken a new angle toward the airplane, designing it and improving for uses of peace for five years as we have for five years designed it for the peculiar needs of war, a new plane will rise where the war airplane circles the sky. A slow machine capable of only 100 miles an hour carrying 20 persons would widen the suburban limits of every city to miraculous distances and would draw New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Denver, San Francisco together as neighbors of a few hours.

Journey. Again Providence would gather the world together in a constantly narrowing circle. Men knowing each other will understand each other better and, understanding each other better, the need of war will be less even as the meaning of war as an evil becomes less significant. And so again may the swords be turned to plow shares and the spears to pruning hooks. And these horror breeding "Vessels of wrath fitted unto destruction" may rise from the ashes of war as genuine harbingers of peace.

HOTELS STATLER

"The Complete Hotels"

Our Responsibility to St. Louis

One thing we never forget is our responsibility to you---the citizens of St. Louis.

A visitor from another city often measures the hospitality of St. Louis by the hospitality extended him at his hotel, and thus forms his impressions of the city as a host.

We never forget that.

We never forget that we are always to contribute, in this way, to the good reputation of St. Louis---helping in her growth, the growth of her industries and her wealth, and her attraction as the metropolis of the Southwest.

As we entertain these strangers, and as you entertain them at Hotel Statler, we pledge ourselves to remember this double responsibility to you and to our guest, for his comfort and satisfaction.

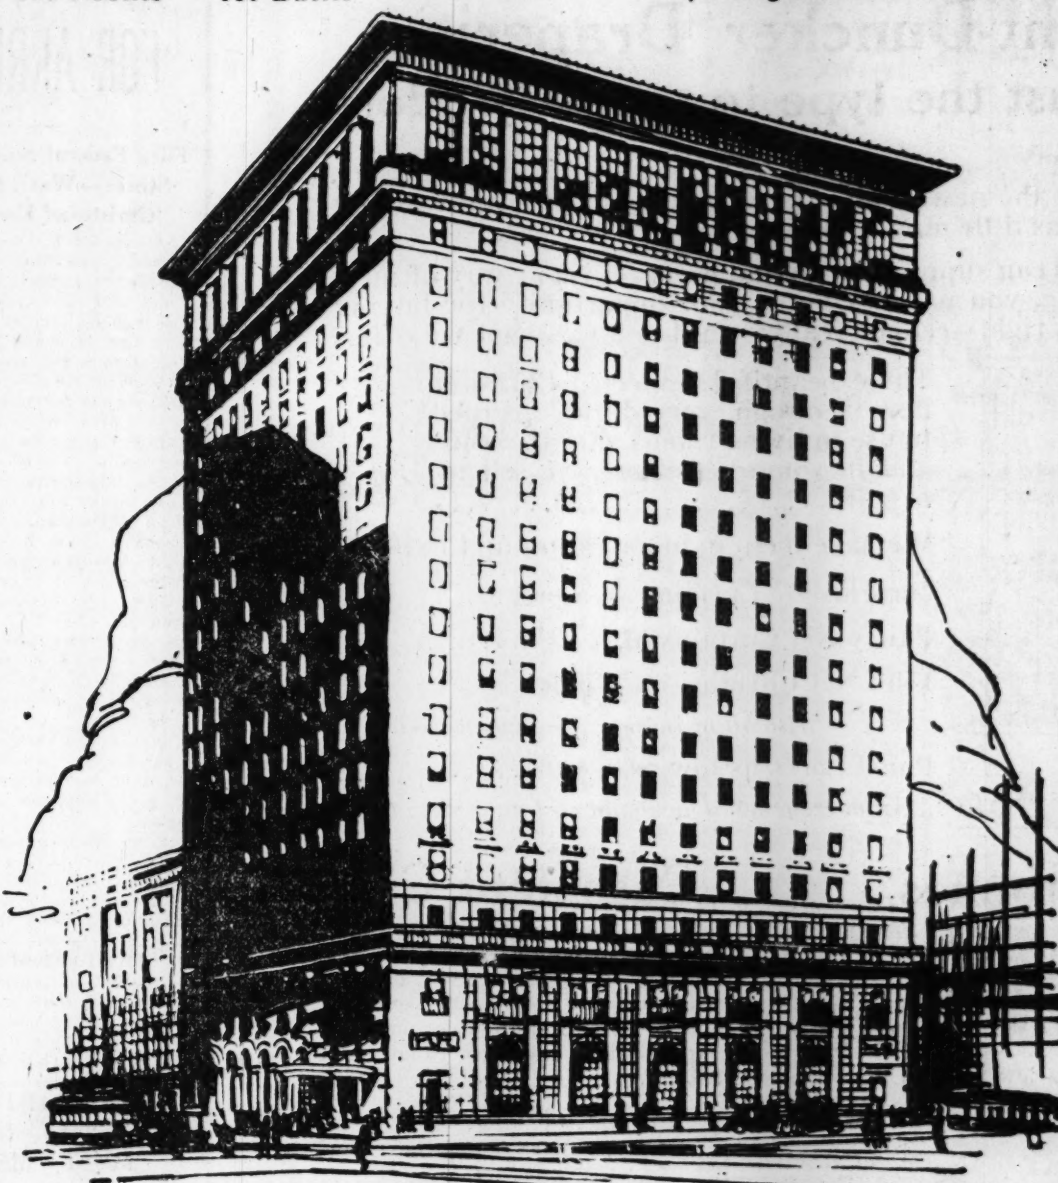

Every room in any Hotel Statler has private bath; outside light and air; circulating ice-water; writing desk and plenty of stationery, etc.; local and long distance telephones; pin-cushion with needles, thread, buttons, etc.; candle for low night-light and numerous other unusual conveniences. Morning paper delivered free to every guest-room.

NATIONAL GRANGE CONVENTION OPENS HERE WEDNESDAY

Reception to Delegates Will Be Held at Hotel Statler.

1000 FARMERS EXPECTED

Efforts Being Made to Get Hoover to Speak During Ten Days' Session.

A 10 days' session of the National Grange Association will open Wednesday at Hotel Statler, with a reception to visiting delegates, under the auspices of the Missouri State Grange Association. It is expected more than 1000 delegates from 35 states will attend the convention. Efforts are being made to get Food Administrator Hoover to come to St. Louis during the convention to give the farmers a more concrete idea of what is expected of them in the conservation of food resources of the country during the war.

One of the leading discussions at the convention will be that of efficient ways to make the farmers' land more productive, as it is realized much larger crops will have to be produced next year than were produced this year. Among the speakers for the opening day of the session are Gov. Gardner, Mayor Kiel, Oliver Wilson of Peoria, Ill., master of the national grange; E. E. Chapman of Loudon, Mass., lecturer of the national grange; Mrs. George Gellhorn, chairman of the local Women's Central Committee on Food Conservation, and Congressman Dyer.

The first business session of the convention will be held Wednesday at the American Hotel and the following sessions will be held daily at the American Annex Hotel. Members of the Executive Committee of the association have been in session here for several days, making preparations for the general convention.

The membership of the national grange is more than 1,000,000.

At the Shubert-Garrick Theater tonight, Richard Walton Tully's "The Bird of Paradise" will be shown, with Marian Hutchins in the personally admired role of Luana. Next week's attractions will be a massive production of "The Garden of Allah," now in its fifth season, at the Jefferson, and "Katinka," a musical comedy, at the Garrick.

Gertrude Hoffman, last seen here in "Sumurun" two seasons ago, will bring her revue to the Orpheum tomorrow, heading the week's vaudeville bill. The revue is in eight scenes, the final one being a bathing scene. The scenic effects are declared to be the elation of Max Hoffman will direct the orchestra. Other features of the bill are "Countdown Divorces," a blackface comedy; Spencer and Williams, an equilibrium trio.

"The Heart of Wetona," originally produced last season by David Belasco, will be played at the American Theater this afternoon. It was written by David Scarborough, and is the story of an Indian girl's love.

Tomorrow's vaudeville bill at the Columbia will be headed by the Al Golem Troupe, presenting an Oriental spectacle. At the Grand, tomorrow, a miniature musical comedy, "Oh, Please, Mr. Detective," will be featured.

"The Sightseers" will furnish this week's burlesque at the Gayety. The Lid-Lifters, featuring Johnnie Weber as comedian, will hit at the Standard. The Imperial calls its new bill "The Joy Girls," with the scene laid in a boxing club.

DRINK HOT WATER AND RID JOINTS OF RHEUMATIC RUST

Why rheumatism and lumbago sufferers should drink phosphated hot water each morning before breakfast.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste material, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons, called uric acid, is formed and then sucked into the blood where it continues to circulate, collecting grain by grain in the joints of the body much like rust collects on the hinge as shown above.

Men and women who suffer from lumbago, rheumatism or sore, stiff, aching joints should begin drinking phosphated hot water, not as a means to magic relief from pain, but to prevent more uric acid forming in the system. Before eating breakfast each morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will first neutralize and then wash out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's accumulation of toxins and poisons; thus, cleansing, sweetening, and freshening the entire alimentary canal, each morning, before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make any rheumatic or lumbago sufferer an enthusiast on the morning inside bath.

Millions of people keep their joints free from these rheumatic acids by practicing this daily internal sanitation. A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate, drank before breakfast is wonderfully invigorating; besides, it is an excellent health measure because it cleanses the alimentary organs of all the waste, gases and sour fermentations, making one look and feel clean, sweet and fresh all day.

Those who try this for one week may find themselves free from sick headaches, constipation, bilious attacks, sallowess, nasty breath and stomach acidity.—ADV.

A TIP TO PLAYGOERS: SEE THE BARRIE BILL

Three Short Plays, Particularly "The Old Lady," Have Won Approval.

The advice given to readers of this column last Sunday, to see the Barrie plays at the Jefferson Theater this week, is hereby repeated, with very little fear that it will have to be revised after the plays have had their first St. Louis presentation tomorrow night. The opening was at first announced for Tuesday.

The experience of those plays in other cities, on this fall's tour, has been small or fair attendance for the first two or three performances, then a rapid increase in business, with capacity audiences at the close. This shows that the word-of-mouth advertising given by the earlier audiences is of favorable quality; and it also seems to show that, at the outset, many persons doubt whether a bill of unconnected short plays is worth while.

This distrust is natural, in view of the experience which all playgoers have had with so-called one-act plays in vaudeville. But in this case it is remembered that the one-act play may be an ideal vehicle for portraying an intimate situation involving a small number of characters, and that Sir James M. Barrie is a master artist in such portrayal.

The Delightful "Old Lady." The last, and by common consent, the best of the three plays on tomorrow night's program is "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals." Feryl Mercer, who plays the old lady, was seen here last winter as the landlady in "The Lodger," and did all that could be done to make that play worth while. Here she has far better material.

The old lady is a lone Scotch charwoman in London, who calls herself Mrs. Dowe, but who has never had any menfolk of her own. The women about her had talked of their sons in the war until she had come to feel that it was everybody's war but hers. So she had invented a son at the front, whose name she had seen in a newspaper clipping. Private K. Dowe of the Black Watch. She had contrived a packet of letters, which she displayed to her neighbors, and she had sent cakes and comforts to Private K. Dowe.

Suddenly in walks Private Dowe, very lonesome, very Scotch, very dour and very incensed with her. But he stays in amity because she admires his hairy legs and knows it's not every soldier that can be a kite, because her table is laden with jam and shrimps and winkles, because, for all his fine pretenses, he has nowhere else to spend his five days' leave, because, in short, there's no getting away from her. Havers! He begins to think he'll find the woman waiting for him when he gets to Berlin! That he will, replies the woman triumphantly, and with his tea ready for him, too. They'll come back by way of Paris. It is agreed, while he teaches her the Tommies' song of Paris.

Mrs. Gill is very ill. Nothing can improve her, But to see the Toolies And waddle through the Looover.

What a five days! How he brings her two cloaks, each so enchanting that when she wears one to the theater with him she cannot resist carrying the other on her arm—careless-like! How they strut together along the street, for all the world, the neighbors say, as though the two of them made a procession.

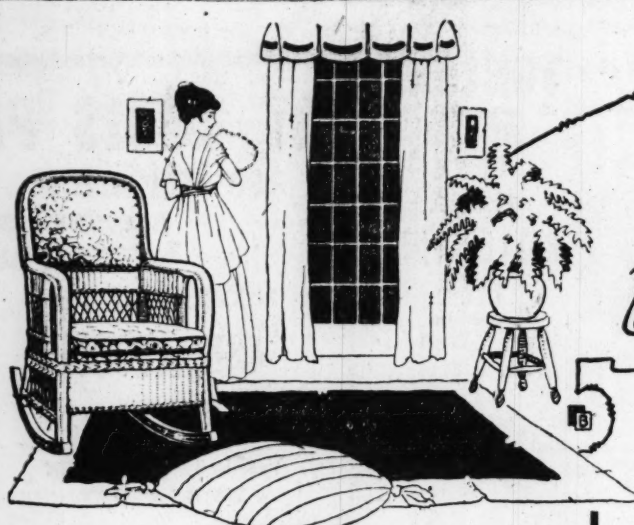

The Orphan's "Proposal." His leave and her period of probation come to an end. "Mrs. Dowe," he says, "have I your permission to ask you the most important question an orphan can ask of a nice old lady?" For a long time, Mrs. Dowe says nothing. She has been unaware of my son's feelings for you. Whereupon she laughs and cries all at the same time and confides to him that as an infant he was a rampaging rogue. Furthermore, as for learning to walk, he had been the quickest in their street. She speaks as though she had had him always, as, indeed, you begin to think she had.

It is a prodigiously proud and heartwringing woman who sees him off when his leave is spent, and it is a very bent and down old woman in black you see in the final scene, showing her "medals"—the dead soldier's bonnet, his letters (real ones now), and his tartan. As she puts them tenderly away you can hear ever so faintly the fabled ghostly piper of the Black Watch, playing the last farewell. The music dies away as she goes hobbling forth to work with her mop and her pail and her memories.

The other plays on the Barrie bill are also wartime products. "The New Word" shows the breaking down of British reserve between father and son. "Barbara's Wedding" is the latest of Barrie's works, and was substituted this season for his "Old Friends," which was on the bill as it was presented at the Empire Theater, New York, last spring. "Barbara's Wedding" pictures the wartime vicissitudes of family life, and the disappearance of English class distinctions.

JESTS AND JINGLES

By
W. H. JAMES.

ARABELLA'S BALLOT.

MISS ARABELLA SIMPKINS BROWN a merry song is humming.
Like every other girl in town she sees the glory coming.
The splendor of that happy day, democracy denoting.
When prejudice has passed away and women will be voting.
New York has gone for suffrage now, a certain indication.
That equal rights will make their bow throughout the grand old nation.
There'll be a woman's party then, she says she's very certain.
And women candidates, not men, will bow before the curtain.
A lady Boss will rule the town from Tuesday until Monday
And put the retail prices down on chocolate drops and sundae.
Each day will be a bargain day by rigid law enacted,
And nevermore through needless pay the purse will be contracted.
Of course there'll be a man or two in office, as is proper,
For the ladies only few desire to be a copper.
And catching dogs does not appeal to feminine ambition
Though certain types of men may feel a pride in that position.
The chance to cast her little vote sets Arabella humming.
That all who listen well may note she sees the glory coming.
She'll prize the ballot very high, but says when suffrage tide turns She'll never vote for any guy that wears a set of sideburns.

AMERICA'S ANSWER.

Not in vain
Were they slain,
In the trenches over there,
First of all
At the call
On the sodden field to fare.
Brave in Youth Strong in Truth
Where they fought the fight and died,
Standing fast
To the last
Lest the world be crucified.
Better so
To fight and go
In the morning of the fray.
Than too late To consecrate
The requiem of Freedom's day.
You have died
And we have cried,
And still we sit and mourn;
For those who knew
The love of YOU
Our hearts are pity-torn.
But yet
We can't forget
That where you led and bled
Your glory's name
And Freedom's flame
Can nevermore be dead.
First of all
To fight and fall
And last to be forgot.
You gave your ghosts
That other hosts
May fight and falter not.
You were first
To face the worst
As ever some will be,
But in their flight
Your souls gave light
For other hosts to see.
"Will they stand?"
On every hand
That vital question flew,
Where brave men met
For battle set
All eyes were turned on YOU.
Not in vain

Where you slain
In the trenches over there.
First of all
At the call
On the sodden field to fare,
Though you fell
You answered well
For those behind the line.
The world has heard
That answering word:
It needs no other sign.

AT THE FRONT.

Lieutenant: Why did you men come back?
Corporal: Somebody moved the war.
Lieutenant: Where is it now?
Corporal: Gone to Italy for the winter season, I think.
Russian Lieutenant: What shall we do next?
Captain: I don't know.
Lieutenant: Doesn't the General know, either?
Captain: No.
Lieutenant: Who does?
Captain: The walking delegate of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council, but he won't tell us, because we don't belong to his union.

PRIZE WINNERS REPORTED

F. B. Nuderscher Awarded Artists' Guild Prize for Sculpture, and R. P. Bringham for Painting. Although formal announcement of the prize awards in the annual Thumb Box exhibition of small paintings and sculpture conducted by the St. Louis Art League at the Artists' Guild will not be made until Nov. 22, the jury has made its report and the decisions have been made public by the Executive Committee of the league. In painting, the jury placed three groups in order of merit as follows: First place to the group by O. E. Berninghaus; second, F. B. Nuderscher, and third, R. W. Wolcsek. Because the Berninghaus group was not in competition for the prizes, the first prize of $50 was awarded to Nuderscher and the second prize of $25 to Wolcsek. The order of merit of sculpture exhibits was placed as follows: First, the group by Victor Holm; second, that by R. P. Bringham; third, that by Miss Nancy Coonsman. Since Holm won the first prize for sculpture last year, he was ineligible under the rules for the same award this year and consequently the first prize of $50 went to Bringham and the second prize of $25 to Miss Coonsman. Honorable mention was awarded to groups of paintings by the following: Mrs. F. G. Carpenter, F. G.

Carpenter, Edmund H. Wuerpel and Victor Haries. The jury of award was composed of Holmes Smith, chairman; Mrs. Morris Skralinka and Thomas Young. The exhibit will be open to the public for the rest of this month. One Thousand Wanted and For Sale Offers. Everything from baby buggies to balloons. ST. CHARLES PLANTS TREES

Women and Children Join in Work of Beautifying Water Tower Park Hill. St. Charles had a community work day yesterday, under the direction of the Civic Bureau of the St. Charles Chamber of Commerce, to beautify and improve Water Tower Hill Park. Hundreds of men, women, school children and students of Lindenwood College assisted in planting trees, shrubs and plants. Automobiles were kept busy hauling wild plants from roadsides and woods near by. The official tree was planted by Mayor John H. Steinbrink, assisted by L. G. Stealy, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and H. H. Mace, secretary and manager of the same organization. Members of the Women's Civic Club served "war sandwiches" on the grounds.

MRS. DE SAULLES TRIAL NOV. 19

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Knitters. If He Drinks Give Him TESCUM POWDERS Secretly

Any mother, wife or sister can stop the Drink Habit, if she wants to do so. Thousands of women are happy today because they gave their husbands, sons or brothers "Tescum Powders." The powders are tasteless and harmless and can be given in either liquid or solid food.

readers and lunchers will not be allowed in the courtroom at the murder trial of Mrs. Blanca de Saulles, which will begin at Minocla, L. I., Nov. 19. Supreme Court Justice Manning announced yesterday that photographers who tried to take courtroom pictures would go to jail for contempt and that curious folk with books, sewing or food to help pass the dull moments, would not be tolerated.

"I don't know this woman," Justice Manning said, "but she is going to have all the protection I can give her, as I would protect anyone else charged with the same crime."

Mrs. de Saulles had another visit yesterday from her little son, over the question of whose custody she killed her husband.

EXPRESSIONS ON 'ORDINANCE NO. 2' BY 24 ALDERMEN

Nine Favor, Street Railway Settlement Measure as Amended, Two Qualify Approval.

ONE INDICATES OPPOSITION

Twelve Say They Still Lack Sufficient Information to Decide Definitely.

Nine of 24 Aldermen polled by the Post-Dispatch yesterday expressed themselves as favoring the passage of "Ordinance No. 2," or its practical counterpart, now being considered by the Aldermanic Public Utilities Committee as a settlement of the controversy between the city and the United Railways over the mill tax and service.

Two other Aldermen, both members of the Public Utilities Committee, gave qualified approval to the amended bill, which is substantially the same as Ordinance No. 2, except that it fixes the term of the franchise at 30 instead of 50 years and imposes a surtax on the company's net earnings above 7 per cent on a capital value of $60,000,000 in addition to a levy of 3 per cent on gross income, as in Ordinance No. 2.

Only One Opposes Plan. Only one Alderman, Julius Haller, of those interviewed by Post-Dispatch reporters, indicated opposition to the terms of settlement contemplated in Ordinance No. 2 and the amended bill. Twelve Aldermen declined to indicate their attitude toward the bills, giving as their reason their lack of information as to the exact provisions of either measure. The remaining six Aldermen could not be reached by Post-Dispatch reporters.

The expressions obtained follow: President Aloe: An expression of opinion at this time, while the bill is still under consideration by the Public Utilities Committee, would be premature. There is to be another public hearing which might change the situation.

William E. Godfrey, First Ward: The amended bill meets my approval. I believe it will give the people better service. The provision with regard to the surtax will result in the company's expending more money for extensions, cars and improvements. The mill tax may have brought the city some revenue, but it was an imposition.

Edward Scholl, Second Ward: I believe the people are more interested in getting better service than in raising more revenue from the United Railways. This settlement will give the company a chance to borrow money to buy cars and extend its lines. That's why I think the bill should be passed.

W. F. Niederluecke, Third Ward: The amended bill suits me. I believe it is fair to the city because it will give us good service. It is fair to the United Railways because it gives the company a chance to reorganize and meet its obligations. That's the only kind of settlement to make.

William F. Otto, Fourth Ward: The amendments made by the committee are so important that I want to study them further before I express an opinion that I might have to change later. I'm really in doubt.

Approves Capitalization Figure. Edward W. Wiehe, Fifth Ward (Member of the Public Utilities Committee): As the bill stands I favor it, but I haven't definitely made up my mind. I think the bill fixes the company's capitalization at a reasonable figure. The city's income will be about what it is from the mill tax, and the service will be very much improved. For these reasons I now think the bill should be passed.

Wm. J. Tamme, Sixth Ward: I favor the amended bill in so far as it follows the provisions of Ordinance No. 2, which, as a member of the conferences between city officials and the company's representatives last summer, I helped to draft. I believe that Ordinance No. 2 protects the public and gives the United Railways a square deal. It will give the people better street car service, and that is the main consideration.

Max Well, Seventh Ward (member of the Public Utilities Committee): I am a member of the Public Utilities Committee and we are to have another hearing on the United Railways bill next Tuesday. Like a judge trying a case, I don't want to give a decision until all the evidence is in. Something might be offered next Tuesday to change my present opinion.

Says U. R. Should Have Relief. Edward C. Bergrt, Eighth Ward: My mind is still open on the United Railways question. The ordinance as it now stands, however, appeals to me as a good bargain. I believe St. Louis should make a settlement with the company as soon as possible. The concern has shown it cannot obtain the money necessary to make improvements demanded by the public and whatever relief the city can give by passing an ordinance favorable to the company in its terms should be given at once.

Martin D. Lohmann, Ninth Ward: I have not studied the bill carefully as yet, and am not prepared to express an opinion.

Otto A. Hampe, Tenth Ward (member of Public Utilities Committee): I favor the ordinance in its present form, because I believe it to be fair to the United Railways Co. and to the public. However, as there is another hearing to be held in connection with the bill at which some point not already thought of may be brought out, my opinion is not final.

John A. Fett, Eleventh Ward: I have not made up my mind on the question.

Dr. Edward Richter, Twelfth Ward: I have not had time to carefully consider the United Railways ordinance in its present form and do not know whether or not I favor it.

Taylor B. Wyrick, Thirteenth Ward: I prefer the ordinance as it now stands to the original proposition providing for a partnership between the city and the company.

However, I have not studied it carefully and cannot express an opinion.

Charles W. Stockhausen, Fourteenth Ward: I have not gone into the matter close enough to form an opinion. I am awaiting the recommendation of the Public Utilities Committee.

Adam Reis, Sixteenth Ward: I am inclined to favor the amended ordinance. I don't care to discuss my reasons at this time.

August H. Niederluecke, Nineteenth Ward: I have not yet formed an opinion on the measure.

Wilbur C. Schwartz, Twentieth Ward: I have not yet arrived at a decision. I am against any partnership plan and think it foolish to try and tax the company above 8 per cent.

Clinton E. Udell, Twenty-third Ward: I think I shall vote for the amended ordinance unless I find something radically wrong with it. It is imperative that some immediate adjustment be made between the city and the United Railways, or the commission plan and think it foolish to try and tax the company above 8 per cent.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY WHEN CONSTIPATED

Look, mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to consider their own health, consequently their bowels become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grownups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—ADV.

$79,895,355 COLLECTED FOR RED CROSS WAR FUND TO NOV. 1

Council Issues Statement Showing for What Purposes Disbursements Have Been Made.

The Red Cross War Council has made public the following financial statement showing collections and disbursements of its war fund up to November, 1917:
Collections on Nov. 1 totaled $79,895,355. Of this amount $9,129,392.21 is being returned to Red Cross chapters for local relief work and the purchase of raw materials to be made into hospital garments and supplies. In addition to this total, appropriations from the war fund up to Nov. 1 amounted to $40,851,259.20, of which $26,934,416.86 was for foreign relief. These foreign relief appropriations were apportioned as follows: France, $19,581,240.47; Belgium, $720,001; Russia, $1,428,940.87; Serbia, $493,295.76; Rumania, $1,153,398.76; Italy, $214,000; Great Britain, $1,066,520; miscellaneous foreign, $113,012; Armenian and Syrian relief, $1,800,000.

There has been apportioned for supplies, etc., for United States forces in this country, $3,488,729; for hospital work, $379,500; for sanitary service about cantonments, camps, $183,000; for miscellaneous items in United States, $108,487.60, a total for the United States army of $4,120,216.60. Other appropriations advanced for hospital funds amounted to $220,000.

The sum of $7,659,000 has been expended in the purchase of raw materials to be worked into hospital garments, bandages, surgical dressings, etc., by various lay workers throughout the country. As local chapters purchased this material at cost from the national organization, this sum will eventually be returned to the War Fund.

An appropriation of $500,000 for automobiles is a bookkeeping entry to acknowledge gifts of that amount in the form of cars and automobile parts from a prominent motor manufacturer. In addition to the War Fund appropriations specified above, the sum of $1,417,625.74 was appropriated from the restricted funds; that is, money which contributors have given Red Cross for specially stated purposes, which can be expended only for those purposes. All expenses for administration in America to date have been paid from general funds and no part of the War Funds has been used for that purpose.

UNVEILING IS POSTPONED

Replica of Vicksburg Monument to Be Dedicated Next Sunday.

The unveiling of a model from which was cast the Missouri-Vicksburg monument erected recently at Vicksburg, Miss., in honor of the Union and Confederate soldiers from Missouri at the siege of Vicksburg, which was to have been this afternoon, has been postponed until 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

The postponement was necessary because the Jefferson Barracks Band, which had been expected to participate in the program, will be unable to appear. The occasion of the unveiling is the presentation of the model to the Missouri Historical Society by the St. Louis Art League. The monument at Vicksburg is the work of Victor O. Holm, a St. Louis sculptor.

Many will be forced into recidivism, and service will be greatly crippled. We have as good service as any city in the country and I want to see it continued. This is as good an arrangement as we will ever get.

Against Universal Transfers.
Julius H. Haller, Twenty-fourth Ward: I do not favor the amended ordinance and I will vote against it in its present form. I am in favor of giving the United Railways an indeterminate franchise only, and taxing the gross earnings alone, instead of the net and gross. Net is only a matter of bookkeeping. The city should get its share of every nickel that goes in the box and in return we should abolish universal transfers.

Barney L. Schwartz, Twenty-fifth Ward: As chairman of the committee which is considering the ordinance, I do not keep an open mind, but I will say that with present form it is infinitely better than the other two bills. It is a question of give and take, and unless something new develops the amended ordinance will be the one the committee will submit, and of course the one submitted by the committee will be favored by me.

Ralph H. Eilers, Twenty-sixth Ward: I don't like the provisions of either Ordinance No. 2 or the amended bill, but I am still doubtful as to my vote.

Dr. Edwin Schrantz, Twenty-seventh Ward: As a member of the Public Utilities Committee I should like to have made some changes in the ordinance, but being only one of seven members, I could not. I think, however, in its present form it is about as favorable a compromise as we can ever reach, and I am inclined to favor it as the best solution of the problem. However, I think the provisions for service should be more explicit.

Luke E. Hart, Twenty-eighth Ward: I have not given the amended ordinance sufficient thought to make up my mind. I have no set views on the United Railways situation and I intend to study carefully the recommendations of the Public Utilities Committee before arriving at a conclusion.

King Gustave Visits Danish King.
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 10.—King Gustave of Sweden is making a private visit to the King of Denmark. King Christian at a dinner to the King of Sweden said that Gustave's visit confirmed their continued concord and co-operation and that his results would be obtained for the two nations. In reply King Gustave declared that all efforts toward concord and co-operation always would have his loyal support.

23 WOMEN IN RED CROSS SOCIAL SERVICE SCHOOL HERE

Five States Represented in Classes Teaching Methods of Relief for Dependent Families of Soldiers. The Missouri School of Social Economy is directing the training of a group of patriotic workers who, in the name of the Red Cross, are to fight poverty, sickness, unemployment and all the other things which beset the families of the soldiers and sailors who are at the front.

Dr. George B. Mangold, the director of the school, is at the head of this work, which is being conducted for the training of home service workers for the Department of Civilian Relief of the Southwestern Division of the American Red Cross. There are 23 members of this group, 18 from outside of St. Louis. Thirteen are from other states, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee being represented.

These women have been selected by their own Red Cross Chapters to come here for a six weeks' intensive course of training in order that they may be qualified to take charge of the work of caring for dependent families of soldiers and sailors in their own communities.

This practical work is under the supervision of Miss Wilder of the Missouri School of Social Economy, and is being carried on through the co-operation of the St. Louis Provident Association, the Children's Aid Society, the Social Service Department of Washington University dispensary and the Home Service Department of the local Red Cross chapter. The workers of these organizations are giving generously of their time and effort to this work which has been in progress for three weeks.

Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Water Poison, Weeping Skin, Etc.

For fifteen years I have been treating one disease—ECZEMA. I have handled over one million cases. I do not pretend to know it all, but I am convinced the disease is due to an excess of acid in the blood, and closely related to rheumatism and cancer. This acid must be removed. It makes no difference what other doctors have told you, or what all you have tried, all I ask is just a chance to prove to you that this vast experience has taught me a great deal that would be of help to you. If you will write me today I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will do more to convince you than I or anyone else could in a month's preaching. It's all up to you. If you suffer any more with eczema and refuse to merely write to me for free trial, just blame yourself. No matter where you live, I have treated your neighbors. Merely dropping me a postal today is likely to give you more real comfort in a week than you ever expected from eczema. Do it right now—your very life may be at stake.

Diabetes Sufferers Read This There Is Hope for You

Warner's Safe Diabetes Remedy produced astonishing results for Mr. Friguet who had given up in despair.

Following is a voluntary and astonishing statement from Mr. Jules Friguet of 511 West First Street, Los Angeles, Cal. This certainly is evidence of the beneficial qualities of Warner's Safe Diabetes Remedy and more convincing than anything we could say. Read this:

This letter is the best proof that I am still alive. Your medicine is a miracle to me. My weight was reduced from 157 to 114 pounds when I left the hospital. I left there Aug. 6th in despair. Hundreds of people that knew me said I would never live to return to my studio. After leaving the hospital, I saw your "Ad." in the paper. I began its use and at once commenced to improve, and now everybody is saying to me that I look better than ever before. I tip the scales at 132 pounds and I am back working again to the astonishment of all. I feel splendid and people say I am looking better every day. I must tell you that every word I have written is true, and I can prove it by hundreds that knew of my condition. Jules Friguet, 511 West First Street, Los Angeles, Cal.

Warner's Safe Diabetes Remedy is made from a formula tried and tested and used with remarkable results during the past 40 years. As the name indicates, Warner's Safe Diabetes Remedy is absolutely safe and is made solely from herbs and other beneficial ingredients.

ARGENTINA TO SEND CRUISER ON FRIENDLY VISIT TO RIO JANEIRO

Recent Reports Have Told of Friction Between Brazil and Southern Neighbor.
RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 10.—The Argentine Minister today informed Dr. Nilo Pecanha, Brazilian Foreign Minister, of the intention of the Argentine Government to send a cruiser to Rio Janeiro next week as a mark of friendship toward Brazil. The conference was cordial and Dr. Pecanha praised the patriotism of President Irigoyen of Argentina and his direction of the political affairs of his country.

There have been reports recently of friction between Argentina and Brazil, it even having been rumored that Argentina was mobilizing troops near the border. A revival of the old boundary dispute was reported simultaneously with the spreading of disturbances among the Germans in Southern Brazil.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 10.—The course of events in Russia and Italy has caused a rise in all foreign exchange rates except Russian, on the theory that it may be a prelude to peace. The upturn amounted to four to eight per cent. The dollar rose 18 points to 395. Marks made the strongest advance from 40.60 to 44. Sterling rose from 13.38 to 14.10. Francs from 50.50 to 52 and Austrian crowns from 27 to 28. There were similar increases at Stockholm today.

GERMANS SPEND MILLIONS TO GAIN SWISS SYMPATHY

Buy Newspapers, Start New Ones, Form Fake News Agencies, to Influence People.

EFFORTS ARE CLUMSY

Entente by Tact and Cleverness Is Revealing Even Real German News to Readers.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
BERNE, Oct. 20.—Probably at no time since the war began has German propaganda been more aggressively active in Switzerland than at present. Those following the German campaign declare that uncounted millions are being spent and that the expenditures have increased since the day, not so very many months ago, when counter efforts were begun—counter efforts that with a comparatively insignificant amount of money have accomplished wonders by their tact and cleverness.

Germany acquired a number of newspapers in Switzerland—several in the German language and one published in French, the latter now under suspension. Similarly, the "Swiss" papers in the German language are quite as obviously German as the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger or the Cologne Gazette, except that they are immeasurably less able.

Then the Germans acquired—or started a whole series of news agencies through which to distribute their news. Soon, however, these agencies added another and vastly more important function, that of collecting and transmitting news from countries at war with Germany—news, however, carefully colored, if not actually distorted. It was in this direction that the German propaganda began to be dangerously effective.

With America's entry into the war the agencies went a step farther, for some of them began to send, both to Switzerland and to Germany, distorted news from the United States. Again and again the reliable, genuinely Swiss journals, issued denials or published the correct news. The first effect was not to be corrected by later stories.

The general trend of this American news concerns the embargo and America's intentions toward Switzerland. Every story in a list that would fill a scrap book tended to show that the United States had the intention of starving its little sister republic. Not even an announcement by Switzerland's President that from authentic reports he knew food was under way or soon to start could offset the effect of the first stories. And they had meantime gone to Germany and were followed by sympathetic editorials in German papers popular here commiserating with Switzerland in its struggle against Yankee oppression.

Austrians More Clever.
Vastly more effective and clever has been the Austrian propaganda in Switzerland. Shortly after the opening of the war two influential and clever newspaper men—one an Austrian from Vienna, the other a Hungarian from Budapest—both of whom operated news bureaus in their respective cities, were commissioned by the Austro-Hungarian Government to establish a seemingly neutral bureau in Zurich that should have connections in other neutral as well as enemy countries. They were careful never to send the ordinary German brand of "propaganda" news.

The bureau was successful, and is today. It established connections in Holland, in Rome and elsewhere, and is able to place a comparatively large quantity of news which is the more effective because it is not too obviously Austrian in character.

The genuinely Swiss papers in German Switzerland protested in vain. The mails continued to be choked with "discreet" and the wires with "news" from the eight or nine German and Austrian news bureaus. Those who know assert that at least a big percentage of German-speaking Switzerland was pro-German.

Entente Gets to Work.
The entente evidently thought so, too, and they were clever enough to see that there would be no necessity for matching dollar for dollar the outlays of Germany for propaganda in order to neutralize it or nullify the effectiveness of the eight or nine bureaus. One-tenth as much money and several times as much cleverness would do the trick.

Suddenly the Swiss papers, especially those printed in German, began to receive extremely objective, well written news about entente affairs. The accounts were sometimes supplemental to the official reports, but also they covered a vastly larger field. They were accepted gladly by all but the papers that had been acquired by German interests.

Then the entente forces added a feature which the Germans as yet have only faintly tried to copy. The pro-Swiss and the pro-German papers began to receive a German service that was a revelation to them. They began to get extracts from German papers, views expressed editorially and accounts of occurrences that were brand-new to them—because the eight agencies had not carried them.

The effect was not instantaneous but today is very marked, and growing much more so. The uninited reader still has to pick and choose very carefully which paper he shall buy, but if he knows which are the genuine Swiss papers he will find both sides of the struggle fairly well represented.

Careful observers, both Swiss and American who have lived in Switzerland either all their lives or since the war, say there has been, during the last months, a gradual but decided shift in public opinion. German Switzerland, they say, is no longer, from redoubting its efforts. Something is happening all the time, but most of its propaganda, and much of the propaganda is German, but on this neutral battlefield the Germans seem also to be fighting a losing fight.

CITY COAL YARDS BILL PASSED; PLAN IN OPERATION NEXT WEEK

Appropriation of $25,000 Provided by Measure Which Mayor Has Promised to Sign.

A bill authorizing an appropriation of $25,000 for the establishment of municipal coal yards from which to supply small quantities of fuel to poor persons during the winter, was passed by the Board of Aldermen Friday.

Director of Public Welfare Schmoll, who is to have charge of the coal yards, announced that they would be opened probably this week. The bill contains an emergency clause and will become effective as soon as Mayor Kiel signs it, which he has already promised to do.

Director Schmoll has announced that 12 public yards will be established in the north, east, south and central parts of the city. He estimates that coal can be sold for about 12 or 13 cents a bushel. The ordinance limits the sale to any one person to five bushels.

It is the city's intention to operate the yards for about four months, and for this period the cost of the coal, rental of yards, freight and help will be approximately $64,000. The city will furnish teams for hauling the coal from cars to the yards.

Schools to Hold Patriotic Meeting.
The Holy Name, Perpetual Help, St. Paul's Lutheran, Lowell, Special No. 3 and Bryan Hill schools will hold a patriotic program under the auspices of the Bryan Hill Mothers' Club, in the kindergarten of the Bryan Hill School, on Florissant and Cano avenues, at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. Dr. R. Emmett Kane will speak on the "Conservation of Children."

MAN TEMPORARILY EXEMPTED TO DO WORK IN FRANCE

Contractors Make Affidavits to Effect C. M. Shannahan Is Necessary to Business.

OTHER CASES PASSED ON

Board Informed Last Batch of Men in First Draft Will Depart by Dec. 1.

Cornelius M. Shannahan of 5962A Theodosia avenue yesterday was allowed a stay from army service until April 1, 1918, by the District Appeals Board, when his employers, James Stewart & Co., contractors, filed affidavits to show that he was needed by the company to send to France, where some construction work is to be done for the Government.

Shannahan on Sept. 26 was allowed a stay until Nov. 1, and three times since then has had an application for extension refused. The company, in its affidavit, did not state the nature of the work to be done in France.

The board yesterday revoked exemptions allowed to the following men by ward boards:

Vealav Maty, 1816 South Eighteenth; married May 14.

John J. Pikesch, 1612 South Twelfth; dependent brother.

Tony Zimmer, 1844 South Ninth; dependents.

John S. Bach, Kirkwood; dependents.

Milan Kapetov, 1827 South Ninth; dependents.

William C. Yawburry, 1211 Mississippi; married July 21.

Adolph Hahn Jr., 1313 South Sixteenth; married April 7.

H. W. Hellmann, Manchester; dependents.

Fred C. Gill, 3415 Park; dependent parents. Gill filed an affidavit saying that both his parents were seriously ill. The board denied his claim because it believed that other sons would be able to take care of the parents.

The District Board received a telegram from Gov. Gardner intimating that the final quota of St. Louisans in the first draft would leave for camp between Nov. 20 and Dec. 1.

The telegram instructed the local and district boards to have all their work finished and reported to the Adjutant-General by Nov. 20. It is also desired that all claims for expenses, including salaries, be made by that time, so that the Provost Marshal-General can inform Congress of the total cost of the first draft when Congress reconvenes next month.

POTATO CROP NEEDS PUT BIG STRAIN ON RAILROADS

With a potato crop 50 per cent in excess of last year's yield, requiring for its movement at least 750,000 cars, the question of railroad car supply is more acute than ever, according to a report made by W. E. McGarry, vice chairman of the Executive Committee of the St. Louis Car Commission, at a meeting of the organization yesterday.

He added that the Government's removal of many coastwise ships has transferred from the sea to the railroads almost the entire cotton movement. There is no longer a surplus of cars which could be rushed wherever needed, McGarry said, but all the available cars and locomotives have been so overworked that their efficiency is becoming impaired.

A greater degree of intensive loading and the sending of waybills with the car, so as to avoid delay, were recommended as remedial measures.

Face Paint Tabooed Remove Skin Instead

"A few years ago only one class of women painted their faces," says Dolly Maclean, "it was a sign of social ostracism and was tabooed in refined circles. The custom has become so universal we must admit it is to be deplored and to be abated as soon as possible."

How foolish to seek artificial "beauty" of this sort, obnoxious from artistic and moral standpoint, when it is so easy to obtain a truly natural complexion by the use of ordinary mercurized wax, which may be had at any drug store in original one-ounce packages. This mercurized wax is so effective and so harmless, no one need think of using anything else for the purpose. Applied like cold cream at night, and washed off in the morning, it at once begins to show its remarkable rejuvenating effects. It gently absorbs the lifeless surface skin in tiny particles, gradually showing the fresher, livelier, beautiful under-skin. Naturally it takes with it all surface defects like freckles, mottled spots, pimples and patches and liver spots—ADV.

Nurse Saves Two St. Louis People From Operation.

"I had two patients that the doctors seemed unable to reach with their medicine and in both cases advised the knife. A friend who had tried Myer's Wonderful Remedy for stomachic troubles, proposed that I recommend it to my patients, which I did. Both are entirely well. I am very glad that it was able to render aid. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomachic, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will cure most of the commonest cases of indigestion or stomachic troubles. Johnson Bros. Drug Co., 20th and Olive Sts., St. Louis, Mo. # Mother, why don't you take Nuxated Iron?

And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable All the Time and Looking So Haggard and Old!—The Doctor Gave Some to Susie's Mother and She Was Worse Off Than You Are and Now She Looks Just Fine.

NUXATED IRON WILL INCREASE THE STRENGTH AND ENDURANCE OF WEAK, NERVOUS, CAREWORN, HAGGARD LOOKING WOMEN 100 PER CENT IN TWO WEEKS' TIME IN MANY INSTANCES.

THE CHILD'S APPEAL

There can be no Beautiful, Healthy, Rosy Cheeked women without Iron.

F. King, M. D.

"There can be no healthy, beautiful, rosy-cheeked women without iron," says Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author. "In my recent talks to physicians on the grave and serious consequences of iron deficiency in the blood of American women, I have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard-looking women patients. Pale, thin, anemic women are the most common finds of America. The starched, waxen, table-scrubbed, candle, polished, white bread, and crackers, biscuits, macaroni, spaghetti, tomato, macaroni, and other food, no longer is iron. It has removed the iron from the blood. The iron deficiency is the greatest curse to the health, strength, vitality and beauty of the modern American Woman. Sounds warning against use of metallic iron which may injure the teeth, corrode the stomach and do far more harm than good; advises use of only nuxated iron.

Liver, heart trouble and other dangerous maladies. The real and true cause which started their disease was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood.

"In account of the peculiar nature of woman, and the great drain placed upon her system at certain periods, she requires iron much more than man to help make up for the loss.

"Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you come weak, pale and sickly looking. Just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were all the while doubting their strength and endurance and entirely rid themselves of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctors for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old form of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. The iron demanded by Mother Nature for the coloring matter in the blood of her children is called 'not that kind of iron. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. I have used Nuxated Iron widely in my own practice to most successful results. It is a combination of iron with the most powerful and effective of all iron salts, and it is a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

You can tell the women with plenty of iron in their blood—beautiful, healthy, rosy cheeked women full of life, health and strength.

When have given me most surprising reports in regard to its great power as a health and strength builder. "Many an athlete and prize fighter has won the heavy simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the arena. While many another has gone down in his glorious defeat simply for the lack of iron."

Dr. Schuyler C. Jacques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City, said: "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But so many American women suffer from iron deficiency with its attendant ill-effects—melancholy, nervous irritability, melancholy, indigestion, flabby, sagging muscles, etc., etc., and in consequence of their weakness, run-down condition they are so liable to contract serious and even fatal diseases that I deem it my duty to advise such to take Nuxated Iron. I have done it myself and give it to my patients with most successful results. I have seen dozens of those who wish quickly to increase their strength, nerve and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians in such a great variety of cases, is not a patent medicine or secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose ingredients are widely prescribed by eminent physicians both in Europe and America. Unlike the false so-called organic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not hurt the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution or to any one who takes any medicine or food which does not contain Nuxated Iron for one cent or more in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., 409-411 N. Main, Paul's Drug Store Co., Enderle Drug Co., Kiefer Drug Co., Johnson Bros. and all good druggists.—ADVERTISEMENT.

$1,000,000 DRIVE HERE THIS WEEK FOR Y. M. C. A. FUND

48 TEAMS FOR CAMPAIGN

Half Are Men and Half Women, and They Are Under Committee of Three.

The big drive to raise $1,000,000 as St. Louis' share of the $35,000,000 fund to carry on Y. M. C. A. work among the soldiers of the United States and our allies will be launched tomorrow night with 24 teams of men and 24 teams of women in the financial harness. The plan is for a whirlwind campaign lasting only a week. The Campaign Committee is composed of H. H. Langenberg, Samuel C. Davis and Joseph R. Barroll.

Two dinners have been planned to launch the campaign. The members of the men's teams will meet at the Statler Hotel at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow, where the details of the campaign will be explained and they will be given the cards bearing the names of the persons whom each campaigner is to solicit.

The women's teams, which will work in the same manner, will have a dinner at the same hour at the St. Louis Woman's Club, 4600 Lindell boulevard.

Must Keep to Own Lists.

An important feature of the campaign is that no worker will be permitted to solicit a person unless he has been assigned that person's card. There will be no duplication of cards and workers will be permitted, so far as practicable, to select the list of persons upon whom they wish to call.

Considerable enthusiasm for the campaign has already been aroused by the speeches here week before last of George Sherwood Eddy, international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who recently returned from the French front, and former President Taft. Eddy told how the Y. M. C. A. work is carried on among the soldiers so as to give them clean amusement and some of the comforts of home, and keep them, when on leave, from becoming the prey of women who infest the towns behind the lines.

Added stimulus is expected from the church services to be held today. Gov. Gardner has issued a proclamation designating the week beginning today as Missouri Y. M. C. A. War Fund week, and asking all ministers to make special mention in their sermons today of the work being done by the Y. M. C. A. among the soldiers and prisoners in Europe.

"This promises to be one of the most spirited campaigns in connection with the war," said Thomas H. West, chairman of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. War Council. "Every man and woman is kindly asked to the vital importance of conserving the young manhood of our country. They have bravely and courageously gone to the front for the protection of their loved ones, their flag, and their country, and we who are at home realize that they must be heartened and encouraged and sustained, and that they have the right environment. We cannot personally carry the home to them, but we can take the home environment to them through the Y. M. C. A., and this we propose to do."

Important as Binding Wounds.

"The work of the Y. M. C. A. keeping the men clean, pure and courageous morally, spiritually and physically, is just as important as the binding up of his wounds and shattered body. Placing the home environment around him makes him of a more contented mind and thus increases his efficiency as a soldier."

"Any amount of money is small in comparison to that which the soldiers are doing for us. To carry on the work as it should be a large sum of money—a very large sum—will be needed. In France it costs $15.00 for a Y. M. C. A. hut, and it requires $12,500 to maintain the hut for a year. The boys must have the right sort of entertainment—motion pictures—and to supply this requires $250 for an outfit. We are all eager to get letters from our loved ones at the front and it requires $100 to supply stationery for a month for one hut. The men are lonely and music cheers them up. It will require $50 for a talking machine and records for one hut."

"For each 1,000,000 men 500 Y. M. C. A. centers will be required; 2000 experienced workers necessary to carry on this work. For the amusement of the men, 500 pianos, 500 talking machines and 25,000 records, machine records, 500 motion picture machines, 1,000,000 feet of film a day. Other requirements are 3,000,000 sheets of paper a day, 10,000 pens, 25,000 chess and checker boards, 50,000 magazines a week and 1,000,000 Bibles."

The women's part of the campaign will be in charge of a committee of which Mrs. N. A. McMillan is chairman.

NOTABLE PAINTINGS WILL BE EXHIBITED

Collection by Old Masters on Display at Art Museum Friday Evening.

A notable collection of 16 paintings by old masters will be placed on exhibition at the City Art Museum, Friday evening, when the display will be opened with a public reception in the galleries. A series of four eighteenth century tapestries from the Gobelin factory in France will be on view.

The nucleus of the collection of paintings is an important group of five portraits by Van Dyck (1599-1641), who was the court painter of Charles I of England. They are from the collection of the Earl of Denbigh, and have been in his family and hanging in the banquet hall at Newmarket Palace, Leicestershire, England, since Van Dyck painted them. One of the largest of the portraits is that of James Stuart, Duke of Richmond and Lennox, the canvass of which is 80 by 47 1/2 inches.

Another of the Van Dyck's is a portrait of Queen Henrietta Maria, daughter of Henry IV of France, who married Charles I of England.
It has been said that no Queen was more flattered and honored by her court painter than Henrietta Maria was by Van Dyck. This portrait was painted in 1639 and given by the King to the Earl of Denbigh.

A portrait of Charles I is included.
It is a three-quarter profile, showing the King in a black dress and falling lace collar and wearing the insignia of the Order of the Garter.

"Portrait of a Lady."
The remaining Van Dyck's are "Portrait of a Lady" and "The Duchess of Richmond and her Daughters," Mrs. Gibson.

Other old masters represented include Sir Henry Raeburn, George Romney, Aelbert Cuyp, Thomas Gainsborough, Peter Paul Rubens and Ferdinand Bol.

The four Gobelin tapestries date from the latter part of the eighteenth century, and while they lack some of the decorative feeling of the earlier Gothic pieces, their workmanship is superb. Two, "The Coronation of Esther" and "The Toilet of Esther," have never before been publicly exhibited in America. They were designed by Jean Francois de Troy, director of the French Academy at Rome, and were woven and signed by Jacques Neilson, who was the master weaver at the Gobelin factory from 1749 to 1788. Each piece is 12 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 5 inches.

These paintings and tapestries are to be displayed at the City Art Museum through the courtesy of Lewis and Simmons, art dealers in New York City, and will remain on view for three or four weeks.

War Work Lithographs.
The collection of lithographs of war work in England and America, by Joseph Pennell, is now on exhibition at the Art Museum. In the very interesting foreword of the catalogue, written by the artist, Pennell states that war work in the United States is more wonderful and stupendous than in any other part of the world. Beginning tomorrow, Pennell's war lithographs will be reproduced in the daily Post-Dispatch.
The exhibition will remain at the museum until December.

Another exhibition at the museum, which is reminiscent of the war, is the collection of paintings, drawings, posters and ceramics by French artists, that has just been installed.
These objects were originally intended for the French bazaar held some months ago, but were delayed in transport. They are for sale and all funds derived from them are to be devoted to the war orphans of France. Among the prominent French artists who have donated paintings for this purpose are J.
Francis Aubertin, Joseph Bail, Leon Bonnat, L. Bette, Maurice Denis, Albert Guillaume.

Address to Y. M. C. A. Club.
Dr. E. L. House of Portland, Ore., will address the Sunset Club, an organization of the Y. M. C. A., at 4:15 today and next Sunday at the same hour on the psychology of religion. The meetings, which are held at the Central Y. M. C. A., Grand and Franklin avenues, are open to the public.

Public Lectures on Russia in War.
Influence of the Russian revolution upon the war will be discussed in the first of a series of lectures, to which the public is invited, at 4:30
p. m., Monday, in Graham Memorial Chapel, Washington University. The first and second lectures will be by Dr. Roland G. Usher.

Beats Gas or Electricity

New Lamp Has No Wick. No Chimney.
No Odor. Most Brilliant Light Known.

A new lamp which experts agree gives the most powerful light in the world, is the latest achievement of W.
H. Hoffelt, 825 Factory Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. This remarkable new lamp burns gas or electricity—gives more light than the ordinary kerosene lamp, and burns kerosene or ten brilliant electric lights, and costs only one cent a night, a blessing to every home on farm or in small town. It is absolutely safe and gives universal satisfaction. A child can carry it. It is the ambition of Mr. Hoffelt to have every home, store, hall or church enjoy the increased comfort of this powerful, pleasing, brilliant, white light, and will send one of my new lamps on free trial to any reader of the Post-Dispatch who writes me. I want

Full Story of Cruise of German Raider See Adler, Ending in Abandonment

Capt. Haldor Smith of American Schooner R. C. Slade, Tells of Experiences Leading to Marooning on Mopepa Island—40 Men Still There.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The full story of the cruise of the German commerce raider See Adler has been obtained by the Navy Department from Capt. Haldor Smith of the American schooner R. C. Slade and three other mariners who landed at Tutuila in an open boat, Sept. 29, after being marooned on Mopepa Island by the master of the See Adler when the raider grounded and was abandoned.

The See Adler, formerly the American ship Pass of Baltimore, belonged to the Boston Lumber Co. and was in the Nova Scotia trade before the war. After the war broke out she was put under the American flag and was captured by the British and a prize officer was put aboard her with instructions to take her to Kirkwall, Scotland. On the way she was captured by a German submarine and sent to Bremen and fitted out as a raider. A picked crew was placed aboard, some of whom spoke Norwegian, and sent out into the

The ruse worked so well that after leaving Bremen on Dec. 21, 1916, the See Adler was held up by the British auxiliary cruiser Highland Scot, examined and passed. Sailors' identification books issued by the Norwegian Government were furnished the men, although they probably were taken from captured Norwegian vessels and given to the men, who seemed to fit the descriptions given. These, together with pictures of Norwegian Kings and Queens, gave the ship the appearance of a Norwegian.

Describes Raider's Approach. Capt. Smith learned that, while cruising in the Atlantic, 13 ships, valued by the Germans at 60,000,000 marks, were captured, and four in the Pacific—the R. C. Slade, the American schooner A. B. Johnson, the American schooner Manilla and the French schooner Lutèce.

Relating the story of the capture of his ship, the Slade, Capt. Smith said:

"I left Sydney on April 24, 1917, and proceeded without any incident until the evening of June 17, when I was in latitude about 2 north and longitude 150 west. On the evening of June 17, about 5 o'clock, the second mate reported to me that a ship was firing on us. I went on deck and looked aft, and instantly, as I went on deck, they fired again, and I saw the shell fall short about two miles. She was about eight miles off. There was a heavy squall starting to eastward—wind favorable to this time—and I thought it possible to get away and keep holding her. But she kept firing on me at intervals of about five to 10 minutes, and was coming up on me fast.

"The ninth shot, fired about 6 o'clock, struck very close, passing the poop and splashing water on the ship. Then I concluded that there wasn't any use, and I lowered down sparker, clewed down topsail, hoisted the American flag and dove to. About 7 o'clock the raider was up alongside and asked what ship. I told him what it was, and he told me to lower down sails and stand by, and he would send an officer aboard me. Shortly after the prize officer came aboard and a doctor and about 10 men. These officers were in uniform. They told me to leave the ship and to go on board the raider and they would give me time in the morning to pack my things.

Ship Fired at Both Ends. "They took all our men aboard the raider except the cook. Next morning I went back on board with all my men and packed up. We left the ship with our belongings, June 18. We were put on board the raider again. Shortly after I saw from the raider that they had cut holes in the masts and placed dynamite bombs in each mast and put fire to both ends of the ship and left her. I saw the masts go over the side and the ship was burning from end to end and the raider steamed away."

Capt. Smith said the raider was a full-rigged ship of steel or iron, about 2300 tons, propelled by oil-burning engines. Her captain was Felix Graf von Luckner, active Captain Lieutenant; the First Lieutenant, Alfred Kling; prize officer, Richard Pless. There also was a chief engineer, a navigating lieutenant, a mate and a doctor. All told, her complement was 68 officers and men. Mounted between decks, she carried two 4-inch guns (10.5 centimeters) and two machine guns. The name on her bow was Irma.

When the men from the Slade arrived aboard the raider they found nine prisoners from the American schooner A. B. Johnson of San Francisco, captured three days before. On July 8, Smith stated, the schooner Manilla was captured and dynamited after the 100 officers and men had been taken off. Aboard the See Adler, he said, was a Hollander who had been taken off the first ship captured and was kept aboard because he had made an insulting remark to the captain about German money.

See Adler Abandoned. For about three weeks the raider kept beating up and down looking for passing ships. Meeting none, they went south to Montevideo. On July 21, anchored on the lee side of the island and on Aug. 2 the ship was driven hard and fast ashore. The three American captains had gone ashore with the German officers on a picnic and the prisoners were left on the ship. Cannon were fired to tell the party the ship was in danger, but when they returned they found the propeller twisted on the coral reefs and the vessel beyond help. After working all afternoon they gave her up for lost and took ashore everything they could move, including the boats, gear and wireless. The wireless plant, a very powerful one, was set up between two cocoanut trees. It was equipped with sending and receiving apparatus and without difficulty they were able to hear Pago Pago, Tahiti and Honolulu.

On Aug. 23, Capt. Smith related, the German officers fitted up and armed a small boat and started for the Cook Islands or the Fiji Islands, where they hoped to capture an American ship and come back for the crew. Count von Luckner, the master, was in charge. They were never heard of again at Mopepa Island. After their departure, wireless messages in code from Pago Pago to the American Consul were intercepted and the German crew believed the Count had been captured. On Sept.

5 a French trading schooner from Papeete, the Lutèce, put in at the island. First Lieutenant Kling took a motor boat and machine gun and captured the ship. She had a large cargo of flour, salmon and beef and a supply of water. Kling and his crew dismantled the wireless plant and left the island in the Lutèce that night, leaving 48 souls, including the Americans, the crew of the French trader and four natives of the island. Scant provisions, and bad at that, were left them. They found a few coconuts but the great number of rats on the island destroyed them. There was plenty of fish and turtles. A small boat had been left behind.

Rheumatism Not a Disease of Old Age Says Man of Seventy-Eight

DISCARDS CRUTCHES AFTER SUFFERING MANY YEARS WAS FLAT ON HIS BACK FOR A YEAR—PAIN-STIFFNESS GONE—FEELS LIKE A BOY

HIRAM WHITING, Var-nis-sis Enthusiast, Who Conquered Rheumatism Despite His Age.

"I am seventy-eight years of age and haven't a pain or an ache," said Hiram Whiting, when seen at his home in Avon, Mass., where he has been a resident for the past fifty years.

"I have always held to the belief that rheumatism was a disease of old age, but I have had reason to change that opinion during the past year. My experience in fighting the disease I gladly give for the benefit of other sufferers.

"For one year I was flat on my back, unable to turn or help myself in any way. I was in constant pain day and night; to even come near my bed would bring on a paroxysm. All most every joint was afflicted: my hands, arms, shoulders, back, hips and knees. No one knows the suffering I endured during that year.

The five doctors that attended me failed to relieve my misery and I was very much discouraged when a specialist told me he had done everything in his power. I was still suffering and thought I would never be able to leave my bed. I tried everything suggested, liniments, oils and all external applications. I must have taken a barrel of medicine, and still I suffered.

My hips and knees were sore and stiff, my hands were useless, swollen with a chalky substance. I was about to give up when I heard of Var-nis-sis. I was skeptical, and thought if the doctors couldn't help me it would be foolish to try anything further. However, the day I started to take Var-nis-sis proved to be a wonderful day for me; it was the beginning of the end of my misery.

"Gradually the pain and stiffness left me, so that I was able to go about on crutches, the swelling disappeared, and my fingers became less and less stiff until I was able to close my hands. After three months I discarded the crutches and have given them to W. A. Varney to add to his collection.

"All my friends in Avon know how I suffered, and know me as I am today. They consider my recovery remarkable, for very few thought I would ever walk again. I hope this statement will be the means of others finding relief in Var-nis-sis, as I have."

Var-nis-sis is the one preparation for chronic rheumatism of the joints; it tends to help the stomach and relieves the pain and stiffness. You ought to read "The Rust of Human Hinges," just off the press. It's free. Just address W. A. Varney, Lynn, Mass. W. A. Can you lift a 48 lb. sack of flour without distress?

ALL men must do some physical work, irrespective of the nature of their occupation. Most men, not able to lift even as much as 48 pounds, are ruptured.

There is absolutely no excuse for permitting a Rupture to persist. Before the introduction of the Lewin Painless Method, the fear of the knife inclined many Ruptured men to put off from day to day the necessity of a cure.

No longer, however, need the dread of an operation worry and disturb.

I cure Rupture. I do this without interference with business or social duties. I make the man, fearsome of lifting, well and strong.

A consultation, including an examination, will cost you nothing. Is there any reason why any man, any woman or any child should bear with the misfortune of a Rupture when my method cures painlessly and positively?

CENSUS REVEALS TRAFFIC GROWTH OF 12TH STREET

Street Department Figures Show Its Importance as Vehicular Artery.

BUSIER THAN BROADWAY

Count Made Between Market Street and Washington Avenue Nov. 6.

The growing importance of Twelfth street as an artery for vehicular traffic is revealed in a census taken by the Street Department on Nov. 6. In every block between Market street and Washington avenue the increase over the figures for 1916. There were from 88 to 110 per cent more vehicles on Twelfth street than on Broadway between the same points.

Twelfth street was one of many streets on which a traffic "count" was made this year and last. The census was taken between the hours of 8 a. m. and 12 noon and between 1 and 6 p. m. Traffic statistics for all the east and west streets between Market street and Washington avenue, from Third to Thirtieth streets, were published in the Post-Dispatch last week.

Director of Streets and Sewers Talbert yesterday made public the results of the "count" on Fourth street, Broadway and Twelfth street. It is disclosed that the largest increase in vehicles, except street cars, bound in both directions, was that between Market and Chestnut streets. This was 40.7 per cent over last year. The smallest increase was 2.9 per cent in the block between Olive and Locust streets. The increases elsewhere were: 20 per cent between St. Charles and Washington avenue; 11.1 per cent between St. Charles and Locust streets; 18.2 per cent between Pine and Olive streets; and 18.9 per cent between Chestnut and Pine streets.

The average number of vehicles moving on Twelfth street, between Market and Chestnut streets, each hour of the "count" was 530, and between Washington avenue and St. Charles street, 517.

The increase in vehicular traffic on Broadway, between Market street and Washington avenue, was not above 8 per cent at any point except in the block between Washington avenue and St. Charles street, where it was 12.5 per cent.

There was a decrease of 4 per cent in vehicular traffic on Fourth street, between Washington avenue and St. Charles street, compared with last year. The number of vehicles counted last week in the block between Locust and St. Charles streets was the same as in 1916. The largest increase on Fourth street—14.3 per cent—was in the block between Olive and Locust streets. Street cars were not included in the census.

STORY OF "SEE ADLER"

and the marooned men fitted it up. The captain of the Manila, with a small crew, started out in the boat for Tahiti on Sept. 8. They failed to reach Tahiti and returned exhausted on Sept. 16. Capt. Smith, with three men, took the small boat and managed to reach Pago-Pago 10 days later.

Capt. Smith said that after the See Adler was abandoned the Germans used dynamite to destroy the ship's masts so that passing vessels might not sight them. They were unable to sink the Manila, as she was loaded with lumber, and the debris now probably is a menace to navigation. Although the See Adler may be a wreck, it is possible that her guns still are in condition to be used. Forty-four persons still are on Mopeha Island, but Capt. Smith said they were not in immediate danger of starvation. There are turtles and fish on the island, he said, and the water, while brackish, is not dangerous. The only danger, he said, is of sickness. One man had gangrene when he left. Some medicine was left, but he doubted that the survivors knew how to use it.

Recent dispatches indicate that the captain of the See Adler and five of his crew were captured on Sept. 21 off the Fiji Islands by Filipino constabular. What became of the men who left Mopeha Island in the Lutete is not known.

BRITISH BATTERIES ARE NOW AT THE FRONT IN ITALY

Reformation of Italian Army Along Established Line Is Progressing, Rome Announcing Enemy Has Been Checked in Ledro Valley.

Successful Operation by British in Flanders Gives Them a Stronger Grip on Passchendale Ridge.

Allied Forces Continue to Advance in Palestine, Having Gained Nearly 20 Miles Since Capture of Gaza.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, Nov.
10.—British batteries have taken their positions along the front line prepared to give support to the heroic services heretofore chiefly borne by the Italian rear guards in the effort to stay the Austro-German advance.

The reformation of the Italian army along the established position is progressing in good order and there have been no material change in the situation for the past day or two.

The agreement for a central military council for "the entire western front" for the first time recognizes and incorporates the Italian as part of the western front, thus terminating the Italian front as a separate entity. It also established reciprocal control, in which not only the French and British have a voice in the Italian campaign, but Italy has a voice in the French and British campaign.

Austro-Germans Checked in Ledro Valley, Rome Announces.

ROME, Nov. 10.—The enemy has been checked in the Ledro Valley the War Office announces. A hostile thrust at Brocon, in the Tesino Basin, also has been checked. From Suse-gana to the sea the Italian rear guards, disengaging themselves from the enemy, crossed the Piave River, blowing up bridges.

An Italian rear guard force, which had been surrounded at Lorenzago, succeeded in forcing its way out.

The announcement follows: "From Stilvio to the Sugana valley there was normal fighting activity. Strong enemy detachments attacked our advanced positions in the Ledro valley, but were repulsed promptly in spite of the heavy artillery preparation which preceded the action.

"In the mountainous area between the Sugana valley and the Piave valley local engagements took place. A hostile thrust at Brocon, in the Tes-ino basin was checked. At Loren-zago one of our rear guards, after sounding, succeeded in forcing its way through the village, which was occupied by the enemy.

"On the plains, from the railway station to Susegana to the sea, our rear guards disengaged themselves from the enemy pressure and crossed the river, blowing up the bridges afterward.

"Last night five of our airships effectively bombed the crossing of the Tagliamento at Latsana, the town of Motta di Livento and troops moving on roads leading to the river."

Austro-Germans Have Reached Piave River, Berlin Reports.

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 10.—
The Austro-German forces which are invading Northern Italy have reached the Piave River. Asgiago has been captured. The Austro-Germans have reached the Piave River.

The Piave River has been reached all the way from Susegana to the Adriatic.

The announcement follows: "Austro-Hungarian troops are pressing forward in the Sugana valley and in the upper Piave valley.
After desperate fighting in the streets Asgiago has been taken. Italian rear guards which made a further stand at the mountain edge and in the plain at the courses of the rivers at this point probably would entail retreatment of the Italians from the Piave line.

Susegana is on the foothills of the Alps. The Germans have reached

ROCHESTER'S CAPTAIN DETAILS HOW U-BOAT SANK VESSEL

Crew Suffered Terribly From Cold and Some Died of Exposure During 5 Days at Sea.

LONDONDERRY, Ireland, Nov.
10.—Capt. Eric Kokeritz of the American steamer Rochester which was sunk Nov. 2 by an enemy submarine, has arrived in Londonderry.
He told a thrilling story today of his vessel's encounter with the submarine and of the hardships that the crew endured during the five days they were in open boats.

The Rochester was bound from England to an American port, in ballast, and with several other vessels was accompanied by a British protecting flotilla. At 1 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 2, she became separated from her convoy and proceeded alone.

At 5 o'clock in the evening of that day the steamer was struck by a torpedo which was seen about 10 seconds before it reached the mark.
The explosion occurred on the port side in the after part of the engine room, and the engines and dynamo were wrecked.

The Rochester slowed down to a dead stop and yet those aboard had not seen the submarine. The life boats were lowered and the crew of 49, including 13 American navy men, entered them.

The life boats were pulled away and when about 500 yards from the steamer the men saw the submarine.
It was more than two miles from the Rochester, and at that range fired 10 shots at her. Two of the shells were distinct hits and the vessel went down quickly.

Capt. Kokeritz said that the submarine commander made no attempt to communicate with them: "My crew suffered terribly from cold and some of the men in the other boats died from exposure. The survivors were landed at Mayo," Capt. Koke-ritz said.

MILITARY AVIATORS GET LOST IN ST. LOUIS' PALL OF SMOKE

Fliers Bound for San Antonio Forced to Spend Night at Scott Field.

Scott Field, Ill., Nov. 10.—Lieut.
John M. Foote, a military aviator, and H. W. Blakely, a civilian aviator, who started from Chanute Aviation Field at Rantoul, Ill., at 10:40 a. m. yesterday, on their way to San Antonio, Tex., got lost in the pall of smoke and fog over St.
Louis and had to spend the night at Scott Field, the army aviation school, at Belleville.

The aviators had planned a brief stop at Scott Field. They got into the hall of smoke and fog over St.
Louis, but did not recognize the city
they sighted the Mississippi River.
They then flew back over Mitchell and Mascoutah, Ill., landing at Scott Field at 2 p. m. They decided not to resume their flight until 6:30 this morning.

Blakely said the reason they lost their way in the smoke was that they were flying at an altitude of only 1500 feet, when they should have been up 6000.

The distance from Rantoul to San Antonio, by rail, is about 1130 miles.

INTERURBAN EJECTS MAN WHO REFUSED CASH FOR WAR TAX

Madison County Mining Executive Wanted Amount Taken From His Mine Book.

Frank Lannae of Woodson, Ill., vice president of the Madison County Mining Co., was put off of an Illinois Traction car at Hamel, Ill., Friday, because he refused to pay the two cents war tax asked by the conductor and demanded that the equivalent be torn from his mine book.

Lannae boarded the car at Worden and the conductor tore out millions to Edwardsville and asked for the two cents war tax. Lannae called his attention to the fact that the transportation was indicated in the bill of lading and the conductor told him to tear off two cents worth. The conductor refused and after an argument put Lannae off at Hamel. Lannae yesterday consulted an Edwardsville attorney.

263,917 ST. LOUISANS SIGN HOOPER CONSERVATION PLEDGE

Total of Two Weeks' Campaign Exceeds Expectations of Committee by More Than 50,000.

The Hoover family food conservation pledge was signed by 263,917
St. Louisans during the two-weeks' campaign just closed, according to the count of lists completed last night at the headquarters of the Women's Central Food Conservation Committee in the Boatmen's Bank Building. It is expected that some lists not yet turned in will increase this total considerably.

The number exceeded the expectation of members of the committee by more than 50,000. It had been estimated by Mrs. George Bass of the Women's Food Conservation Committee that the total would be about 200,000.

10,215,240 SIGN FOOD PLEDGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—More than 10,000,000 people have pledged themselves to follow the food administration's food conservation directions. The pledges were obtained in a two-weeks' intensive campaign conducted by State food administrators, assisted by volunteer workers.

The exact number of pledges that had been reported signed tonight was 10,215,240, with returns still incomplete.

WAR WILL TEST US TO THE LIMIT, SAYS GEN. WOOD

Declares German Propaganda Is at Work When It Is Said Fighting Won't Last Long.

"IT WILL BE WON BY MEN"

"We Are Going to Win, After a Struggle on Which We Will Look Back With Horror."

Major-General Leonard Wood, speaking before 200 St. Louis business men at the St. Louis Club last night in the interest of the work in behalf of soldiers in the environs of army cantonments, said that enemy propaganda in this country was not a matter of blowing up bridges, but of "verbal message," to lull the people into inactivity by the belief that the war would soon end.

"No one can tell how long the war will last," he declared. "Men who talk an early end of the war are almost public enemies. They will still perform useless acts of destruction, but the German war is ruinous."

"We are in a war which will tax
the nation's soul to its very limit.
It will take everything we have, material, moral and spiritual. The propaganda of the enemy is not now to perform useless acts of destruction, but to make our people think that the German morale is broken, that the German army is in revolt, that the German war is ruinous."

"More Camouflage." The idea is, wait, something may happen so that we shan't have to do our duty. All this must be disregarded. It is mere camouflage, to retard our entry into the war until a time when our allies can no longer protect us as they do today, and when we shall have to bear the bulk of the burden ourselves.

"We are now preparing to do the things that sound judgment dictated should do a generation ago. Fortunately, we are preparing behind the lines of allies strong enough to protect us while we prepare. But let us never be caught in this way again.
There is not a bit of evidence that war has passed away, or that this is going to be the last war. It is more likely that it is the beginning of a great series of wars. Leagues for peace are just another kind of verbal message. The interests of different peoples seldom coincide for a long time. The human nature is bound to assert itself."

"We Must Be Ready in the Future."
We've escaped this time by a narrow margin. This is no easy world, and we must be ready to play the game to the hilt.

"Contrast our camp in the eighth month of the war, with their wooden camps and dummy cannon, with the frontiers of Europe, where 9,000,000 men were in arms seven days after the war began. We may damn their systems, but they represent the conditions by which we are surrounded in this world."

"The war is not going to be won by Mr. Edison. That is more camouflage. It will not be won by sniffling the enemy through the air. It will not be won by machines, but it will be won by men directing machines."

"We are going to win—I feel certain of that—but it will be after a struggle on which we will look back with horror. We will create a flame hot enough to make America a real melting pot."

Praises Draft Men.
In his direct appeal for support of the environs work, Gen. Wood told of conditions at Camp Funston in Kansas, where he is commander, and where the drafted men from St.
Louis and other places in Missouri have been sent. He spoke of the body of soldiers there as "a slice cut straight across the bulk of the American people," and as being in the hands of the enemy.

"We have got to give until it hurts tremendously. But we're coming out a real people. Thank God, we are in the war now. We couldn't have held up our head among the Christian peoples if we hadn't gone in."

Comments Y. M. C. A. Work.
Gen. Wood said the men at Camp Funston should be protected and helped in an intelligent, practical way, and he commended the Y. M.
C. A. work within the cantonment, and the similar work of the Knights of Columbus and the Young Men's Hebrew Association, and the environs work, which aims at extending helpful influences to the cities and towns adjoining the cantonments.

He told of the work of women at Junction City, in organizing to keep disreputable women out of the town, through which all soldiers pass in the latter part of the week.

5,000,000 6-INCH SHELLS AND STEEL RAILINGS ORDERED

Contracts for Additional Shells of Same and Larger Caliber, Also Freight Cars, to Follow.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Government has disbursed orders for 5-000,000 six-inch shells among four or five munition makers, and the War Industries Board has allotted rollings of the 375,000 tons of steel needed in the manufacture to the mills. Additional orders are being placed for 6,500,000 six-inch shells, the making of which will require 487,500 tons of steel.

The authorities have been conferring with manufacturers preparatory to disbursement orders for 33,000,000 three-inch shells, the production of which will make draft upon the steel mills for 247,500 tons of steel bars.
Contracts for shells eight to 12 inches in diameter, calling for 390,000 tons of steel forgings, are to follow.

Contracts have been signed for the building of 472 freight cars for equipping the United States expeditionary railroad in France, and the mills are to furnish the 12 companies to which were allotted the orders with the 48,000 tons of steel required for the production of the cars for the same service have been distributed, but lack the official signatures.

'RELIGIOUS CABARET' DRAWS DERELICTS BY DRINKS OFFER

Refreshment Is of Soft Variety, but There Is Free Auto Ride and Jazz Music.

Nine automobiles patrolled the downtown streets until midnight last night, picking up derelicts and giving them a free ride to the only "refreshment" place for all corners.
The building of 1530 Market street by the Volunteers of America.

Planning placards on the machines proclaimed that the cabaret talent included Helene Bill and Cornette Bass, and that there were free drinks and jazz music. The free ride was found to be a disappointment of some of the guests. The jazz music was sung to religious tunes.

OHIO WETS HAVE 1816 LEAD AT END OF ELECTION WEEK

Drs. Refusing to Concede Defeat Point to Gain of 65,000 Votes in Two Years.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10.—The close of election week in Ohio left anti-prohibition forces with a lead of 1816 votes. The tabulation includes 77 counties officially reported, eight county seat official returns and three unofficial but complete county totals.
Totals which since Tuesday night had waxed and waned for either side, as wet or dry centers reported their vote of officially reported, eight counties, tonight stood: For probi-tution, 522,226; against, 524,042.

PRESIDENT WILL SPEAK AT LABOR CONVENTION TOMORROW

Men of Officers' Training Camp at Fort Niagara to Act as Guard of Honor.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 10.—President Wilson will speak at the opening session of the American Federation of Labor convention here Monday morning.

The men of the officers' training camp at Fort Niagara have been ordered by Secretary of War to act as a guard of honor to the President in his party during their stay in Buffalo.

AIRCRAFT OUTPUT HALF CAPACITY

U. S. Factories Could Produce Twice What Program Calls For.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Aircraft production in American factories is developing at such a rate that, it is said, the present program of 22,000 planes and 50,000 motors by July 1 can be doubled in the last six months of next year if army needs demand it.

Consideration is being given to the substitution of more tubing and spruce wood in American airplane manufacture, although the change may be unnecessary because the labor troubles in the Northwest, now is almost normal. The French are using an alloy tubing for plane frames.

SHIP WORKERS TO BE EXEMPT IN NEXT DRAFT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Plans to insure the retention of ship workers for ship building were announced today by Provost Marshal General Crowder after conferences with officials of the Navy Department and the emergency fleet corporation.
Regulations for the second call for the national army will provide a special qualified list of ship workers of military age and they will be excused from service in the national army as long as they are employed on government ship projects.

SHIP PROGRAM IS PUT INTO HANDS OF BUSINESS MEN

Taken From Navy Following Report That Lack of Business Methods Is Delaying Work.

PLAN IS REVOLUTIONIZED FORMS BEING SENT OUT

Complaints Had Been Made That Yards Were Not Getting Materials as They Were Needed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Complete reorganization of the Shipping Board's emergency fleet corporation was begun today when Charles A. Piez, a Chicago engineer, recently made vice president of the corporation, was put in supreme charge of the Government's ship-building program.

Rear Admiral Washington L.
Capps, appointed by President Wilson as general manager of the corporation, succeeding Major-General George W. Goethals, will continue in that position, but much of the work he has done heretofore will be taken over by Piez. Admiral Capps declared reports that he would resign because of the changes that will be made.

Duties that have been performed by some of Admiral Capps' aides, most of them naval men, will be taken over to a large extent by engineers who will serve with Piez.
Wooden ships construction will be put in charge of James Heyworth, a Chicago contractor, who displaces
Rear Admiral P. T. Bowles, retired.
The building of fabricated steel ships will be under the supervision of Charles Day, a Philadelphia engineer, now in England for the Shipping Board, studying English methods of construction. A. J. Mason of the American Shipbuilding Co. will do most of the field work, inspecting plants and supervising generally their operation.

Lack of Business Methods.
Decision to reorganize the staff that has had charge of building was made by the Shipping Board after an investigation by a special committee. The committee, named by the board, was headed by Piez and had as its other members Mason, Day and Frank Kirby, a New York engineer.

The committee reported that ship building was not proceeding as it should because of lack of business methods within the fleet corporation. Yards, they reported, were not obtaining material as rapidly as they needed it. Specifications, they said, were changed too often, and a general lack of harmony was found, they declared, between builders and the fleet corporation's officials.

The cause of the reorganization was believed by those well informed to be the result of complaints of shipbuilders and others with the report made by the Production Engineering Commission of the Fleet Corporation within the last 10 days that serious delays existed in the program.

The report of the Production Engineering Commission, of which Mr.
Piez was chairman, pointed out that matters were not being handled with business efficiency. Lumber and material were not being procured on time by builders; deck material was arriving in the yards before keel pieces; in many cases builders had completed arrangements and material was not forthcoming, and, above all, a lack of stability had been created in the shipbuilding industry by the frequency with which changes in schedules and construction were asked for or ordered.

A similar complaint was laid before the Shipping Board in a memorial presented today by E. J. Clarke, president of the Maryland Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. on behalf of the Atlantic Coast Wooden Ship Builders' Association.

One of the first things the reorganized corporation but do will be to assure a sufficient supply of lumber for the 310 wooden ships now under construction. Southern pine producers have failed to deliver timber in the quantities needed and the corporation will turn to Oregon fir timber to be used in the construction of special trains. The priorities committee will be asked immediately to give these shipments right of way over less essential material.

One development of the conferences was the statement by shipping board officials that the wooden ship now building probably are the last that will be ordered by the government.

ITALIAN ASCENDS 24,000 FEET

Lieut. Gianfelice Makes Test in Speedy Sva Airplane.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 10.—Lieut.
Gianfelice, one of the Italian aviators at Langley Field, reached a height of 24,000 feet in a Sva airplane this afternoon. The flight was held under official auspices and was to test the new machine, which is comparatively new. The Sva car is the fastest of any of the Italian cars in America.

Suffragists "Boss" Warns Them to

PETROGRAD, Nov. 10.—David R. Francis, the American Ambassador, who has been closely following the course of events here since the beginning of the overture said today that he had been trying vainly for two days to find a single member of the provisional Government.
"I am awaiting developments," the Ambassador added.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Women voters of New York were advised today by Miss Mary Garrett Hay, popularly known as "The Boss" of the woman suffrage party in this city, to beware of the advances made by politicians, no matter what party they represent.

"I've been working a lot harder since Tuesday than I did before we got the vote," said Miss Hay at a luncheon. "I've been spending my time sitting on the lid. The women of New York now have a great responsibility and we must keep our heads. Don't be carried away by the beautiful invitations some of you already have received from political organizations. Keep out of partisan politics until you have learned where you're at."

FOOD SHORTAGE IN BELGIUM NOT DUE TO LACK OF FUNDS

Chairman Hoover of Relief Commission Says Shipping Secrecy Is Responsible.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Herbert Hoover, chairman of the Belgium Relief Commission, tonight denied a press dispatch from Paris that shortage of food in Belgium was due to lack of funds.

He pointed out that the $75,000-600 loaned by the United States to Belgium by France to carry on relief work has not been exhausted, and that the scarcity of shipping and delays consequent to submarine activities have been responsible for the shortage.

The entire question of feeding the civilian population in occupied Belgium and Northern France has resolved itself into a question of shipping," Mr. Hoover said.

LIBERTY BONDS FOR GERMAN FIRM

Agent Seeking U. S. Gold for $7000 Induced to Take Certificates.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The captain of a steamer which recently arrived at an Atlantic port was commissioned by a German firm to a foreign city to bring over $7000, get American gold for it and bring the gold back to Germany.

The captain went to a bank in his port of arrival, presented the money and asked that it be changed.
"We can't do that," he was told.
"What shall I do?" asked the captain.

"We will give you seven $1000 second Liberty Bonds. That's the best thing for you to take."

The captain agreed. He took the bonds and yesterday sailed from his port of arrival with the bonds. Inspired officials of the Federal Reserve search found the Liberty Bonds, did not understand the skipper's explanation, and held the ship for several hours until the case was laid before a Federal attorney and straightened out.

What the German firm will say when it receives its Liberty Bonds is something on which the captain is speculating, since he now realizes what the bonds represent.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

Gov. Gardner Says Blessing Has Come Out of the Ocean of War.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 10.—
Gov. Gardner issued his Thanksgiving day proclamation today.

"The material blessings have never been so abundant as they are this year," says the Governor. "And while the blessings are many, they vouchsafed us this season, yet out of the terrible cataclysm which has enveloped the world has come a still greater blessing to the State and nation. We have come to know that of the Ukraine will consolidate to form a government, the possibility of a Russian civil war may be the result.

Meanwhile, it is believed German occupation of the Baltic states, making possible the way for a display of the real power of the Bolshevik element and whether its spirit is truly Russian.

Lenine as Russian Premier Plans Power of 2-Months Armistice.
BEROGRAD, Nov. 10.—The all-Russian congress of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates is reported unofficially to have named a Cabinet composed of Bolsheviks and then adjourned. The Cabinet is headed by Nikolai Lenine, who yesterday announced plans for a three months' armistice, as Premier, and Leon Trotsky holds the post of Foreign Minister.

The Cabinet will serve until the constituent assembly approves it or selects a new one. In addition, to Lenine and Trotsky, the other members are reported to be as follows: Minister of Interior, M. Rikoff; Finance, M. Sviatoff; Agriculture, M. Shilapnikoff; Labor, M. Shilapnikoff; Communications, M. Rikoff; War and Marine, M. Shilapnikoff; Krylenko and Bibenko; Commerce, M. Nogin; Education, M. Lunacharsky; Justice, M. Oppokov; Supplies, M. Theodorovitch; Posts and Telegraphs, M. Aviloff; Affairs of the Nationalities, M. Dzhugashvili; Communications, M. Rikoff.

Bolsheviks Compose Cabinet.
 The Cabinet members are all Bolsheviks and are supported by the left and the Social revolutionist party. The other parties have withdrawn from the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council. Bibenko is a Kronstadt sailor, while Shilapnikoff is a laborer.

In reply to a question from a Trotsky deputy who protested against the arrest of the former Ministers, Trotsky announced that the Socialists members of the Kerensky Cabinet would be released from the fortress of St. Peter and Paul, pending an investigation. He said the others would be held.

The Congress took action to turn over to the land committee for distribution the landed estates and church lands. The lands of the Cossacks and the peasants will not be confiscated.

The banks in Petrograd have reopened. The city is quiet.

Lenine to Offer Armistice.
 "We plan to offer an immediate armistice of three months, during which we are willing to consider all nations and the diplomats are to be the questions of peace," said Lenine, Maximalist leader, in a speech before the Workmen's and Soldiers' Congress yesterday.

"We offer these terms," Lenine added, "but we are willing to consider any proposals for peace, no matter from which side. We offer a just peace, but will not accept unjust terms."

The all-Russian congress of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates has elected a committee to assume control of various departments pending the institution of a permanent government.

The revolutionary committee has arranged a search for Kerensky with the intention of arresting him and has taken many other measures to further its control.

Russian Comic Paper Published Lenine State After July Riots.
CLEVELAND, Nov. 10.—Herbert Bernstein, Russian author and journalist, in a statement today regarding the Cabinet reported named by the all-Russian Congress of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, said:

"The unofficial announcement of the Bolsheviks that they are about to form a Cabinet state publisher in one of the comic papers in Petrograd after the Maximalist riots last July. Lenine was then also named as Premier, Trotsky as Minister of Foreign Affairs and Lunacharsky, a Maximalist journalist, as Minister of Education. After the July riots Trotsky and Lunacharsky were arrested and imprisoned. About two weeks later they were released on bail. Lenine was also ordered arrested at that time, but fled.

"The Lenine Cabinet cannot last long. The best and noblest champions of Russian liberty will hardly submit to the dictatorship of Lenine, who came to save Russia with remedies made in Germany."

German Papers Expect No Speedy Peace With Russia to Result.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 10.—German newspapers commenting on recent Russian events make no attempt to predict speedy peace with Russia. On the other hand, the impression prevails quite widely that the Maximalists are being driven by the force of circumstances to follow much the same policy as the Kerensky regime, as soon as they find that a non-annexation peace is not to be attained early by proclaiming their readiness to conclude such a peace.

Several newspapers allude to the fact that the declared policy of the Maximalists is for a general peace, not a separate one, and this on the basis of absolutely no annexations. It is generally assumed, however, that the developments at Petrograd spell the end of the Russian army as an offensive factor in the present war and remove the last possibility that it will be reconstituted as an effective military force or prove a serious obstacle to German military plans.

The Berlin Voerwaerts, organ of the Socialist party, says the German Socialists, which are against Bolshevik methods for their own land, cannot advocate them for Russia. They are in accord with the Bolsheviks, however, in rejecting all annexations. The Voerwaerts then develops the remarkable thesis that good might emerge from the situation if the Bolshevik Government, which places peace above the integrity of Russia's territory, and the central Powers, refusing annexations, should all unite on the basis of renunciation of Poland and other disputed areas, leaving the people to settle their own affairs.

MAXIMALISTS' ROLE TO BE SHORT-LIVED, SAYS AMBASSADOR

Provisional Government's Representative in Paris Predicts Extremists Will Be Overthrown.

NEW POWER REPUDIATED

Russian Envoy at Washington in Statement Refuses to Recognize Lenine Faction.

By LINCOLN EYRE,
 Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Springing cheerfully, Basil Maklakoff, Russia's new Ambassador to France, informed me this morning, a few hours after the cable reached here, that the Maximalist uprising in Petrograd "is the best thing that could happen."

Maklakoff, who was one of Kerensky's ablest advisers in the latter's forlorn attempt to establish a durable form of authority, is the first representative of the Russian provisional Government sent to this country. He arrived in Paris two days ago, and already this administration whose appointment he has been overthrown. Yet the Ambassador seems fairly brimming with optimism about his country's future. Even now, he declared, the counter-revolution against the extremists doubtless is under way.

He expressed appreciation of the help given Russia by the United States and, although evidently doubtful as to the wisdom of sending American troops, was outspoken in emphasizing the need of financial assistance.

I was the first American correspondent with whom the Russian diplomat had talked.

Like the French Commune.
 "You must know the whole business to an absolute," he began. "Let your compatriots understand that what is occurring in Russia now is like the French Commune. Matters coming to a head are bound to prepare a counter movement—not for restoration of the autocratic regime, but for bringing order in the body politic. Lenine's triumph will be a short one, for very soon a new power will come into being which will do away with Soviets forever. The Cossacks—who want war to a finish and are faithful to the Government and against the Soviets—must be reckoned with. During the last months of Czarism the country was in disorder. That is why the people are enthusiastic for revolutions. They thought they would reorganize the country, but instead of getting better, things went worse."

I asked if he knew anything concerning the whereabouts of Kerensky. Maklakoff answered that for two days the embassy here had not received any official news from Petrograd in regard to the actual situation. Concerning the arrests, he remarked: "At the present moment anything is possible," but he was emphatic regarding the future, saying: "Be sure things will soon right themselves."

When asked in what way the United States could help Russia, the Ambassador answered: "Very few people know how great was the help America gave us in organizing the trans-Siberian railroad. In financial matters also America has helped us, and that is the main question. You can still help us financially and also with supplies."

Question of Sending Army.
 With regard to the United States sending an army the envoy remarked: "That is a delicate question. Your country is only just organizing an army; the difficulties in transporting an American army to Russia would be enormous; besides we've got men."

Asked if the Russian people would welcome an American army, Maklakoff observed: "Undoubtedly they would be enthusiastic, but it would give them the impression that Russia was beaten and had to call on the allies for help. Our army is not beaten. It will soon reorganize itself and once again become a fighting force with which the central empires will have to reckon."

Referring to the Inter-allied conference to be held soon in Paris, the Ambassador said he had not the faintest idea as to who would represent Russia, now that the Soviet had got temporary power. When he left ago it was decided that Terestchenko should represent the provisional Government. He also said that when he left Russia a decision had been made that no Soviet representative should be present at the conference.

Finally, the Ambassador said: "Russia is not out—only disorganized. No doubt, even now, a counter-revolution is being organized."

to clear the situation, out of which Russia will come stronger than ever and as a democratic republic."

Russian Ambassador at Washington Repudiates Maximalists.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Boris Maklakoff, Russian Ambassador, yesterday issued a formal statement in which he flatly repudiated the Maximalist Government set up in Petrograd by Nikolai Lenine, Leon Trotsky and other extreme radicals.

The statement follows: "Under present circumstances, the Russian embassy is unable to authorize any definite judgment on the events in Russia and therefore it is necessary to refrain from expressing any definite judgment on the bearing of the events which have taken place. However, the following is certain and indisputable: "The Petrograd events are a revolt of a party against a national Government. The Maximalists are in no way representative of the whole of Russia. If they have succeeded in seizing power and formed a 'Maximalist Government' such a Government cannot express the will of the nation. Consequently, the Russian embassy in Washington will refuse to accept its authority."

"Russia can be headed only by a national Government uniting all the constructive elements of Russian democracy. "Any success of the Maximalists is of the greatest danger to the new liberties of Russia as well as to the cause of the allies. Nevertheless, however disorganizing and demoralizing can be its effect, a Bolshevik revolt should be regarded as an occurrence in the great process of reconstruction which is being struggled through by the Russian nation."

The American Consul-General at Moscow has informed the State Department, the telegram was dated Nov. 8, that the revolutionary party, headed by the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, had taken over the Government of Moscow, including the posts and telegraphs and also had taken control of all the newspapers. The telegram was dated Nov. 8, that the revolutionary party, headed by the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, had taken over the Government of Moscow, including the posts and telegraphs and also had taken control of all the newspapers.

State Department officials would not authorize any statement as to the attitude it would take toward the Bolshevik Government, but it was assumed from semi-official utterances that there would be no immediate action taken which would probably mean that the United States would refuse to extend recognition to the Maximalists.

It is believed that the Russian embassies in all other countries have taken or will take action similar to that of the Russian embassy in Washington, thus depriving the extremist regime of intercourse with the outside world. It was said by embassy diplomats to be a foregone conclusion that the allied Powers would refuse to recognize the Lenine Government.

British in Palestine Have Advanced Near 20 Miles Past Gaza.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The British War Office communication on the situation in Palestine follows: "Gen. Allenby reports that yesterday mounted troops moved forward rapidly and captured another 400 prisoners and 10 guns. Our line now generally 1 to 6 miles north of the Wadi-Hesi river. Asaklan has been occupied by infantry and artillery."

"North of Beersheba there were no developments."

The British columns advancing along the Mediterranean coast, assisted by French and British warships, has gained nearly 20 miles since the recent capture of Gaza. Hamaneh is 15 miles away from Gaza. The British are now only about 5 miles behind the latitude of Jerusalem which, however, is 45 miles inland and has not thus far been menaced directly.

"Our airplanes continued to bomb the retreating bodies of the enemy and support centers of his communications with considerable effect," continues the report. "In this way nearly 300 bombs were dropped during the day. The guns captured number now well over 70 and include several 5.9 inch howitzers." The extent of the battlefield makes it impossible to estimate the quantity of ammunition and other warlike stores which have fallen into our hands.

"Gen. Allenby estimates the enemy's casualties up to date at 10,000, exclusive of prisoners."

NEW BUTTER PRODUCING RECORD

1331 Pounds in 365 Days Yielded by Cow in California.

WOODLAND, Cal., Nov. 10.—World's records for butter production were broken by Aggie Acme of Riverside II, a Holstein cow, owned by A. W. Morris & Sons of Woodland, in a test conducted under the supervision of the University of California, it was announced here today.

The cow yielded 1331.41 pounds of butter in 365 days, 1167.96 pounds of butter in 305 days, and 2426.51 pounds of butter in two years. Aggie Acme's milk production for the 305 days' test was 22,092.8 and 24,682.7 pounds for the 365-day test.

SELECTIVE DRAFT ARMY IS PRAISED BY GEN. WOOD

89th Division Commander Tells Post-Dispatch It Has the Spirit to Win.

MATERIAL FOR OFFICERS

Youth and Capacity Combined in Men of Conviction Rather Than Enthusiasm.

Major-General Leonard Wood, commander of the Eighty-ninth Division of the national army at Camp Funston, in an interview given at Hotel Jefferson last evening at the request of the Post-Dispatch, opened his heart in praise of the selective draft army and, for the first time since he took command of his Kansas post, according to the men in a public way the due to which he declares they are entitled.

"The army of men of the selective draft is just as good as the American people, and its fighting value may be estimated, when trained, in proportion to the fighting spirit of the nation these men have the honor to represent," Gen. Wood declared with emphasis. "I do not believe that the revolutionary party, composed of the most efficient body of men ever called to arms in this country."

There will be another call of men to officers' training camps early in January, Gen. Wood said he had been informed. We may expect the contingents to consist mostly of drafted men recommended by their company commanders," he added.

"Thus we have the finest material of the nation to supply officers for the great contest ahead," Gen. Wood explained. "For, you know, we will need millions of men before we will have finished with this war. The fact that we have this material in training at this time is reason for congratulation, and I do not believe the drafted man will be found wanting when he is measured up for command."

It is an army of quality. The men are physically fit, they are a transverse section of the American population—and hence are mentally alert, and hence are mentally capable."

"They are of all religious denominations; of all different blood lines, transfused in a free-thinking nation where liberty is the ideal and where the standard of honor is at its highest level. The general conduct of these men is a credit to the country. Our line now generally 1 to 6 miles north of the Wadi-Hesi river. Asaklan has been occupied by infantry and artillery."

"No Whimper From 50,000 Men."

"Now, how serious do you suppose these men of the selective draft are? Gen. Wood queried, and then quickly answered the question himself. "I have approximately 50,000 of these fellows under my command, but I have yet to receive the first verbal or written complaint, anonymous or otherwise. I have yet to have the first whimper of dissatisfaction or discomfort."

"The first months of a man's army experience are hard, you know, but these fellows are made of the stuff that conquers. A quitter complains; it cannot be said of these men."

"The people of the United States have not awakened to full realization of the size of this war or to an appreciation of the fact that it will require the supreme effort of our national life. It is a war in which is involved the survival of the English-speaking race and I believe that the army of which I speak to become the greatest factor in its preservation."

"They are men not so much of enthusiasm as of conviction, and I believe that they realize the responsibilities of the job they are about to undertake, and are willing to make the supreme sacrifice, every man of them, should it be demanded."

YOUTH AND CAPACITY COMBINED.

"One reason why I have so much faith in the capability of these men as a unit is that we have 1500 college graduates; twice as many who have directed large forces of men in the management of industry and a number of bright, intelligent young chaps—and best of all, they're all between 21 and 31."

JOHN DOE'S WARRANT ISSUED FOR OHIO DOCTOR'S SLAYER

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 10.—A warrant was issued today charging "John Doe" with the murder of Dr. Harry L. Chapin, a well-known Cleveland physician, author, poet and traveler, who was found last Thursday in a downtown hotel with a fractured skull and who died a few hours later.

A check of the victim's effects showed that jewelry valued at $4000 had been stolen.

Police now believe Chapin was lured to the hotel by a package supposed to contain a narcotic. The Chicago police notified the authorities here today that a suspect being sought by the Cleveland police is believed to be the salesman for a band of Illinois drug thieves.

NASTY MEDICINES BAD FOR CHILDREN

It is not often a child requires medicine of any kind. If the bowels are regular and promptly disposed of by the stomach, the general health is very apt to be excellent. In any case, pills, powders, and nauseating or unpalatable compounds, should never be given to children. Any therapeutic virtue such remedies may possess is largely nullified by the youngsters' natural antagonism.

For most children a mild laxative, administered occasionally, is all that is needed to assure normal regularity and good health. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a pleasant-tasting combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, free from opiate or narcotic drugs, and acts gently yet effectively; children like it and take it readily, so that it is the ideal remedy for the family medicine chest. It is sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

War Will Test Us to Limit, Says General Wood

going to and from Camp Funston. He said it was necessary not only to provide headquarters and comfortable lodgings for soldiers, but to have committees at the trains, to invite and direct them to those places.

There should also be committees to look after those at home, he said. He told of letters received from the wives and mothers of men in camp, home, and asking in some cases that they be permitted to return for awhile.

Dependents Need Aid.

Their wives and mothers from 15 to 31 years of age, he said. "Their children are little children. Here is a splendid work for you women to do," he remarked, turning toward a delegation of women who had been admitted to hear his address.

In speaking of the menace of social diseases to soldiers, Gen. Wood said: "Does not this set you to thinking whether you are not slackers if you indulge in that which is denied to them? I have never been called a crank on this subject, and I am not talking prohibition, but I am suggesting that you be at one, in every possible way, with these boys who are fighting for you."

This was applauded, but Dr. Phillips remarked that some did not applaud, and he added, "Before this war is over you will indorse what I have said."

Gen. Wood departed for Camp Funston after the dinner, following a day in St. Louis. He arrived on a morning train from Buffalo and Boston, where he had been attending to matters of private business, and was met by Pettengill and Gen. E. J. Spencer. During the day he inspected the Busch-Sulzer-Diesel engine works.

The women who heard his address at the St. Louis Club represented the Women's Council of Defense, the Social Hygiene Association, and the Women's Catholic League. In the audience were also several men in uniform, including Capt. Dolphin of the British Recruiting Mission, and some officers of the Home Guard.

Conditions Outlined.

H. J. Pettengill, president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., presided at the dinner, and told of the conditions to be met by the enlisted men. He said 10,000,000 women had congregated in and around San Antonio since that city had become a center of army training, and that gamblers and bootleggers were added menaces. "The man-preparedness shall never be forgotten."

U. S. Will Need 5,000,000 Men in the War, Gen. Wood Says.

Gen. Wood was met by a Post-Dispatch reporter on his train at Panama, Ill., early yesterday morning. Over his breakfast he said: "We need 5,000,000 men probably more, and 200,000 officers before we have done with this war. The condition in Russia aggravates the thing and Italy, too, is contributing to our concern. We are in a hard fight that I believe will last long. Our great war effort should be to get ready, not how long it will last, for we are just beginning."

The people, he said, were more thoughtful and more determined than they were in the Spanish-American war. "There can be but one end," he declared, "and I believe we all feel this, but let's stop thinking about that. Let's get ready for the thing."

"Considering the time we have had to prepare," he continued, "I should say that we are ahead of the schedule in general preparedness. The selected men, especially, have exceeded our expectations."

The General said the greatest need of the country was ships and guns of all sizes. "Give us guns and ships," he said, "and we are ready for the first stroke."

who saves money during this war is a slacker," he said in urging liberal giving.

The Rev. Dr. B. T. Phillips, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, made a stirring appeal for support of the envious work, and alluding to the nearness of Jefferson Barracks, he said that St. Louis needed work of the kind proposed. "In a camp not far from us," he said, "dreadful conditions have prevailed. I cannot tell here, of the things which were known, last June, regarding the influences around our soldiers at that camp." He went on to urge that all churches should be made centers of social and moral influence for soldiers.

Abstainers During War.

Dr. Phillips then urged his hearers to become total abstainers from alcoholic drinks for the period of the war. "Your brothers in the army are inhibited by the Government from indulging in liquor," the speaker said. "Does not this set you to thinking whether you are not slackers if you indulge in that which is denied to them? Six Dining Rooms.

OPEN TO PUBLIC TODAY

Proprietor's Twin Daughters
First to Register; First Bridal Couple From Kansas City.

Hotel Statler, St. Louis' new $3,000,000 hostelry, was crowded last night with guests, admitted by card only, who had reserved dinner tables at $3.50 a plate. The diners were served in three relays in the establishment's six dining rooms.

The management announced that it had accepted 1600 reservations, and was compelled to turn away many more for want of accommodations for a larger number. The guests were given an opportunity to inspect the hotel from top to bottom. There was dancing all evening in the large ballroom on the twentieth floor, which in summer will be used as a roof garden. The majority of the diners were in evening dress.

The hotel will be thrown open to the public today, and twice thereafter will be given to the public, without the necessity of sets of admission. The first to register yesterday were the Statler twins, Ellsworth and Elva, 5 years old, daughters of the proprietor, Ellsworth M. Statler. Four other members of the Statler family were next on the roster. The first bridal couple to register were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kimbrough of Kansas City, who were married Friday evening.

The hotel's initial function occurred Friday night, when a reception and dinner dance were given for the benefit of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association, and when Statler was host at a dinner given to a number of newspaper publishers and editors.

Statler Tells of Experiences. Statler at the dinner told of his experience in conducting large hotels, beginning with the Inside Inn (in Forest Park) at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. This, he said, was the largest hotel ever operated, having 2057 rooms. The next largest, he said, would be the new 2000-room Pennsylvania Hotel in New York, which he is to manage. The Pennsylvania will be one of the chain of Statler houses, but it takes its name from the Pennsylvania Railroad, which financed its construction.

Copies of a booklet "Statler Service Codes," telling of the plan on which the service in the Statler hotels is conducted, were distributed. The booklet is directed, interested some of the guests. These contained, in different forms, the Statler motto that "The guest is always right," stated in such a manner as to impress employees. One of the paragraphs was: "A waiter who says 'Pell Mell' when the guest says 'Pell Mell' and 'Paul Maul' when the guest says 'Paul Maul' can make the guest think himself right—and make us think the waiter is all right."

"Tipping Not Necessary." "Statler's Talk on Tipping" was one chapter of the booklet. In this, the proprietor states his belief that a first-class hotel cannot be maintained on a tipless basis, for the reason that a certain number of guests will give tips in spite of all rules. But, it is stated, guests do not have to tip in order to get courteous, polite, attentive service. The guests to guests is: "Please do not tip unless you feel like it; but if you do tip, let your tipping be yielding to a genuine desire, not conforming to an outrageous custom." Another paragraph gives warning that "the tip-grafters get short shrift here."

One application of the rule that "The guest is always right" is the announcement that women will be permitted to smoke in the public dining room at the Statler. Statler was asked about this, and said a woman might smoke, if she smoked in the manner of a lady, but he asked that this be not construed to mean that he encouraged the practice.

Permitted in Other Hotels. Inquiry was made as to the rule on this point in other St. Louis hotels. Lyman T. Hay, manager of the Jefferson and the Planters, said those houses used to have a rule against women smoking in the dining room, but that it had become a dead letter. Now it is permitted, he said, but there is very little smoking by women.

Inside the door of every one of the guest rooms in the Statler is a printed card, showing the price which is charged for the room with one occupant or with two occupants. This is expected to eliminate one frequent cause of controversy.

The Statler Hotel, while under the Statler name and management, is primarily a St. Louis enterprise. The Mortgage Trust Co., through Tom W. Bennett, its president, launched the plan nearly two years ago, and the building was financed by this company and by a syndicate of St. Louisans represented by the late John D. Davis. The Catlin and Liggett interests were represented.

The exterior, up to the fifth floor, is finished in buff Bedford limestone, and from the fifth to the sixteenth floor in tapestry brick. The overhanging balconies of the sixteenth floor are of limestone, and the remaining top floors are of terra cotta. There are main entrances on both the Ninth street and the Washington avenue sides, and the automobile and taxicab stand is on the St. Charles street side.

The walls and pillars of the lobby and the main desk are in Botticino marble, a soft gray-brown in tone, and the ceilings are plastered in low relief in deep cream, with touches of gold. Blue and white wedged plaques adorn the ceiling. The chandeliers are of bronze and etched glass, and the decorations include jardiniere, potteries and Chinese porcelains.

Can Seat 750 at Tables. The ladies' reception room is south of the main entrance, and the ladies' dining room is at the end of the Washington avenue corridor. The main dining room is 50 by 54 feet, and has a high ceiling, with balustrade around the room. The dining room furniture is of walnut, and the hangings of taffeta. The men's grill is south of the dining room, and can be opened into it, as can the ladies' dining room, thus making one room to accommodate 750 persons seated at tables.

A ladies' lounge is one of the features of the mezzanine floor. Above the mezzanine is the service floor, which contains sleeping quarters for employees and the telephone switchboard. The three floors above the service floor are for sample rooms, and the fourth to the fifteenth floors inclusive contain guest rooms.

These rooms, 650 in number, have shower baths and tubs in the outside rooms, and shower baths in the rooms facing the inner court, which are the minimum rate rooms. The sixteenth floor has the ballroom, 130 by 50 feet, with high windows, from which an extensive view of the Mississippi River, the city and the East Side can be had. An assembly room, adjoining, can be opened into the ballroom. Upper floors are devoted to chambers, convention halls and service quarters. There is a library where guests may obtain books without charge.

ALDERMAN BELIEVES GLASS IS PUT IN STREETS TO HURT TIRES

Schranz Will Ask Chief Young to Assign Men to Watch for Vandalism.

Throwing broken glass into streets which are much used by automobiles is becoming so general a practice that it must be done with the object of puncturing tires, Alderman Schranz of the Twenty-seventh Ward told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday.

"I travel in all parts of the city and I have observed that this scattering of fragments of heavy glass bottles cannot be the result of children's pranks or the carelessness of others," Dr. Schranz said. "The nuisance is not so apparent and harmful on the main boulevards, but is noticeable on smooth-paved side streets."

The tires of my automobile several times have been cut and blown out by glass and I intend to ask Chief of Police Young to assign special patrolmen to catching those who are guilty of this vandalism."

MORTGAGING OF MIND BY MAN IS LAWSUIT ISSUE

Plaintiff in Action Over Electric Ticket Vending Machine Claims Right to Invention.

DAMAGES ALSO ASKED FOR

Circuit Judge Jones Takes Case Under Adversement When Unusual Point Is Raised.

Whether a contract by which a man mortgages his mind can be enforced is a question which Circuit Judge Jones is called upon to decide in a suit of the Temco Manufacturing Co. against the National Electric Ticket Register Co. and its President, William L. Sullivan of Ferguson, St. Louis County, involving the patent on an electrical ticket vending machine.

It was Sullivan's mind which, as contended in the suit, was mortgaged to the Temco company. He contracted, it is alleged to work for the company as draftsman for $25 a week and to give to the company title to any invention or improvement he might devise during his period of employment or for three years thereafter. The purpose of the suit is to enforce that contract with respect to an invention devised by Sullivan within three years after he left the company's employ. Judge Jones took the case under advisement yesterday.

The suit seeks to compel the National Electric Ticket Register Co. and Sullivan to assign to the Temco Manufacturing Co. a patent on an electrical ticket vending machine. Also Wants $50,000 Damages. The Temco company also asks for $50,000 damages, alleging that it virtually was put out of business as a result of the patent in question being an infringement on one it obtained for a similar machine.

The electrical machine is now generally in use in theater box offices and other amusement places. It is operated by the seller pressing a button. The device also calculates the sales.

The Temco company avers that in October, 1909, when Sullivan accepted employment with it, the company owned a patent on a ticket vending machine which was operated by a pedal. More than 1100 of these machines were sold at profit of $13 each and others were under lease.

The machine was the invention of Albert J. Meier, president of the company. He testified that one night he got soaking wet waiting in the rain to get on a street car, while the conductor was punching transfers for a crowd of passengers, and the idea came to him for a mechanical device that would facilitate the sale of tickets.

After perfecting such a device, operated by foot, he organized a company to put the machine on the market. He subsequently employed Sullivan, with whom, he said, he frequently discussed a plan to improve the device by motor attachment when the company could obtain more capital.

Organized Rival Company. Sullivan quit in 1911 and the following year he and William L. Peabody, another former employee of Meier, organized the National Electric Ticket Register Co. to sell electrical ticket vending machines. His testimony was that they have sold more than 2000 of their machines since they engaged in business, have many more under lease and that the plaintiff has been able to sell only 50 of its pedal machines in competition with the improved device of its rival.

The Temco company resorted to this suit after it had been denied an injunction in the Federal court, in which patent interference was alleged.

Paul Bakewell, attorney for the defendants, argued before Judge Jones that the contract was an unconscionable one and therefore void. The attorney said that a contract by which a man mortgages his mind, such as he said, was shown here, could not be enforced in the courts.

Town Club Knitting Bee Heckles a "Militant"

Speaker Draws Sharp Retorts by Answers to Pointed Questions on Banner Flaunted by White House Pickets.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

The scene set at the Town Club, where a number of women of advanced tendencies gathered yesterday afternoon to hear Miss Mabel Vernon and Miss Margaret Whittemore, of the militant suffrage faction, both with jail terms to their credit, was a knitting bee.

There was antagonism, unspoken but felt, as the speakers, with their local sponsor, Mrs. Edith Barriger, unassisted by any of their hostesses, draped their banners over the furniture.

Miss Vernon spoke for an hour and a half. She has the dramatic sense highly developed, and it must be admitted that many times knitting needles seemed to forget their disconcerting roles and dropped idly into laps.

The plight of Miss Alice Paul, head of the Woman's Party and leader of that "little band of willful women" who have picketed the White House with such well-advertised results, and who at last have succeeded in getting a jail sentence without the usual suspension, was seized upon as the chief material of the speakers. Earlier in the day the two women called upon Mayor Kiel, urging him to ask the President to investigate alleged mistreatment of the prisoner by her jailers. The Mayor told them he would take the matter under advisement. Then they called at the Associated Press office here and reported that agency for not having carried a story they had seen in special correspondence to a Chicago paper to the effect that Miss Paul was confined in the psychiatric ward for investigation as to her sanity.

Numerously Degreed Woman.

Miss Paul was described by the speakers as a highly educated woman with innumerable college degrees, who, it was implied, would be incapable of going insane.

The Town Club audience was told that Miss Paul was the genius of the Woman's Party, a "logician and tactician," whose aim had been to center all her force upon Washington, and more recently upon the President.

The President's advice to go forth and bring public sentiment together upon the subject of a Federal amendment had been the signal to begin picketing the White House, it seems. This picketing had not annoyed the President; he was too busy, Miss Vernon assured her listeners. The President had been unfailingly polite and friendly, always lifting his hat in greeting when he saw them.

With which some felt encouraged to take up their knitting again and others noticed that the clock pointed to long past 5 o'clock tea time.

"Probably they are all out doing war relief work," somebody suggested.

depressed by the blow and that for two weeks he was unable to open his mouth wide enough to partake of solid food.

Mix said yesterday that he acted in self-defense when he struck the witness, who, he said, had called him a liar and then made a move as if to strike him. At the time Referee Case filed the law—$50, but later remitted it.

Farmers Urged to Save Wood.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Plans for using all available waste wood as fuel are being considered by the fuel administration. Fuel administrators in several states already have taken a step in this direction by appealing to farmers to cut timber in clearing their farms, in cordwood rather than burning it in the field.

CAMP DONIPHAN TELLS LAWTON TO CLEAN THE TOWN

Ultimatum Says Soldiers Will Be Kept From It Unless Conditions Are Improved.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMP DONIPHAN, Ok., Nov. 10.—An ultimatum was issued today to the three City Commissioners of Lawton by Maj. Carl Phillips, Division Sanitary Inspector, that unless immediate steps were taken to correct three sanitary evils which he says exist, the soldiers of Camp Doniphon would be forbidden to enter the city. The three conditions he complains of are insanitary conditions in kitchens of restaurants and lunch counters, lack of city plan of garbage disposal and seeming neglect of city authorities to post notices on houses where there are contagious or infectious diseases.

The ultimatum was the result of a close inspection of the city by sanitary inspectors of Maj. Phillips' office. One of the largest eating houses was found especially unsanitary, the report specifying that drinking glasses never were washed. Lawton is now practically dependent on the trade of the soldiers, from 1500 to 2500 of them being in Lawton very night and on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday and holidays, the total runs as high as 4000.

No New Cases of Meningitis.

No additional cases of spinal meningitis have developed among the 400 quarantined men of the 168th ammunition train.

Fifteen tons of turkey are being bought by the camp quartermaster to supply the touch of home to the camp Thanksgiving day. Requests for bids were sent out this morning to wholesalers, specifying young turkeys weighing not less than 10 pounds and not more than 20 pounds. Taking the average of 15 pounds it means 2000 turkeys will be on the tables at Camp Doniphon. Every trimming of the old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner will be given to the boys.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives and publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

THREE ALIENS CHARGED WITH VOICING DISLOYAL SENTIMENT

Russian, Austrian and German Held by Police for Federal Authorities.

Three aliens were arrested in St. Louis yesterday and last night and held for the Federal authorities on charges of uttering disloyal statements.

William Senkus, a Russian laborer, of 211 Market street, proclaimed at Ninth and Market streets that he would not fight for the American flag and denounced the United States.

Emil Albrecht, 37, an Austrian laborer, with no fixed abode, boasted in the United States Employment Bureau at 19 North Eighth street, that the Kaiser would come over here and lick America. He cursed the United States. A man who represented the statements knocked him down and a policeman caught him as he was running away.

Paul Marten, 55 years old, a German, of 108 North Eleventh street, was reported to have declared he wished someone would start a revolution in the United States, and that he would be the first one to pick up a gun and join it.

WOMAN KILLED BY CAR IDENTIFIED BY UNDERTAKER

Mrs. Elizabeth Bingel, 50 years old, wife of William Bingel, 2505 Hebert street, was struck by a Jefferson avenue car on Jefferson avenue between Sullivan avenue and Hebert street at noon yesterday. She was taken unconscious to the city hospital and died there at 1:10 o'clock from a fracture of the skull. Her identity was not known until an undertaker of the neighborhood where the accident occurred made inquiries. According to the mortician, A. J. Jackson, the woman started across the tracks when the car was within a few feet of her and he could not stop.

MAN IS ARRESTED AS COMPANION OF SLAIN ROBBER

Service Car Owner Denies Being With Man Killed in Holdup Attempt.

Bruce Webster, 23 years old, a service car owner, was arrested yesterday at the Ideal Hotel, 2800 Locust street, as the companion of Henry Sheldon, a Kansas City chauffeur, who was shot and killed by Joseph E. Franey of 3829 Washington boulevard, an insurance adjuster whom he attempted to hold up and rob in front of 3954 Westminster place at 12:30 a. m.

Franey was walking along the street when Sheldon and another man in a black touring car drove up to the curb. Leveling a revolver, one of the men ordered Franey to hold up his hands.

Franey took an automatic pistol from his overcoat pocket and fired three times at the highwayman, later identified as Sheldon.

Fired at Automobile.
The man in the automobile drove away and Franey fired five shots at the machine. Later the automobile owned by Webster was found in a garage at 2755 Olive street. It showed bullet marks on the hood and body and a bullet of the caliber fired by Franey was found in the tonneau. At the Ideal Hotel with Webster the police arrested May Darden and Marie Burke, who was known there as Sheldon's wife.

Webster and Sheldon had been under surveillance since the night of Oct. 23, when they were questioned by policemen after several men had been held up on the streets by two men in an automobile. Their names were taken at that time, but there was not sufficient evidence on which to arrest them. It was through information obtained then that Webster was traced to the Ideal Hotel.

Denies Part in Holdup.
He denies that he was with Sheldon when the shooting occurred, but said they had been together in his machine earlier in the evening. Papers found in Sheldon's pocket indicated that he had a wife in Kansas City.

A pawn ticket for a watch stolen from Otto Koenig of 3859A Wyoming street Oct. 28 by an automobile highwayman was found in Webster's room. His woman companion, May Darden, was identified as Helen Donewald, a showgirl, who recently served time in the Kansas City Workhouse.

Sheldon's body was identified by four men as that of an automobile robber who had waylaid them recently. Those making the identifications were Charles Zachritz of 3417 Pestalozzi street, Max Cook, city editor of the Republic; Sidney Dawson of 5168 Kensington avenue, and William F. Koenig of 3809A Wyoming street. None was able to identify Webster as the driver of the car in which Sheldon died after the robberies.

Miss Virgie Conley of 1506 Elliot avenue, at whose home Webster formerly lived, was arrested and told the police that while at her home Webster frequently went out with Sheldon and stayed out until late at night. The owner of the garage where Webster kept his car told the police the latter did not return until an hour after the shooting of Sheldon Friday night.

JOHN CARR PARKER JR. DIES

John Carr Parker Jr., president of the Parker Distilling Co., died at 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 4905 Lindell boulevard, after an illness of 10 weeks of diabetes. He was 48 years old and had lived in this city since boyhood.

He was the only son of Capt. J. C. Parker, captain of the Essex, in the Mississippi squadron, during the Civil War, and a classmate at Annapolis and a close personal friend of Admiral Dewey. Capt. Parker is still living.

Parker is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Robert C. Armstrong and Miss Laura A. Parker.

Silverstone Tone Test a Success.

Miss Florence Ferrel, concert soprano of New York, demonstrated last night in a tone test at the concert hall of the Silverstone Music Co., 1114 Olive street, that her reproduced voice on an Edison phonograph could not be distinguished from her living voice. She sang with her recreations and at times stopped, so that if there had been a shade of difference between her living voice and her recorded voice, there would have appeared two separate and distinct voices. As it was, the audience heard one voice, the only difference being in volume. Among Miss Ferrel's selections were "Springtime," "Without Thee," "Love's Sorrow," "Sing, Smile, Slumber."

Another feature was the singing of a duet with herself, so singing a counterpart running with the melody.

Miss Helen Jeffrey, violinist, played in comparison with reproduced violin solos and demonstrated that the real violin tone was being recreated without alteration or change.

Dr. Henry Rodemich Dies.

Dr. Henry Rodemich, 53 years old, a dentist, of 1754 Chouteau avenue died yesterday morning in St. Joseph's Hospital at Charles, Mo., from a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered Friday afternoon in a boat when hunting on a river eight miles south of St. Charles. He was a native of Millstadt, Ill., and had lived in St. Louis for years. A wife and four children survive him, including Gene Rodemich, a pianist.

The VOCALION

The Wonderful New Phonograph of Perfect Tone

LARGE proportion of Aeolian-Vocalion sales are made to people who hitherto have entertained a strong prejudice against the talking-machine, because of that instrument's universally recognized tonal deficiencies.

Such persons have invariably come to Aeolian Hall to reassure themselves that all tone-reproducing instruments are alike in result—that the much vaunted phonographs are little different.

And what agreeable surprises they have met with!

The process of converting the doubters continues day after day with little variation in its successful conclusion.

The skeptic seated in a pleasant music room looks on as the record is placed in the Vocalion. Expectantly he awaits the thin, reedy, talking machine tone—and is therefore all the more astonished to hear the wonderful voice which swells through the room as the record begins—a voice that is human, that is full and clear and vibrant with emotion.

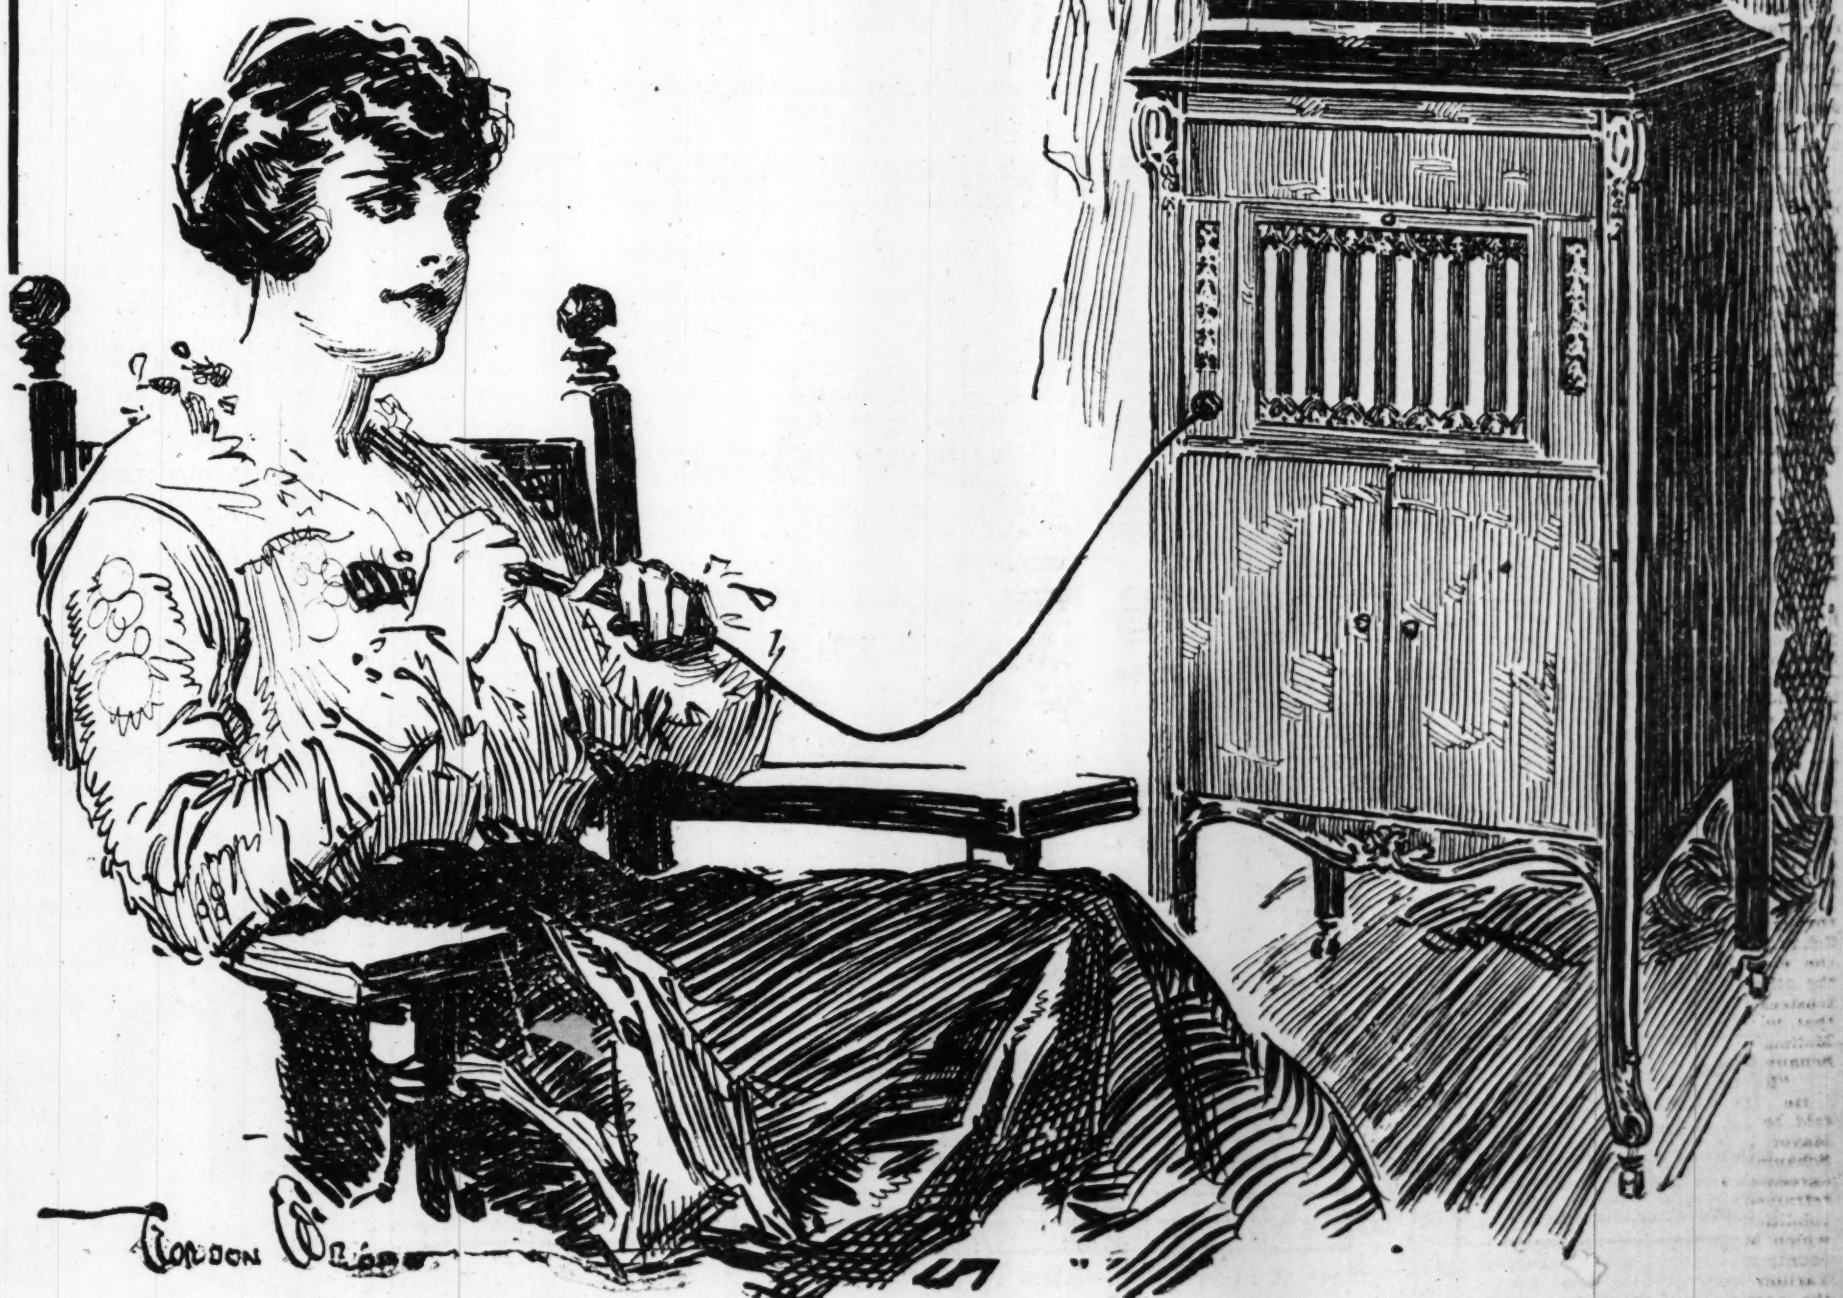

Softly the high notes waft forth, bell-like in their sweetness and purity. Lovingly the deep, harmonious tones of the accompaniment entwine the voice, each instrument sounding clearly; the basses infinitely rich, with all their subtle, sympathetic overtones adding their distinguishing tint of wonderful music color—every treble tone true in pitch, true in every delicate shade of expression.

THE WONDERFUL NEW PRIVILEGE

But it is not tone alone that has won for the Aeolian-Vocalion its present position of supremacy.

The wonderful new privilege of tone control makes the Vocalion more than a tone-reproducing instrument—in reality a remarkable new medium for musical expression.

By means of the Graduola, the unique patented device exclusive with the Vocalion, you may shade each note, graduate each tone—literally play each record as you like, as you feel.

The master artist's skill and sweet tone become the voice of your heart and at last you may enjoy the transcendent pleasure of making music, instead of being a listener merely.

Use the Graduola if you wish. It will bring you a new knowledge of, a new joy and belief in music. And when you prefer, the Vocalion plays itself as any other phonograph—but with its vastly more satisfying tone—its rich, full, natural tone.

FEIN PLOT DETAILS ON CELT HELD IN NEW YORK

Chief of U. S. Secret Service
Publishes Papers in Revolutionist's Possession.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Details of the plans of Sinn Fein leaders for the insurrection in Ireland which culminated in the Easter Monday 1916 of last year, together with information relative to the landing on the Irish coast of Sir Roger Casement, were recounted in a communication found in the possession of "General" Liam Mellows, Irish revolutionist arrested here several weeks ago, and made public today by William J. Flynn, chief of the United States Secret Service.

Flynn also gave out copies of an artfully worded letter which Thomas Walsh, a British subject, attempted to destroy when taken into custody by Federal authorities on the arrival of a steamship here last Sunday.

The two communications, secret service agents says, have furnished much information of value in their investigation of the ramifications of Sinn Fein operations in the United States.

Mellows, said to have been commander of a considerable force of revolutionists during the Dublin riots, is at liberty under $7500 bail charged with obtaining by fraud a German passport on which it is claimed he intended shipping on an English-bound vessel in order to assist in another Irish rebellion.

Another uprising imminent.

That another uprising was planned for a time not distant is indicated, authorities believe, by a closing sentence in the undressed letter found in Walsh's possession. In urging disunion in the wording of communications, presumably from Sinn Fein agents in the United States to the leaders of the movement in Ireland, this letter said:

"The game is so high and there is too much at stake to take any risks, and you must use extreme caution when writing. Always refer in future to the Seanfear as I do and if possible do not mention his name at all."

The word "Seanfear" recurs a number of times in the communication, which was of considerable length, and written in a smooth, regular hand. "William Cain," "Mrs. Cumman," "Tommy O'C," "Liam," and persons designated by the letters "M. W.," "M.," and "L.," are mentioned in the communication. Reference also is made to a man who, the letter indicates, posed as a priest when that role best suited his purposes and to another person referred to as "the lady who was recently released."

Through study of the communication, Federal authorities believe the person designated as "Seanfear" is the director of all Sinn Fein operations. Though unsigned the wording of the letter, they believe, shows it was written by a subaltern of "Seanfear" who might be termed the "Secretary of State" of the Sinn Fein organization.

Kept Tab on Plots in America.

Portions of the letter, authorities say, gives ground for their belief that Welsh was one of a number of messengers who brought orders from leaders of the organization in Ireland to their agents in this country and returned with word as to the progress of operations here.

Welsh is in the Tombs in default of $2500 bail charged with violating the trading with the enemy act. In requesting that some "brooches" be purchased with money which he was sending, the author of the Welsh letter wrote:

"The woman's society wants to know if it would be possible to have a supply sent out here. They will guarantee a sale of 100 brooches. Profits from the sale will be handed over to the arms fund."

Federal agents are endeavoring to learn the identity of persons indicated by letters and initials in the communication. They have indicated information that persons in New York City and other parts of the country are concerned in American ramifications of Sinn Fein activities.

The communication found in Mellows' possession is said to constitute the first authentic narrative by a participant in the rebellion of events leading up to the Dublin rioting.

The writer said he believed the shipment of arms and ammunition to Ireland aboard the steamer Aud, which was sunk on the way, was arranged from America and without the knowledge of Sir Roger Casement, leader of the rebellion, who arranged to obtain the help of Germany.

Counted on Arming Every Irishman.

The author of the communication expresses the belief that in view of an agreement with Germany that if the course of the war allowed it, Germany would set upon independent Ireland, it would have been advisable to have waited until the end of the war, if necessary, to bring about such a move.

"I believe it would have been possible to run guns on a huge scale and arm every man in Ireland," the writer continues. "I am fully convinced that the war ending and the promised home rule bill not forthcoming, the ranks of the volunteers would be largely augmented. I would safely reckon on having 30,000 armed and dependable men."

"I believe it would have been much wiser to wait for some issues which would justify our cause in the eyes of the people, who were certainly very hostile when the insurrection broke out and remained hostile until the execution of the leaders."

RETAIL COAL MEN ORGANIZE TO AID IN THE FUEL CONTROL

Action Is Result of Conference at Planters Hotel With Commissioner Crossley.

The retail price of coal in St. Louis would have reached $6 or $7 a ton last week but for Government regulation, Edward Devoy declared yesterday at a conference held by 70 coal dealers with Lieutenant-Governor Crossley, State Fuel Commissioner.

The meeting, which was held at the Planters Hotel, resulted in the organization of a coal dealers' association, to co-operate with the State and National Fuel Administration for the proper distribution of coal.

Devoy, who is head of a coal and coke company, said that last week there was a shortage in all coal yards. Yet, he said, he did not know of one dealer who took advantage of conditions to overcharge his customers.

The present retail price is $4.75 a ton for standard, $5 for Mount Olive and $5.50 for Cartersville coal.

Devoy also objected to a suggestion that public announcement should be made that, at present, there is a comparatively large supply of coal on hand in St. Louis. He said an announcement was made last summer that coal would be cheaper this autumn, and that, on the strength of this announcement, many waited to buy and the result was a shortage of coal, without any saving to the consumer.

Eugene D. Nims, chairman of the St. Louis Coal Committee, presided at the meeting. Crossley reminded the dealers that, with friendly co-operation, it would be unnecessary to "show the teeth of the law" to any of the dealers. "You must always be thinking," he said, "that you are a cog in the machine of war, and that it is not purely a business proposition, but one of co-operative service."

A committee composed of Walter Heinecke, Oscar Stephen and John Connell, was chosen to represent the dealers' organization in conferences with the St. Louis Coal Committee.

DEPOT BRIGADE AT CAMP FUNSTON IS STRIPPED OF MEN

Ninety-Six Companies Reduced to 28—Archbishop Glennon Speaks in Camp Today.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., Nov. 10.—The boys from St. Louis, a large number of whom were assigned to the Depot Brigade, will be scattered all through the Eighty-ninth Division, according to an order issued today. The Depot Brigade was organized as the reserve force for the Eighty-ninth Division and at one time contained more than 15,000 men.

The first big shift came when 14,000 men were ordered transferred to other camps. Most of them were taken from the brigade. Today an order was issued reducing the number of companies in the brigade from 96 to 28. Each company is to keep 30 men as a nucleus for new companies to be organized when the next 15 per cent of the draft arrives.

All the other men are to be transferred to various companies of the division to bring them all up to equal strength.

A large number of St. Louisans worked up to the grade of Sergeant and Corporal and were wearing their stripes on their arms. The transfer means that they are automatically reduced to the ranks as privates.

Archbishop John J. Glennon of St. Louis will arrive here early tomorrow morning and in the afternoon will dedicate the Knights of Columbus auditorium. Archbishop Glennon will be the guest of Father E. N. O'Toole, formerly assistant pastor of St. Leo's in St. Louis, but now chaplain of the 340th Field Artillery. He will speak to the boys of the division at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at 4 o'clock he will dedicate the Knights of Columbus building in the Ninety-second Division, composed entirely of negroes.

In an Ohio factory one of the workers wore a Neolin Sole on his right foot, a leather sole on his left foot. In thirty-three days the leather sole was worn out. The Neolin Sole was worn one-sixth thru. In other words, it showed a wear capacity six times greater.

A sole not branded Neolin is not a Neolin Sole

You Can Cut Down Your Shoe Bills

ON all styles of men's, women's and children's shoes, Neolin Soles save. For Neolin Soles wear better than ordinary soles and make the uppers last longer.

Just as in the test shown above, Neolin Soles reduce repair bills materially.

Eight million Americans have found that Neolin Soles also save by making uppers keep their shape better and wear longer than with ordinary soles. For Neolin Soles are waterproof.

Ordinary leather allows the water underfoot to soak through and penetrate the vital welts and seams on the inner side of the sole. In consequence the seams and welts stretch, the shoes lose shape, and wear out quickly.

But waterproof Neolin protects these welts and seams from water underfoot, and thus makes your shoes keep their shape, look well, and last long.

And when you first put on a pair of shoes Neolin-soled you will be pleasantly surprised to find that they need no breaking in. They are more flexible and comfortable than ordinary soles.

When you do your fall and winter buying for yourself and for your family be sure to ask for shoes with Neolin Soles. You can get them in black, white or tan—and they always bear the brand Neolin.

Mark that mark, stamp it on your memory—Neolin

Yeatman's Forward Passes and Fumbles Cause Defeat of Central Eleven, 31 to 0

Two of Three Touchdowns for North Siders Come as a Result of Inability of Walker's Men to Hold Oval—Aerial Route Gains 13 Yards for the Winning Aggregation.

CATCHING the greased pig is a pastime for the parlor boys compared with the experiences of Yeatman and Central in the second game of the double-header at High School Field yesterday afternoon. Central fumbled whatever small chance they had to break up Yeatman's winning streak and thus gave McKinley the inside track on the interscholastic championship, and Yeatman came through with a 21-0 victory, which wasn't quite as easily achieved as the score would indicate.

This fumbling business marred what might otherwise have been a perfectly played game, and certainly no "frozen fingers" alibi can be advanced, since a majority of the fumbles attended the half-time intermissions. With this reason out of the way, overanxiety may be advanced to account for the fact that the pigskin proved elusive for both sides, and Central in particular.

Yeatman Carried the Class. Yeatman, of course, carried the edge in class and a decided margin in the art of forward passing. This late-day account for at least one touchdown, which, as subsequent analysis proved, would have sufficed for victory. The figures tell the painful story of the Central attack. Yeatman carried eight of 18 attempts at forward passing, gaining 120 yards as a result, while only one of Central's 11 tries at tossing achieved the desired end and netted 15 yards.

To those who have been skeptical concerning the merits of Yeatman's eleven, this advice is given in a fatherly vein: The North Siders have a real football aggregation, and a mighty dangerous one. To borrow a slang expression, they are "hot as hell." They played, passed, kicked, and fumbled with a skill and dash that will be already pre-paring fans are taking their seats at the stadium for that Thanksgiving day battle, and indications at this stage of the race are that they're not going to be disappointed.

Central Leads in Rushing. One of the froaks of yesterday's encounter is shown in the tabulation of yards gained by rushing. In this respect Central had on their conquerors, pocketing 170 yards against Yeatman's 162. They held the edge in every period with the exception of the first, when Yeatman's strength asserted itself, and they gained 78 yards by rushing against 26 for Central.

It must be remembered that the crimson backfield is the real attractive feature of their play. Simpson, Bremser, Rutledge, Foster and Wood, who alternated in the line of foot, keen of vision and adept at picking openings, each of the quintet proving a hard nut to down. Central was unable to bank heavily on the sprightliness of their backs, because once Yeatman was forced to put on his kicking shoes and forced the opposition to either resort to passes, at which they had little or no luck, or punt.

To return to the business of fumbling, both of Yeatman's scores in the first period materialized as the direct result of Central's inability to obtain a half on the ball. With the oval on Central's 10-yard line, the latter fumbled and Maguolo, Yeatman's quarterback, grabbed it, crossing the line for a touchdown. Winkelman kicked goal and it might as well be stated that he repeated this stunt after each touchdown. The fact stated now will save space later.

The second touchdown of the initial period also was the result of a fumble. This time La Barge picked up a punt on the Oklahoma 10-yard line from a Central back, and ran 55 yards to the counting station.

Kansas Outplays Oklahoma Eleven at 'Passing' Game. Coupled With Weight Advantage This Enables Jayhawk-ers to Win, 13 to 6.

NORMAN, Ok., Nov. 10.—The University of Kansas team equaled the University of Oklahoma eleven at its own game of forward passing here this afternoon and superior weight enabled Kansas to win, 13 to 6, in a spectacular contest in which open style predominated.

All the scores came in the second quarter. Oklahoma scoring first when Doyle received a 20-yard pass from Davis and ran 10 yards to the 1-yard line. Bechtold carried the ball over for the score. Davis missed goal. A few minutes later Kansas blocked a punt on the Oklahoma 10-yard line. A pass, Pringle to Foster, gained six yards and Foster went the remainder of the way on a line play to the touchdown. Leonard missed goal.

On the next kickoff Davis for Oklahoma fumbled on the Oklahoma 20-yard line. Foster went through the line for 15 yards and Pringle scored the touchdown. Frost kicked goal.

TICKETLESS FIGHT WON BY ROWLANDS; POLICE SATISFIED

First Boxing Show Under New Regulations Attracts Several Hundred Fans.

MEMBERSHIP NECESSARY Only Persons Affiliated With South Broadway Club Witness Contests.

A program of three boxing bouts scheduled at the South Broadway Athletic Club last night, was successfully carried out under the new regulations laid down by the Police Department.

Admission to the show was by membership card only. No cards were taken up, however, and the men ber passed into the arena after showing his credentials.

Despite the strict regulations several hundred fight fans attended the entertainment. Capt. McNamee and Lieut. Lavin of the Second District were present and were apparently satisfied with the manner in which the show was conducted, as they made no complaint or effort to interfere at any time during the evening.

As all the contests were cleanly boxed and as none of the principles suffered any serious punishment or knockdown, it is an open question what the police officials would have done had anything resembling a knockout taken place.

In the feature event of the evening Len Rowlands, the Milwaukee mid-dleweight, although he was introduced as a St. Louisan, had an easy time outwitting Charles Stapp of this city in eight rounds. Len resorted to clever boxing entirely to gain a victory and his skill was highly pleasing to the members present.

Stapp was virtually felled by Rowlands and was kept on the defensive almost entirely. While Young Curtis in a landing a few right counters during the eight rounds, he was too busy trying to avoid punishment to do any damage. Rowlands landed a good right Stapp would hold on and got a sound beating around the body for doing so. It was announced that both men made the agreed weight of 155 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Charles "Red" Johnston outpointed George Wirt, who substituted for Young Curtis in eight rounds at 115 pounds, while Young Montrose scored a point victory over Joe Meek in a six-round bout, with the weight 128 pounds.

Jack White refereed all the bouts. No announcement was made when the next show for professional boxers would be put on, although the club has an amateur tourney scheduled for Thanksgiving day afternoon.

Wide Awake Defense Men Win for Washington, 21-0

Meyers Intercepts Forward Pass and Runs 80 Yards for Touchdown, While Benway Pulls Off One of 50 in First Victory for Pikers Over Drake Eleven.

DES MOINES, Io., Nov. 10.—After seven long years of failure on foreign football fields, eleven fighting Pikers of Washington University humbled Drake University, 20 to 0, here today. The game abounded with all the thrills and frills that could be chucked into a game of collegiate football.

In defeating the Bulldogs the maroon men accomplished the dual objective of their invasion in Des Moines, the shattering of the idea of their traditional weakness on alien grids and the crushing of the spell which Drake had been forced to kick. Football made 10 yards around end, Berger made five through center and then made first down on Drake's 25-yard line.

Here a forward pass, Foch to Kling, placed the ball on the three-yard line. Berger made two and then intercepted a pass, rushed through center for the touchdown. Kling kicked goal.

Meyers Runs 80 Yards. On the next score the "wide awake-ness" of the Pikers' defense men asserted itself. Meyers, playing full-back, intercepted a forward pass and ran 80 yards for the touchdown. Goal was missed, and the half ended, 15-0.

Following a forward pass, which netted them a gain of 20 yards, Drake attempted another, which was intercepted by Benway who ran 50 yards for a touchdown. Kling kicked goal. After this neither eleven was able to score.

The game summary: Washington, Drake. First downs.....6 7 Yards rushing.....116 80 Forward passes attempted.....6 10 Passes successful.....1 4 Yards gained forward passes.....12 127 Interceded passes.....5 4 Yards gained intercept passes.....112 0 Punt.....11 4 Average distance punts.....36 29 Fumbles.....5 0 Score by periods: Washington.....0 13 7 0-20 Drake.....0 0 0 0-0

Pikers Are Wide Awake. If Washington's superiority is to be summed up in one word, that word is "wide-awake-ness." Two of the Pikers' three touchdowns were scored when men in early games, while the shadow of their own goal posts and rushed down the field for scores. Not a single yard was gained in the first half, and the maroons grabbed the pigskin and killed Drake rallies in the budding. Washington's forward pass intercepting efforts represent a total of 112 yards of gained territory. In other matters the winners showed panther-like characteristics, such as going over ready to take advantage.

Yesterday's Football Results. D OPE, as expected, suffered some astonishing reverses yesterday, but in the main came through with approximately the .500 average it usually maintains. The going yesterday was .792 in favor of the form as shown by the comparative score system.

St. Louis U. and Washington both went astray, although Washington's improvement was expected by its supporters to bear good results against the weak Drake eleven.

Practically every important game, save the Wisconsin-Ohio State fray, went according to form, and that contest was very close.

"JACK HENDRICKS WILL HEAD CARDS," INDIANAPOLIS TIP

Sporting Writer Wires Hoosier Leader "Will Sign Contract Within 48 Hours."

RICKEY OUT OF THE CITY Cancels Engagement to Speak Here, and Departs for Unknown Destination.

John C. Hendricks, manager of the Indianapolis baseball club, winner of the 1917 American Association pennant, and several times sought by major league owners, will be the next manager of the St. Louis club, according to advices received here last night from Indianapolis.

The sporting editor of an Indianapolis paper wired the Post-Dispatch yesterday that Hendricks had "been agreed upon but not signed," and that he would "put his name to a contract within 48 hours."

When Branch Rickey, president of the Cardinals, was sought to verify the report, it was learned that he had canceled an engagement to speak at a patriotic gathering and had packed his grip and left the city. No confirmation of the Indianapolis report was obtained at a late hour last night.

The Indianapolis source of information stated that McGill, owner of the Indianapolis club, had consented to the deal, but that he was on a hunting trip and could not be communicated with. Hendricks was supposed to be on route to St. Louis for a conference with Rickey, but his whereabouts could not be learned last night.

Hendricks a Collegian. Hendricks fills the requirements of Rickey in several respects. He is a "high class man," being a college graduate with a diploma from Northwestern University—Rickey, it will be remembered, declared that his selection would hold a university degree. Hendricks received the degree of Bachelor of Laws at Northwestern University.

Hendricks is 41 years old. He practiced law a short time after his graduation, both before the Circuit and Federal courts of Chicago. A short while later he began his baseball career as a semi-pro player in Chicago. In 1902 he went to the New York Giants as an outfielder, but was forced out by Columbus, which team he finished the season. In 1903 Columbus sent him to Spokane, in the fall of which year he was Washington's American League club purchased him.

He played in 1904 with Washington, and in 1905 received his first managerial position as head of the Springfield, E. He managed this club in 1906 and 1907. In 1908 and 1909 he managed the Portland, Ore., International League champion, in four out of five games of a post-season series. Hendricks has been in the managerial line since 1910, and during that time has never headed a club which finished lower than third.

ST. L. U. DEFENSE BALKS MARQUETTE OF 6 TOUCHDOWNS

Billikens Hold Strong Wisconsin Eleven to 0-0 Score---Visitors Lose Ball on Downs When Near Goal.

By John E. Wray. HISTORY records several famous "last stands." Among others we recall the defense of Thermopylae, of Harry K. Thaw. With due allowance for the absence of a life-and-death factor, none of the foregoing had anything on the defense put up by the St. Louis University football eleven in holding the powerful Marquette University machine to a 0-0 score yesterday afternoon at Handlan's Park.

Supposed to be outclassed by at least 40 points by their Wisconsin rivals, players who claim superiority over the Badgers of Madison—the desperate tackling and fighting qualities of the St. Louis varsity men six times held off the enemy when they had approached within five yards of scoring.

Twice the ball was within one foot of being shoved over and twice the assaulting backs were thrown for losses. On nearly every occasion of the six, the attacking force had four downs in which to try to advance the ball the needed five yards. But the grinding impact came to a stand on the safe side of the blue and white goal zone on every trial.

Analyzing the figures of the game, the feat achieved by the St. Louisans seems incomprehensible. Throughout the game, save for the second period, the invading horde was battering within the 20-yard zone most of the time. They made first down 17 times by rushing, counting others on penalties and forward passes; St. Louis made first down but once, and then on a forward pass.

St. L. U. Outclassed on Attack. Marquette gained almost ten times the distance, by rushing the ball, that their rivals made, and suffered little in the punting comparison. While they few long gains, they thrust Langhoff and Hayes through the enemy's line for consistent gains of 20 to 30 yards, and 60 yards without losing the ball, and another time recording a "march" of over 50.

But such was the desperate nature of the St. Louis U. tackling and fighting spirit that Marquette could not push the ball over when the pinch came.

That they failed to win the battle by other than brute force tactics, however, is held against the speedy quarterback Deffen, who called signals for Marquette (men). For despite the fact that he found the St. Louis U. defense impenetrable, when backed up on its second line, within the 20-yard zone, Delmar never once called for a place or drop kick from the field.

In the later moments of play, this failure stood out so prominently that even the laymen of the grandstand wondered. With the ball squarely in front of the goal and not more than 15 yards distant, Delmar called for the smashing tactics, or a futile forward pass.

Thus had generalship lost the better eleven a chance to win. The alibi for this developed after the game. Murray, the team's drop kicker, who has missed but three trials at field goals this year, was ineligible to play.

Off to a Bad Start. At the start of the game, when the crowd of 1500 enthusiasts had resigned themselves to a 60-0 defeat, matters broke with a resounding crack, directly against the home eleven. A score seemed imminent within the first two minutes.

Marquette kicked off to the 5-yard line and Baker ran it back to his own 20-yard line. On the second play Connors fumbled and ran the ball back to St. Louis U.'s 7-yard line. A touchdown seemed certain, in view of the supposed inequality of strength between the teams. But Hayes and Plants rammed the St. Louis U. line in vain, while on the third play the ball flew out of the hands of the Marquette runner and rolled over the St. Louis line, where a Billiken fell on it for touch-down.

line Marquette slowly worked its way back down the field, using Langhoff, Hayes and Plants and straight-line attacks, varied with a forward pass or two, none of which worked. A 15-yard penalty for St. Louis U. also figured in the advance. This first down saw the Marquette men battering within the 10-yard line, and a score again in hand. They made first down, with six yards to go.

NEW ROAMER MODELS HERE

One of the cars is an ivory touring car with green wire wheels and running gear; the upholstery being green Spanish leather. The other model is painted deep maroon with white tire wheels and maroon leather upholstery. Both cars carry a khaki top.

Both models are five-passenger touring cars with the divided front seat. The power plant is the six-cylinder Continental Red Seal motor, 25x54. They will be on view this week at the salesroom, 4160 Olive street.

LUCKE UNIT PRICE CUT.

In view of the fact that most prices in the motor car field are going up, it is surprising to find the Ford Tractor Co., 1710 Olive street, announcing that the Lucke Douglas Truck unit, for a limited time, will sell for $225, a reduction of $55 from its former price.

The Lucke Douglas unit is a device for the transformation of a Ford or any other pleasure car chassis into a one-ton truck. The feature of the attachment is the drive which is through a short chain, enclosed by a casing to protect it from dirt.

"It is next to impossible to predict what after-war conditions will do to business, but it is almost safe to conjecture the steady growth of the automobile industry."

"The world-wide importance of the United States in the production of automobiles is not realized by Americans," says Phil Brockman of the De Luxe Auto Co., local distributor of Oldsmobiles.

"To carry on the war all Governments have found the automobile of inestimable value. During the war's continuation, automobile manufacturers will be called upon for machines for various uses. In the transportation of troops, ammunition, supplies and in the ambulance and hospital service, the automobile stands without an equal.

W. L. Vickers has relinquished his position of general manager of the Used Cars Exchange to join the Brandle Motors Co. organization.

NEWMAN TO SELL TRAILER AND NEW LIGHT TRUCK

Harry Newman, Inc., local Kissel Kar distributor, announced last week that they had taken over the distribution of the Highway Trailers in a large territory, including Eastern Missouri, Southern Illinois, Arkansas and parts of Iowa, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The Highway Trailers range in capacity from 1200 pounds to 10 tons. The two principal features of these trailers are an automatic coupling and an automatic spring slide. The coupling pulls the trailer in any direction and relieves the car of strain in starting, stopping and turning. This coupling also fastens the trailer to the body or springs of the car and not to the axle.

The spring slide prevents road shocks. It is strongly constructed and self-lubricated, thus relieving the springs of a great part of their duty. Both two and four wheel trailers are made according to the buyer's requirements and a complete line of bodies are furnished.

Mr. Newman also gives the advance information that he will announce in the near future a light delivery truck which will supply the big line of Kissel commercial vehicles which he now represents. This new truck, which will list around $700, will be distinguished over the big line of Kissel commercial vehicles which he now represents for the trailer.

The commercial side of the motor car business is growing in importance every day," said Mr. Newman. "The solution of the hauling problems of many firms lies in the use of trailers, which enable them to get the maximum efficiency from the motor truck investment. It was this fact that led us to the market for the right trailer. While every business presents certain peculiarities, with the addition of the light delivery truck and the trailer to our big Kissel car line, we will be able to furnish a firm with a hauling outfit that is just suited to those peculiarities."

ST. LOUISAN'S VACATION

A LONG DRIVE WEST

J. O. Hancock, who has a Velle car and is connected with the railway mail service, recently took his wife and child on a tour of 1355 miles at a total cost of $26.60, covering every expense of the trip. The average cost of gasoline was 23 cents per gallon and the average mileage was 12.6 miles per gallon.

The trip was made down through Missouri into Oklahoma. Hancock started out with the intention of making a few days' trip in the automobile for a vacation, intending to just drive down into Missouri a little distance, but after getting started the roads were so fine and the trip so enjoyable he kept on and finally landed at the home of relatives in Oklahoma.

BIG HUDSON DEMAND PRIOR TO $300 RAISE

"Never has there been so much interest displayed in an automobile sale as that which has been shown in the sale now being promoted by the Hudson-Phillips Motor Car Co.," says Mr. R. C. Frampton, general manager. "The Hudson-Phillips Motor Car Co. is especially fortunate in having a good stock of cars on hand when the factory advised them that their entire allotment of cars at the present price had been shipped and that all cars shipped in the future would have the advance of $200, which had been promised.

"The first five days of this sale, there were nine cars sold, and it looks as though the entire stock of cars would be sold before the end of the month rolls round."

IN UNIQUE POSITION.

Four years ago the Grant Six made automobile history by being the first six in the world to sell for less than $1000. Within the last four months the Grant has had handed to it the honor of being the lowest priced six in the world, and the question that everybody is asking is whether the makers of the Grant Six intend to retain this unique position.

"It would have been easy to boost our prices $50 or $75 and to have added a great many thousands of dollars to our profits," says J. C. Barcus of the St. Louis Grant Motor Car Co., "but in that case we should have lost the prestige that comes when hundreds of thousands of people are shown that a car is absolutely unique."

BARTH JOINS ROTTSMAN

J. D. Barth, well known in St. Louis motor car circles, has joined the Rottsmann Automobile and Truck Co. and will have charge of the retail sales for the truck line. Because of his extensive acquaintance in the territory he will also work in conjunction with the wholesale department.

For four years Mr. Barth had charge of the wholesale business for the Oldsmobile in this territory. Before taking up his duties actively Mr. Barth, accompanied by Henry Rottsmann, visited the plant of the Nash Motors Co. at Kenosha, Wis., in order to familiarize himself with the new Nash Six, which has met with instant approval.

TO CONSERVE GASOLINE.

The Mississippi Valley Motor Co. of St. Louis, wholesale Oakland distributor, and the Sperrig-Oakland Co., the retail distributor in St. Louis, have received from the Oakland factory a sheet of warnings to owners in regard to the saving of gasoline.

This warning is sent out with a view to encouraging economy on the part of Oakland owners in the belief that economy now will prevent possible drastic action by the Federal Government later on in the curtailment of the supply.

EMPIRE FACTORY ENLARGE

The Empire factory has just occupied another addition to their factory in Indianapolis and the plant now covers four city blocks. Their rapid growth is attributed largely to the completeness of the Empire line, which now includes both four and six cylinder models in body styles ranging from a two-passenger speedster to a seven-passenger sedan.

SHOWS WILLYS-KNIGHT 8-CYLINDER SEDAN

The Willys-Knight Eight-Cylinder Touring Sedan has just arrived at the showroom of the Overland Automobile Co., Twenty-third and Locust streets. This car has attracted favorable attention due to the well-known Eight-Cylinder Knight motor used in its construction and the completeness of its finish and equipment.

Not a single item of real riding comfort has been neglected. The heavily tufted Pullman type seats, combined with best type of spring suspension insure enjoyable pleasure riding. ## HUGH GIBSON

The First Secretary of the Legation in Belgium, in

"A JOURNAL FROM OUR LEGATION IN BELGIUM"

EDITH CAVELL.

A book comparable in interest with Ambassador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany," which also was printed in the POST-DISPATCH.

For nearly three years Mr. Gibson was an official observer of the reign of fire and sword that laid waste the most thickly populated section of the globe. From day to day, he set down what he had seen. Now he gives this diary, containing just the story the World has been waiting for to the public.

A document of surpassing human and historic interest, it reveals for the first time the story of the effort of American diplomacy to save the life of Nurse Edith Cavell, the execution of whom as a spy caused a wave of horror to surge around the civilized world. It was Mr. Gibson who handled Miss Cavell's case for the American legation.

He also witnessed the burning and sacking of Louvain, and saw the King and Queen of Belgium many times both in the field and at the front.

He was the only man who was permitted to pass constantly between the German and the Belgian lines.

As Richard Harding Davis wrote in "With the Allies," "Gibson saw more of actual warfare than did any or all of our 28 military men in Paris," during the first years of the conflict.

Publication of this history-making book began last Monday, and will continue for about three weeks longer. No Sunday installments—only in the Daily Editions.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

NEW ROAMER MODELS HERE

The C. & H. Motor Co., the new firm who are distributors for the Roamer and the Munroe, received their first shipment of Roamers last week. The new models are typical cars, being specially painted and upholstered, this being one of the big features of the line.

One of the cars is an ivory touring car with green wire wheels and running gear; the upholstery being green Spanish leather. The other model is painted deep maroon with white tire wheels and maroon leather upholstery. Both cars carry a khaki top.

Both models are five-passenger touring cars with the divided front seat. The power plant is the six-cylinder Continental Red Seal motor, 25x54. They will be on view this week at the salesroom, 4160 Olive street.

LUCKE UNIT PRICE CUT.

In view of the fact that most prices in the motor car field are going up, it is surprising to find the Ford Tractor Co., 1710 Olive street, announcing that the Lucke Douglas Truck unit, for a limited time, will sell for $225, a reduction of $55 from its former price.

The Lucke Douglas unit is a device for the transformation of a Ford or any other pleasure car chassis into a one-ton truck. The feature of the attachment is the drive which is through a short chain, enclosed by a casing to protect it from dirt.

"It is next to impossible to predict what after-war conditions will do to business, but it is almost safe to conjecture the steady growth of the automobile industry."

"The world-wide importance of the United States in the production of automobiles is not realized by Americans," says Phil Brockman of the De Luxe Auto Co., local distributor of Oldsmobiles.

"To carry on the war all Governments have found the automobile of inestimable value. During the war's continuation, automobile manufacturers will be called upon for machines for various uses. In the transportation of troops, ammunition, supplies and in the ambulance and hospital service, the automobile stands without an equal.

W. L. Vickers has relinquished his position of general manager of the Used Cars Exchange to join the Brandle Motors Co. organization.

NEWMAN TO SELL TRAILER AND NEW LIGHT TRUCK

Harry Newman, Inc., local Kissel Kar distributor, announced last week that they had taken over the distribution of the Highway Trailers in a large territory, including Eastern Missouri, Southern Illinois, Arkansas and parts of Iowa, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The Highway Trailers range in capacity from 1200 pounds to 10 tons. The two principal features of these trailers are an automatic coupling and an automatic spring slide. The coupling pulls the trailer in any direction and relieves the car of strain in starting, stopping and turning. This coupling also fastens the trailer to the body or springs of the car and not to the axle.

The spring slide prevents road shocks. It is strongly constructed and self-lubricated, thus relieving the springs of a great part of their duty. Both two and four wheel trailers are made according to the buyer's requirements and a complete line of bodies are furnished.

Mr. Newman also gives the advance information that he will announce in the near future a light delivery truck which will supply the big line of Kissel commercial vehicles which he now represents. This new truck, which will list around $700, will be distinguished over the big line of Kissel commercial vehicles which he now represents for the trailer.

The commercial side of the motor car business is growing in importance every day," said Mr. Newman. "The solution of the hauling problems of many firms lies in the use of trailers, which enable them to get the maximum efficiency from the motor truck investment. It was this fact that led us to the market for the right trailer. While every business presents certain peculiarities, with the addition of the light delivery truck and the trailer to our big Kissel car line, we will be able to furnish a firm with a hauling outfit that is just suited to those peculiarities."

SHOWS WILLYS-KNIGHT 8-CYLINDER SEDAN

The Willys-Knight Eight-Cylinder Touring Sedan has just arrived at the showroom of the Overland Automobile Co., Twenty-third and Locust streets. This car has attracted favorable attention due to the well-known Eight-Cylinder Knight motor used in its construction and the completeness of its finish and equipment.

Not a single item of real riding comfort has been neglected. The heavily tufted Pullman type seats, combined with best type of spring suspension insure enjoyable pleasure riding. A vanity case and a foot warmer are included in its complete equipment. The seats are upholstered in a fast green which accord with exception of the driver's seat finished in long grained leather.

SHOWING NEW NATIONAL

Meeting pressure for views of its new National touring sedan with a new type motor, the National Motor Car and Vehicle Corporation has broken a precedent of several years and is making an advance showing of that particular type in the display rooms of many of their distributors, instead of waiting for the New York show.

"The new car is particularly wanted now for use as a closed car, because of weather conditions," said Fred Weber of the Weber Implement and Auto Co., the local National dealer, "and naturally people wish to see it now instead of in January—they wish to be driving it then. It is a refinement of everything that the National has turned out. Its beauty and luxury as a closed car and its range and activity as an open car have been enhanced by the never-ending effort to select finest material and procure highest workmanship."

The Hudson Transcontinental Car

SHOWING F. A. Flint, sales manager; L. M. Papin of the Hudson-Phillips Motor Car Co., in the Hudson Super-Six, Transcontinental car. This car made the world's cross-country, from Frisco to New York, in 5 days, 2 hours, 31 minutes, and made the return trip from New York to Frisco in 5 days, 11 hours, 32 minutes, taking 10 days, 15 hours, 2 minutes for a distance of over 7000 miles. To make this record it was necessary to make better than 45 miles an hour average speed the entire distance. This remarkable performance was made by the regular stock Super-Six Phaeton, the only extra equipment being a tank of water and an extra tank of lubricating oil. The Hudson-Phillips Motor Car Co. consider themselves fortunate to have this wonderful car on exhibit at this time, as it has created much interest among automobile tourists, many of whom have just returned from their Summer vacations.

CASH FOR PARTS AND REPAIRS AFTER DEC. 1

On and after Dec. 1, 1917, a system of absolute cash is to be instituted by the automobile trade of St. Louis for all repairs made on automobiles and for parts furnished. This decision was reached at a meeting of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers' and Dealers' Association, held at the City Club, Tuesday night, and the vote thereon was unanimous.

The matter was discussed at great length by a number of the members, and in every instance the statement was made that losses through non-payment of repair and parts bills by customers had been enormous in St. Louis, and the general feeling was, since all losses must be paid by somebody, that the man who pays his bills is the man who really is paying for the repairs and parts of the men who do not pay their bills. It was therefore considered no more than justice to prompt-paying customers that all persons be required to pay.

It is believed that this will not work a hardship on anyone, since it is to be instituted by every concern in St. Louis and therefore there can be no hardship on any particular dealer.

FRANKLIN PRODUCING FIFTY-THREE CARS A DAY

Breaking production records is getting to be a habit with the Franklin Automobile Company, and this condition seems particularly expected these days when the demand for this economical car has so greatly increased.

Only a few weeks ago the Company reported a factory production record of 285 cars per week, and now comes the announcement that 294 cars, an average of 53.4 cars per day for the 5½ working days of the week, have been constructed in a single week. Since the fall schedule calls for 242 cars per week, it is apparent that the producers are striving at least to keep ahead of the schedule outlined for them, even if they cannot quite keep pace with the sales demand for the Franklin Car.

COUGH NEARLY GONE IN 24 HOURS

That's the Usual Experience With This Home-Made Remedy. Costs Little—Try It.

Anyone who tries this pleasant-tasting home-made cough syrup will quickly understand why it is used in more homes in the United States and Canada than any other cough remedy. The way it takes hold of an obstinate cough, giving immediate relief, will make you regret that you never tried it before.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex (60 cents' worth). Pour this into a pint bottle and add the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 65 cents and you have a full pint of the most effective remedy you have ever used.

It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask for 2½ ounces of Pinex, with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ACCESSORY MEN WILL INTERCHANGE VIEWS

A "business interchange" meeting is to be held by the Motor Accessory Trade Association at the City Club, the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 27. President Marvin, John L. Stanford and L. E. Allmon are in charge of the program, which will consist of a musical program furnished by the Aeolian company, the election of a new director in place of A. C. Cornell, resigned, and addresses by L. A. Safford of the McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Co., A. R. Chappell of the Imperial Oil Co. and Capt. John Berry of the Berry Automobile Co., the latter on "Ballooning in War Time."

TIRE MEN CONFER.

The Federal Rubber Co. of Cudahy, Wis., is numbered among the big manufacturing institutions of this country which realize the benefits derived by bringing together all of its district managers and representatives for general conference on sales and advertising plans for the coming year. This year's convention of Federal Rubber district managers and representatives continued for four days, during which time there was not an idle moment for any one of the 65 men who had journeyed to Cudahy from all sections of the United States.

ALL MARION-HANDLEY PRICES ADVANCE DEC. 1

Announcing—to Those Who Desire Individuality in Motor Cars—the Arrival of The ROAMER

America's Smartest Car

You can ransack the country and not find another car like the ROAMER—there never has been an American car so distinctly beautiful. The proof of this statement lies in a single glance at the ROAMER cars that are on display at our show room.

There are other automobiles in the United States which are as well built as the ROAMER, because it is no difficult matter to build a good automobile when it is to be sold above a certain price, but none that has the ROAMER'S beauty, distinction and individuality. And besides beauty of exterior the ROAMER has a chassis which compels admiration from seasoned motorists—from experienced drivers who know the throb and thrill of driving a real motor car. You can go over the ROAMER from radiator cap to tail light and you will find its units are composed of the outstanding names of America's manufacturers.

No matter in what company a ROAMER is driven or parked it demands admiration. While its beauty is not dependent, on wire wheels, individual painting or special upholstery, the ROAMER offers you your individual choice of these, without extra cost.

Priced at $2095, f. o. b., factory, the ROAMER offers you the completest equipment, including a fifth wire wheel.

FREE TO SUFFERERS OF CATARRH

I Want Every Catarrh Sufferer TO KNOW How I Cured MYSELF of Catarrh!

Are You Disgusted With Your Lack of Success in Relieving Your Catarrh? If You Are, Send Me Your Name and I'll Tell You Absolutely FREE How I Conquered My Stubborn Case of Catarrh. You Will Thank Me All Your Living Days for This Offer I Am Making You. Don't Wait—Every Day Delays Your Happiness.

UNLIKE ANYTHING YOU EVER HEARD OF BEFORE

The secret treatment is different from anything you ever heard of before. No salves, lotions, jellies, ointments, pastes, greases, sprays, atomizers, nebulizers, no masks, plasters, bandages, baths; no massage, electricity or vibratory treatments; no smoke to inhale; no surgery; no instruments, appliances or devices; no pain, no operation; none of the old time-worn methods, but a simple, easy, pleasant, invisible way that heals twenty-four hours a day no matter where you are or what may be your occupation. A secret worth a fortune to you that I give you absolutely free.

I Have Tried Dozens of Remedies, I Doctored for Years, I Fought to Rid Myself of Catarrh By All Means I Could Find, But Nothing Helped Me. Has This Been Your Experience? Then Write Me AT ONCE.

Hawking, Spitting, Coughing and Foul Breath Due to Catarrh are Disgusting to All!

The catarrh sufferer has my sympathy. He has much to suffer, physically and mentally. I have seen the loved ones of the catarrh sufferer turn away in disgust at his foul breath, his hawking, spitting, coughing, strangling. It creates repulsion. Strangers glare at him and avoid him. Socially he is an outcast—a thing so disgusting that even close friends turn their backs on him. Instead of sympathizing with the victim who is suffering from the effects of this horrible disease, they shun him as they would the plague, for they know that he is a scatterer of disease germs—a danger, a menace to all.

It is bad enough to be a sufferer, but to be avoided, shunned by friends and strangers, adds a mental torture to the physical anguish. The terrible feature of catarrh is that it starts so mildly. When catarrh first grips you it is only a trifling thing. You ignore it. It is merely annoying and you think it will pass away like a cold. That is when you should start treating it—RIGHT AWAY. But you don't. You neglect it and every day it grows worse.

Pretty soon you wake up in the morning with head and throat filled with filthy mucus. You strangle, you cough and spit and hawk to clear head and throat. Then it begins to spread. You swallow the disgusting stuff and your stomach becomes infected.

The progress of the disease, then becomes more marked. You begin to suffer from deafness, head noises manifest themselves; your breath becomes tainted; the senses of smell and taste become less sensitive; headaches follow; your digestion is impaired; your nerves are affected; your circulation becomes bad; the poison enters your system. You are then a chronic catarrh victim, unfit to do your life work; weakened physically and mentally; suffering tortures; abhorred like a leper; a thing unfit to associate with your fellow-beings. Not even pitied! Truly, catarrh is a plague.

And the shame of it is that catarrh is curable. It is a miserable sacrifice to ignorance—an ignorance that is truly criminal, for the catarrh victim spreads the disease. The mother gives it to her children; the coughers, spitters, sneezers scatter broadcast the infectious germs. They don't mean to, but they do. And every new victim adds new victims. It is an endless chain of horror, clamping mankind in a horrible network of disgusting infection.

I said ignorance caused it. It is true, for ignorance of this simple secret I hold makes it possible for catarrh to endure. Why not banish this ignorance? Let me tell you this secret. Let me show you the simple, easy way to banish your catarrh as I cured mine, as I have taught thousands to cure their catarrh.

I don't ask you to send me a cent. Just send me your name and I'll tell you all. I'll show you the quick road to recovered health. Don't waste time and hard-earned money for worthless stuff that won't help you. Let me send you FREE this priceless secret that has already done so much for catarrh sufferers.

I Was a Sufferer From Catarrh For Years, Now I Am a WELL MAN!

The Sufferings, Physical and Mental, That I Endured in Three Years Were Horrible. Then I Learned How to Cure Myself. I told My Friends and They Were Cured. You Can Conquer Your Catarrh the Same Way. I'll Tell You How Absolutely Free. I Want Every Catarrh Victim to Write to Me.

I AM THE LIVING PROOF THAT CATARRH IS CURABLE

Some people say that catarrh cannot be cured. I am a living, healthy proof that it can be cured, for I cured myself and have had no more trouble from this terrible and most objectionable disease.

I not only cured myself, but this treatment cured my friends and have told thousands, who testify that they are cured. I wish you could read with me the letters of gratitude I receive from those who thank me for having rescued them from the horrors of this disease. They are a glorious reward for my efforts to stamp out this loathsome disease. Write to me today and I'll tell you my secret.

One Happy Day I Tried This New Secret Method and In 24 Hours I Felt Relief. I Am Now Absolutely FREE of All Catarrh Trouble. You Can Conquer Your Catarrh as I Have. Let Me Tell You How.

Catarrh is a Most Dangerous Disease Affecting Whole Human System!

Don't fool yourself with the idea that catarrh is a harmless disease. It isn't. It is a real danger and menace. Ask any doctor about it.

Not only physical suffering, but humiliation and mental distress were my lot for years. In that time I tried everything I heard of. I spent a small fortune for remedies, for medical treatments, for so-called cures. I tried salves, jellies, lotions, sprays, atomizers, ointments, masks, massage, electricity, smoking, inhaling the fumes of burning chemicals, vibratory treatments, snuffing snuff, douches, appliances, etc., etc. But nothing helped me.

I had almost given up hope when I ran across a secret treatment that appealed to me. It was simple, easy, convenient, inexpensive and painless. I tried it and in 24 hours I could notice a real improvement. In a week I was much better—in a short time I was completely cured.

I was so delighted I told my friends about it. They tried it and they were cured. I told others, strangers, and they were cured. I will gladly tell you of my secret if you are a catarrh sufferer. Don't send me a cent. Just fill out the coupon and I'll tell you how I cured myself. I don't want you to think I am a doctor, or a chemist or a scientist. I am not. I am just a plain business man. I have found that I can help others so I make you this offer.

Smoke Inhalation Expels Catarrh

Send Ten Cents for Trial Outfit

There must be readers suffering from chronic catarrh who would like to know how they can stop catching cold after cold, for they must realize that sooner or later this may lead to serious deafness and injury to the system in general.

Sound advice is to stop taking medicine into the stomach, saving the throat or putting salve in the nose, none of which leads far back enough into the head and lungs. Dr. J. W. Roeser, Box 281, Atlanta, Ga., a successful specialist in catarrh, is the discoverer of a new and direct method that can be used by man, woman or child.

His remedy is not an ointment, spray, salve, pill or tablet, but is made from medicinal herbs, which you smoke in a daisy pipe or cigarette and inhale the vapor into all the air passages. It contains no tobacco, even though it is used in the same manner.

Dr. Roeser's Remedy is amazingly effective in all forms of catarrh, bronchitis, inflammation, throat, head, chest, asthma and troubles that may lead to deafness. You will breathe better and feel better after using it.

Send your name with ten cents in coin or stamp to a trial outfit (monthly supply, either form, one dollar), which will be sent by mail. You will receive some of the Remedy for smoking in a pipe, a neat little pipe and a daisy pipe and cigarette, so you can decide which form you like best.

NOTE—Dr. Roeser's Catarrh Remedy is sold in "5-Drops" and found relief from the torture and agonizing pains caused by rheumatic conditions is the best evidence of its remarkable power.

Mrs. E. Higgins, Ashland, Ky., writes: "I suffered with rheumatism for over fifteen months. Just two bottles of your wonderful '5-Drops' has made a new man of me."

Steve Brownlee, Appleton, Ark., writes: "I suffered with rheumatism for over fifteen months. Just two bottles of your wonderful '5-Drops' has made a new man of me."

Harry Stafford, No. Baltimore, O., writes: "I had rheumatism in my knees and ankles and tried all sorts of highly recommended remedies, but to no avail until a friend told me to try '5-Drops'. I used about three quarters of a bottle of '5-Drops' and am as well as usual."

"5-Drops" is sold by the leading druggists in every part of the United States and Canada.

FREE A sample bottle will be mailed free, if you will write to the Swanson Company, Newark, O.

AMERICA WANTS AGREEMENT OVER CARE OF PRISONERS

Opens Negotiations to Secure Good Treatment for Men Germany Captures.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The United States has opened negotiations with Germany for an agreement to govern the treatment of prisoners of war taken by either nation. This is being done with the hope of securing the best possible conditions for Americans taken prisoner on the battle front, and to show Germany how well German prisoners in the United States are being treated.

Already, through the Red Cross at Geneva, the United States has begun forwarding food and other necessities to Americans held in Germany, of whom there are now more than 100. It is realized that as the American troops increase in numbers on the battle front, more prisoners are bound to find their way to the German prison camps. A nation pinched for food for itself, probably will feed its enemy prisoners last. To lighten the confinement of the prisoners who will have to undergo the hardship of prison camps will at the same time alleviate the suffering of families at home, which naturally will be distressed at accounts of German brutality and underfeeding of their enemy prisoners.

U. S. Pays Prisoners It Holds. German military prisoners of war in the United States receiving every necessity and comfort, have the pay and privileges of their rank in the United States army and navy. They are housed in model sanitary camps and recently one of the prisoners sent a letter to his prospective wife in Germany wrote that the pay he would accumulate during his imprisonment would not only permit him to retire from the navy, but would set him up in a little business as well.

Photographs showing the comfortable surroundings of interned German prisoners in this country have been forwarded to Germany by the War Department through the State Department and a neutral agent. They are intended to show that interned Germans are well treated by the United States and to reveal the expectation of the United States that similar consideration will be shown American soldiers and sailors who may be captured by Germany.

Two classes of German prisoners are detained in this country. One is comprised of German sailors taken into custody when the United States interned various vessels at the beginning of the war. The other class is comprised of enemy aliens, civilians who have been arrested and are now being detained under governmental regulations for various reasons.

850 at Fort McPherson. The principal detention camp is at Fort McPherson, Ga., where approximately 850 prisoners of war are held in custody of the War Department. At Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., there are 165 enemy aliens, who are not, strictly speaking, prisoners of war.

At Fort Douglas, Utah, there are 517 prisoners of war and 80 interned aliens. Small detachments of other interned aliens are temporarily quartered at army posts throughout the country, but their number is relatively small. In addition, the Department of Labor has in custody several hundred Germans, members of the crews of various merchant ships. This group is divided between the immigration station at Ellis Island and a detention camp at Hot Springs, N. C.

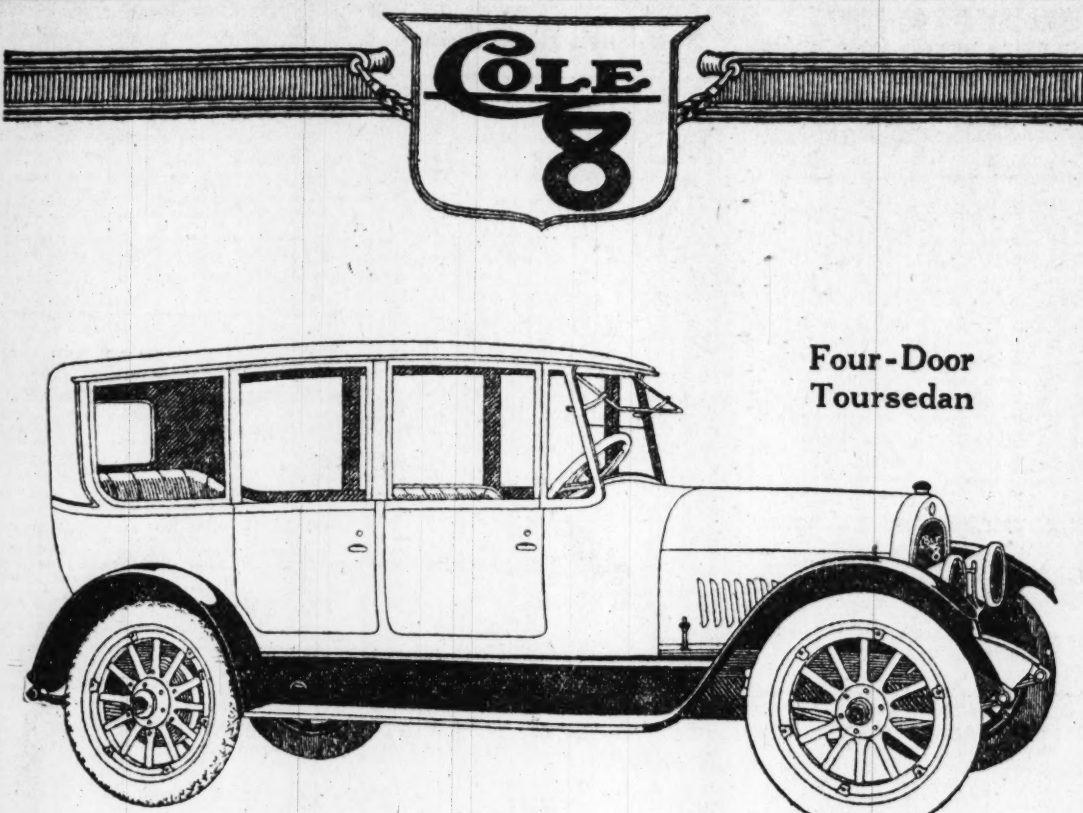

Altogether there are 1364 actual prisoners of war in custody of the War Department and about 400 interned enemy aliens held at the request of the Department of Justice. Of this number about three score are located at Taboga Island, Panama. It is estimated that Germany is now holding 150 sailors taken from American ships by commerce raiders and other German vessels, besides the first prisoners taken from Gen. Pershing's forces.

Approved by Representative. A representative of the Swiss legation, the war time diplomatic representative of Germany in this country, recently inspected the detention camps at Fort McPherson and Fort Oglethorpe. Conditions at both camps were reported satisfactory by the Swiss representative.

The detained Germans wherever located in the United States are considerably treated and are not given rigorous task. Duties assigned are strictly in accord with international law. Their work has been confined to construction of barracks, the cleaning up of grounds about the camps and light road work about their barracks. Some of the German prisoners at Fort McPherson are engaged in making toys in their ample spare time.

Reading and recreation facilities are provided and the photographs collected from the several detention camps show German prisoners going through outdoor gymnastic exercises and staging amateur plays on improvised stages in the recreation rooms. The quarters for the German prisoners are much like those provided in the cantonments for the American soldiers.

The set of photographs transmitted to the German Government shows both exterior and interior views of the detention camps. The sleeping quarters are roomy and clean and the sanitary arrangements from kitchen to bath rooms, are modern and not unlike those provided by the United States at the national army camps.

For a Fair Street Railway Settlement

The "Purchase Price" as a Settlement Factor

This Company wants the people of St. Louis to understand thoroughly every angle of the proposed street railway settlement. We want public approval for a fair settlement, so that we may have public good will and co-operation in developing the street railway service under the terms of the settlement. With this purpose we quote the following Post-Dispatch editorial published November 6:

AN UNWISE U. R. PROVISIO

"Among other proposals that should be scrutinized with exceptional care in the tentative aldermanic agreement with the United Railways is the one relating to City ownership.

"The $60,000,000 specified in the plan of settlement represents something more than the sum on which the Company's security holders are to be permitted to draw interest at 6% in the division of Company receipts.

"It represents also the basic sum which the City must pay for the United Railways properties, in the event that it ever decides to purchase them, and to this sum must be added the cost of any improvements and extensions subsequent to the date of the ordinance's approval.

"Now, of course, circumstances may be such that the City will never desire to buy these properties and engage in the experiment of operating a traction company under public auspices.

"However, when the new Charter was adopted it was wisely decided to include full authorization for such purchase and control. The authorization was held to place in the hands of the City a valuable power in dealing with utilities, even though never invoked in its entirety.

"But the usefulness of this power will be greatly curtailed if the City's hands are tied in advance for a period of 31 years in the most essential detail of any public ownership project.

"If $60,000,000 receives any mention at all in the clause, it should be in a stipulation that the City should not pay more than that sum, plus improvement costs, and that the actual price should be determined by appraisement.

"Many changes may take place in the course of 31 years. The sum of $60,000,000 is considerably in excess of any actual values that can be found now in United Railways assets. Why compel the City to pay more than any other interest would pay now, and give the proviso force during a lifetime of possible fluctuations in value? Why impair the usefulness of the gun behind the door?"

It is the City, not the Company, that insists on naming a purchase price in the ordinance. The Company does not wish to sell, to the City nor anyone else. The Company would not accept, nor would our security holders approve, a less valuation than $60,000,000 in the ordinance, for these reasons:

1—Our own consulting engineer, a man of the highest professional rank, using valuation methods employed by State Utility Commissions generally, found a capital value as of January 1, 1917, of $77,000,000.

2—The City's consulting engineer, after excluding many items of plant investment, cutting down others, and rejecting intangible values, found a capital value of $60,000,000.

3—These properties could not be reproduced as they stand today for a great deal more than $60,000,000. No utility engineer of national standing will challenge this statement.

4—No private investor or group of investors could buy the Company's properties today for the $60,000,000 value established by the City's engineer, nor for a good many millions more than that. An attempt to buy control in the open market would speedily establish the fact that current market prices of our stocks and bonds, (based on small-lot trades and reflecting the City Government's oppressive policies), utterly misrepresent the true value of the properties as a whole.

The City is asking the Company, by accepting a settlement ordinance, to give it the right to buy the street railways. THAT RIGHT THE CITY DOES NOT NOW POSSESS.

If the City insists upon obtaining the right to buy, at the end of 10 years and of every 5-year term during the life of the ordinance, the Company for its own protection must insist upon an agreed price not less than the true value of the properties. We feel that in accepting a City valuation $17,000,000 below our own, we sacrifice as much as the City can possibly ask us to.

Our security holders, including a great number of St. Louis men and women, have seen more than $20,000,000 of the market value of their property temporarily confiscated by extortionate City taxes and by unjust, unnecessary City attacks on our permits to do business. They naturally have no desire to expose their investments in these properties to the risk of further confiscatory legislation.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH'S REVIEW OF MARKET CONDITIONS

FOREIGN POLITICAL NEWS CAUSES WIDE DECLINE IN WALL STREET STOCK LIST

Standard Shares Are 3 to 7 Points Lower on the Week's Trading.

CURB ISSUES ALSO OFF

Outside Market Is Influenced by Break on the Stock Exchange.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"In reviewing the action of our markets, it would be difficult to say just how far to discontinue the new and heavy burdens placed on home resources by the war taxation program and the war loans, and how far the news from Continental Europe has been a primary influence."

"The great decline in prices began when Cadorna was advancing into Austrian territory, and when Kerensky still held control at Petrograd, and it reached its immediate culmination so rapidly that the market actually recovered after the Russian news. But a broad view of the whole movement leads to the conclusion that both sets of influences really worked in combination."

"The earlier fall was occasioned quite as much by uncertainty over prospective fiscal burdens as by the character of existing statistics, and the news from Continental Europe gave at least some ground for expecting further requisitions."

"The country is perfectly able to bear whatever increased burden the Italian and Russian developments will impose upon it; but the character of the situation now makes one change in policy, at Washington, preposterous. Our Government can no longer justify or safely refuse to adopt the practice of every other strong belligerent, and introduce an intelligent budget system, thoroughly and scientifically prepared, with a view both to estimated cost of the war and to an orderly scheme of taxation which will meet it."

"There is no longer any time to waste in haphazard estimates, which are increased by two or three thousand millions every fortnight, or in bills which are introduced from the forth with parliamentary sleight of hand between committee and House, House and Senate, and Senate and Conference Committee, with a wholly new bill emerging on each occasion, with Congress using up half a year in constructing a tax bill which even Congress finds it difficult to stand in the way of the work in this regard hereafter, ought to be done at least as promptly as the similar work has been done with vastly greater efficiency and with a minimum of confusion of complaint, by the British Parliament."

"It is also entirely too late now for quarrels on the floor of Congress, as to whether we ought not to have taxes which will 'punish' somebody. Our present and contemplated business is to raise the money with the least disturbance to the sources of supply and the country's industries. The problem of soothing or controlling the Bolsheviki ought now, at any rate, to be resigned to Russia."

"The steadiness of the Stock Exchange, in the face of the later developments at Petrograd, is not without interest. It will doubtless be said that the seizure of Government by the Russian I. W. W. has in a way been discounted by the market, and that the immediate reflection of that news belonged to the market for Russian exchange and Russian bonds. Yet it is also possible to infer that financial judgment is not wholly pessimistic over that situation."

"Some Ancient History."

"It is true enough that historical precedent of an unpleasant sort exists. A club in Paris did hold the Government of France during a series of years after the great French Revolution, and only lost when the shyetel lawyers and gutter journalists, who were running the Government, sent one another to the guillotine."

"France had been reading Rousseau. But the 'Terror' had at least the argument of invasion by nearly all other powerful foreign armies, to put down the revolution of royalist insurrection, and of spies in Paris to watch the revolutionary terror."

"The Russian terrorists are talking of police with the enemy, that is on Russian soil, and the chief mouthpiece of the Bolsheviki Government is himself a man suspected of German spy. Not one of these dictators of the moment has been chosen by the Russian people in an election; they are as patently usurpers as if Harwood and Johnson had seized the Capitol at Washington."

"It may be that the Stock Exchange is voicing its own incredulity over the possibility that such a regime, with its series of self-contradictory propositions, can survive a countermove by the forces of public order. As to this, we shall soon learn the truth; events do not wait for our incredulity."

"The stock list closed 3 to 7 points lower on the week's dealings. Yesterday's market was steady."

$800,000 HOTEL PLANNED TO FACE UNION STATION

Chicago Capital Said to Be Behind Project for Structure at 18th and Market Streets in Which 700 Rooms Will All Be Outside Ones.

"LIBERTY HOTEL," NAME SELECTED

Negotiations Pending for Pretentious Improvement of Three Strategic Business Corners, Success for Two of Which Is Held to Be Reasonably Assured.

By Berry Moore.

Real estate interests are watching with manifest interest the outcome of negotiations which involve the up-building on a pretentious scale of three strategic corners in the retail and wholesale districts, and which, in two instances, give promise of realization.

The most important of these projects looks to the erection of a hotel at the southeast corner of Eighteenth and Market streets, the cost of which, as now proposed, will approximate $800,000.

This structure, which will be known as the Liberty Hotel, according to tentative plans prepared by the architects, Barnett, Haynes & Barnett, will be of 13 stories and will comprise 700 guest rooms, each equipped with a bath. All will be outside rooms, 10 feet having been allotted on the east side of the building for light and ventilation.

As a hotel structure, the Liberty will be unique in that it will be 312 feet long and only 50 feet wide, not including the 10-foot driveway on the east. The rooms will be located on each side of a central corridor. The main entrance, which will face Eighteenth street for the entire length of the building, will face the entrance to the midway of Union Station on the same thoroughfare.

The dining room will be situated at the south end of the building, and a ladies' parlor on the Market street side, while the bar, with an extensive lunch counter, will be located on the first floor, accessible from the main entrance to the lobby, which will occupy an area of 50x150 feet.

The structure will be of reinforced concrete and entirely fireproof. The Georgian period of architecture, with a color scheme of red brick adapted for it.

Chicago Capital Behind Project. The building is to be erected by Chicago interests, which, according to George B. Barnett Jr., are endeavoring to arrange with its owner the details of a 99-year lease of the site. The St. Louis Brewing Association owns the entire block bounded by Market, Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, including the southeast corner of Eighteenth and Market streets, having 60 feet on Market street and 330 feet on Eighteenth street.

Some time ago plans were disclosed for a hotel of the towering type, to embrace this entire block. Another plan contemplated a three-story building for similar purpose to cover the same block.

The site has a commanding position with regard to the proposed Union Station Park and plaza, which is being advocated by the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange and of which John A. Watkins is the leading spirit.

Mercantile interests are negotiating, through the Mercantile Trust Co., for the west half of the Lionberger block, fronting Eighteenth street and extending from Pine to Chestnut street. This site is desired for a five-story commercial building. While the proposition under consideration by Lionberger is attractive from an investment viewpoint, he is aware, it is understood, to leasing less than the entire block. Plans for the conversion of the Victoria Building, occupying a quarter of a block at the northeast corner of Eighth and Locust streets into a hotel and for the erection, as a collateral feature, of a theater at the southeast corner of St. Charles and Chestnut streets, are rapidly nearing completion. The Federal Hotel and Real Estate Co., recently incorporated, is behind both projects, the execution of the theater project hanging upon the success of the hotel plan, which, it is declared, is on the even of consummation.

Negotiations involving these holdings have been conducted through Williams & Bland, agents for the Victoria Building, and the Gibson-Ketchum Real Estate Co., and R. King Kaufman, real estate officer and vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co.

Pettingill Apartments Nearing Completion and Renting Rapidly

THE Pettingill Apartments, located on the south side of Berlin avenue, just east of De Bellue street, in one of the most exclusive residence districts in the city, overlooking Forest Park, is nearing completion.

The building is a fireproof construction and contains 96 two and three room apartments, comprising living room, dressing room, kitchen, bath, tiled bath with tub and shower, equipped with Pullman corner refrigerator and china cabinet. There are also commodious halls, making all outside rooms and insuring perfect ventilation and excellent light. The building fronts 205 feet on Berlin avenue, is four stories high and equipped with two electric elevators. On the first floor there will be maintained for use of tenants a commodious lounge room, also up-to-date restaurant at popular prices. The building is owned by the University Investment Co., and will be under the management of the Oregon & R. Scott agency, which reports reservations made for more than 40 of the apartments.

As to the arrangement of the suites, I am not in position to speak," said Bright to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday, after he had made a thorough inspection of the building at the request of Sam Hamburg Jr., the prime mover of the project. "As I am not in position to speak," said Bright to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday, after he had made a thorough inspection of the building at the request of Sam Hamburg Jr., the prime mover of the project.

The building is of solid construction, of reinforced concrete, and is almost proof against deterioration. In fact, such wear and tear to which the building will be subject the next few years will be negligible. One living in a building like the Westmoreland will have the satisfaction of knowing that he is well housed.

The Westmoreland comprises 77 suites, ranging from two to four rooms, each provided with a bath, and are being leased furnished or unfurnished. Two-thirds of the apartments have been leased for two years.

The building is situated in the heart of the ultra-fashionable residential district of the West End and occupies a site overlooking Forest Park. It has three electric elevators and a roof garden.

Bright is well known as the builder of the Cupples block and the Washington University buildings, as well as the Third National Bank and other high-class structures. He is now completing a large addition to the Cupples block at Seventh street and Clark avenue.

MERCANTILE TRUST'S RENT LIST IS ALMOST BARREN

Manager of That Department for Company Says Condition Means Permanently Higher Value of Realty as Investment Medium.

Eugene Christy, manager of the rental department of the Mercantile Trust Co., is jubilant over the fact that there is not a vacancy in any apartment, business building, warehouse or factory under the trust company's management.

"We have only two or three vacant dwellings on our list," said Christy, "while the vacant flats in our charge are comparatively few. The reason for this is that the new growth of the city, and before long abodes in St. Louis will be scarce, to say the least."

"The cessation of building is, of course, due to the advanced cost of building material and construction, the lowering prices of which promise to be maintained for a long time. This condition of affairs will accentuate the attractiveness of real estate as a medium of investment, owing to the fact that all property will be on a higher and permanent level. There were not only comparatively few vacancies, but many flats and apartments are being rented at advanced figures."

St. Louis, which promises to be on an extensive scale. "Residential construction, especially in the apartment and flat centers, is not keeping pace with the new growth of the city, and before long abodes in St. Louis will be scarce, to say the least."
